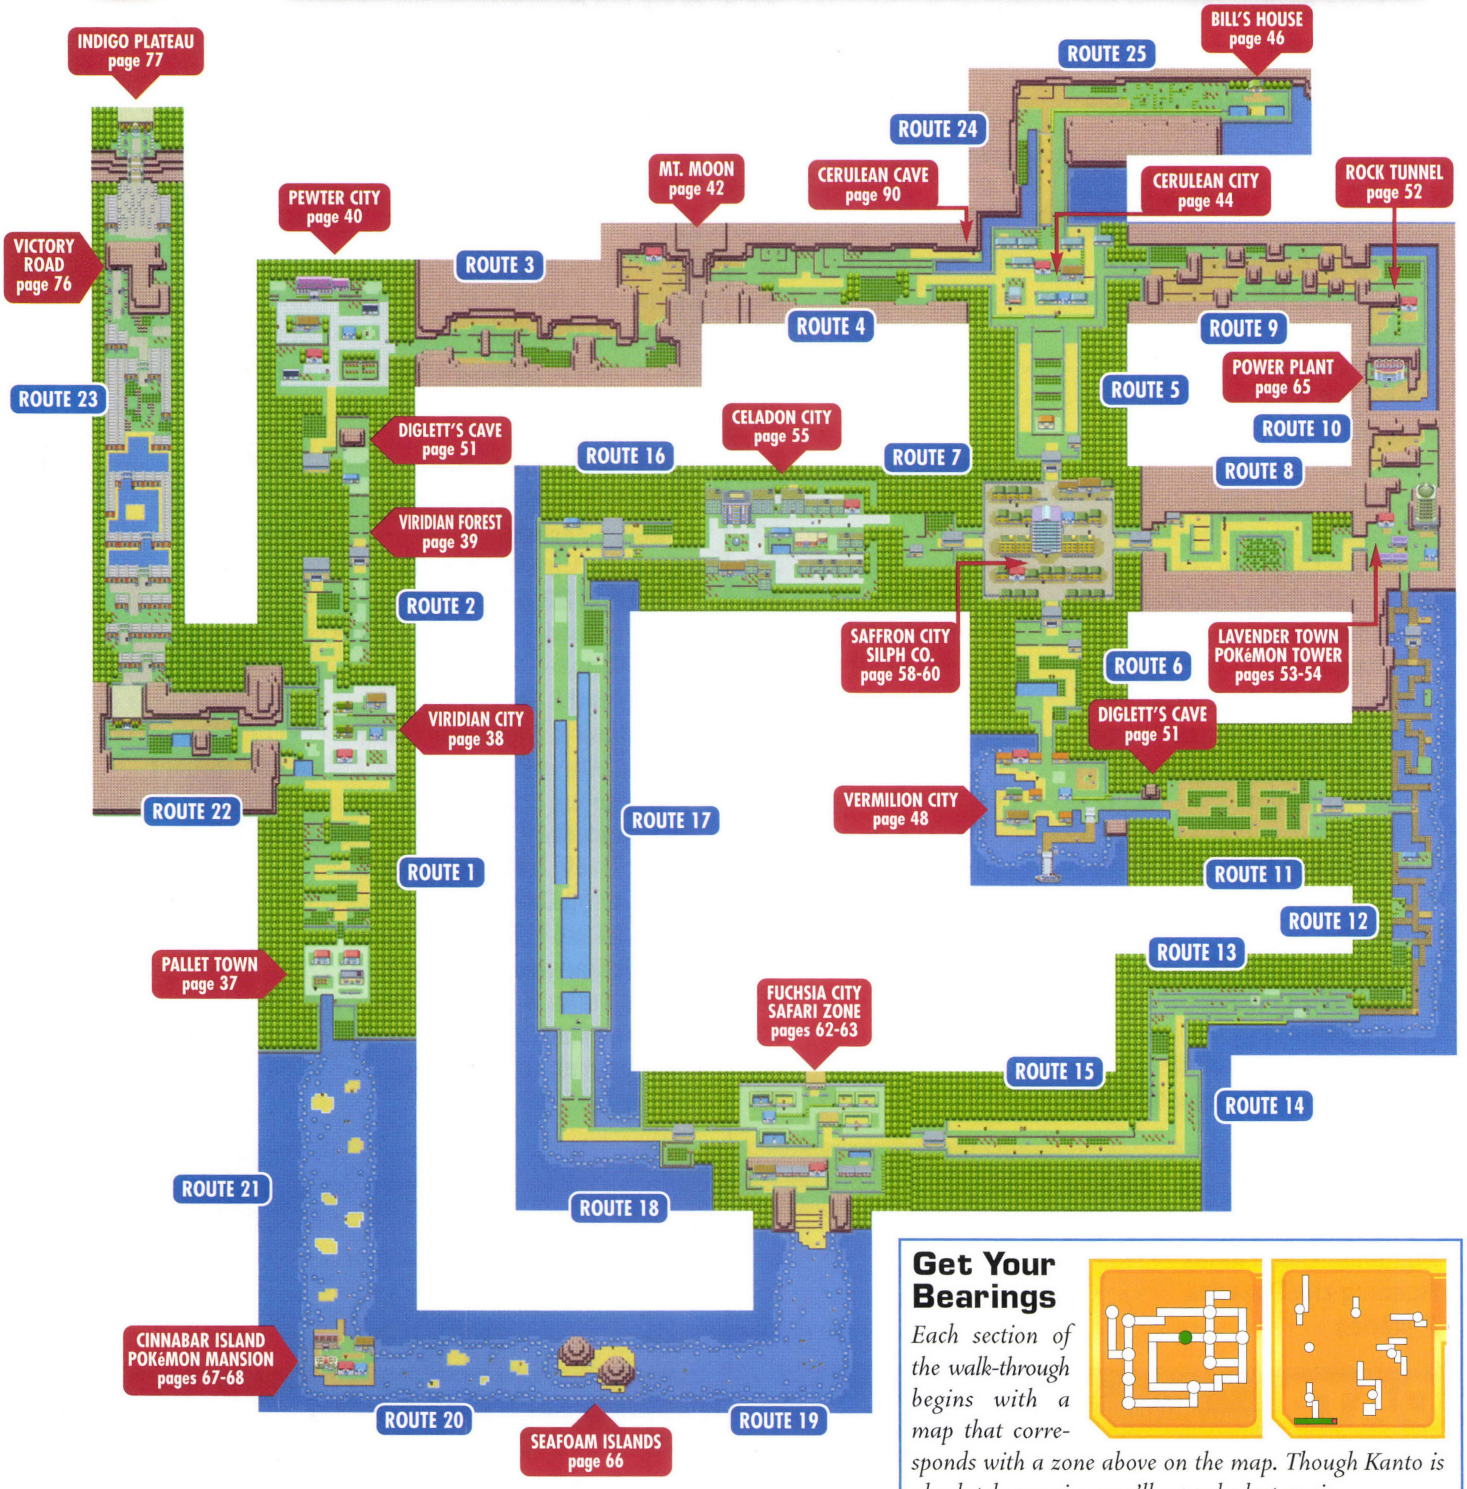
MAP OF KANTO AND THE SEVII ISLANDS

When you first brave certain routes and cities, you'll proceed in a linear fashion, but eventually all of Kanto and the Sevii Islands will open for your full, free exploration. Use the maps on these pages to find your way around the region—and your Player's Guide.



Get Your Bearings

Each section of the walk-through begins with a map that corresponds with a zone above on the map. Though Kanto is absolutely massive, you'll never be lost again.

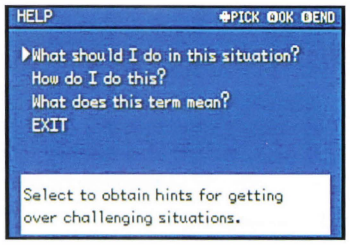
TAKING CONTROL OF YOUR DESTINY

Pokémon FireRed and Pokémon LeafGreen pack in so much epic gameplay that you'll want to know the game controls like the back of your hand. The menu systems, from the Pokédex to the inventory, offer an amazing amount of versatility. Learn your way around the controls—you'll be well on your way to becoming the ultimate Pokémon Trainer.

L Button

Press the L Button to bring up a help menu that explains what to do in a particular situation. The menu will change based on what you're doing at the time, but keep in mind that it's not designed to offer specific advice—only general tips.



Once you're in the Help menu, you can read the info by pressing the A Button.

Control Pad

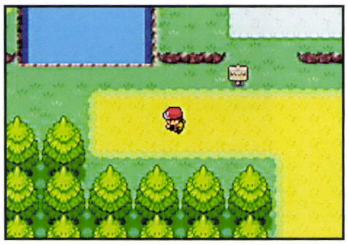
The Control Pad moves your character around and lets you scroll through menus.

A Button

The A Button lets you read signs, talk to townsfolk and generally interact with the world. It also enables you to confirm an action.

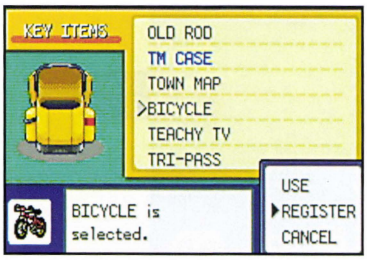
B Button

The B Button cancels an action or backs you out of a menu. Once you get the Running Shoes, you can press and hold B to go zipping around the countryside.



Select Button

You can assign one item to the Select Button by highlighting it in the menu and choosing the Register option. Assign something that you use often, such as the bicycle, town map or Vs. Seeker.



Start Button

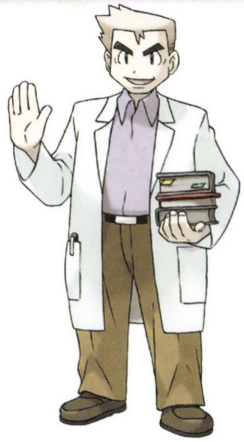
Start pauses the game and opens the main menu, from which you can access all other menus.

KANTO: THE LONG ROAD AHEAD

From the western countryside to the eastern shores, the Kanto region is one of the most amazing in the world of Pokémon. You'll scour its rural routes and climb its highest buildings in search of glory. Along the way, you'll encounter friends, foes and formidable Pokémon Trainers.

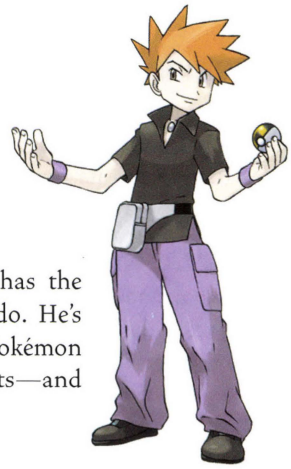
You—The Hero!

All Pokémon Trainers share a passion for catching wild Pokémon and raising them to battle fiercely. And you've set your sights on the ultimate Trainer goal: to become the Pokémon League Champion. You'll start out from Pallet Town with little more than ambition, but soon you'll get your first Pokémon—one of many that will help you achieve your wildest Trainer dreams.



Professor Oak

One of Kanto's brightest minds will give you your first Pokémon and a Pokédex, which records data on any Pokémon that you catch.

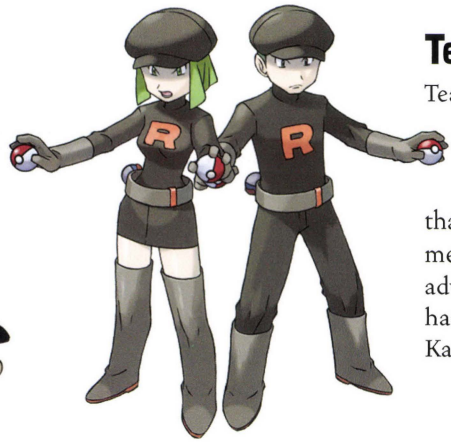


Your Rival

Professor Oak's grandson has the same ambitions that you do. He's determined to become the Pokémon League Champion at all costs—and definitely before you do.

Gym Leaders

There are eight Gym Leaders scattered throughout Kanto's cities, and you'll have to defeat all of them to win the eight Gym Badges that give you access to the Pokémon League Championship. Many Gym Leaders are well-known, like Brock from Pewter City and Misty from Cerulean City, but the final Gym Leader that you'll fight in Viridian City is a mystery—his identity is veiled in secrecy.



Team Rocket

Team Rocket is a criminal organization that wants to use Pokémon to rule the world. Chances are good that you'll bump into its shady members during your long adventure, since Team Rocket has infiltrated many parts of Kanto.

Bill

The inventor of the Pokémon storage system will help you during your quest—and after you're deep into your road trip, he'll also invite you to the Sevii Islands far from Kanto.

Celio

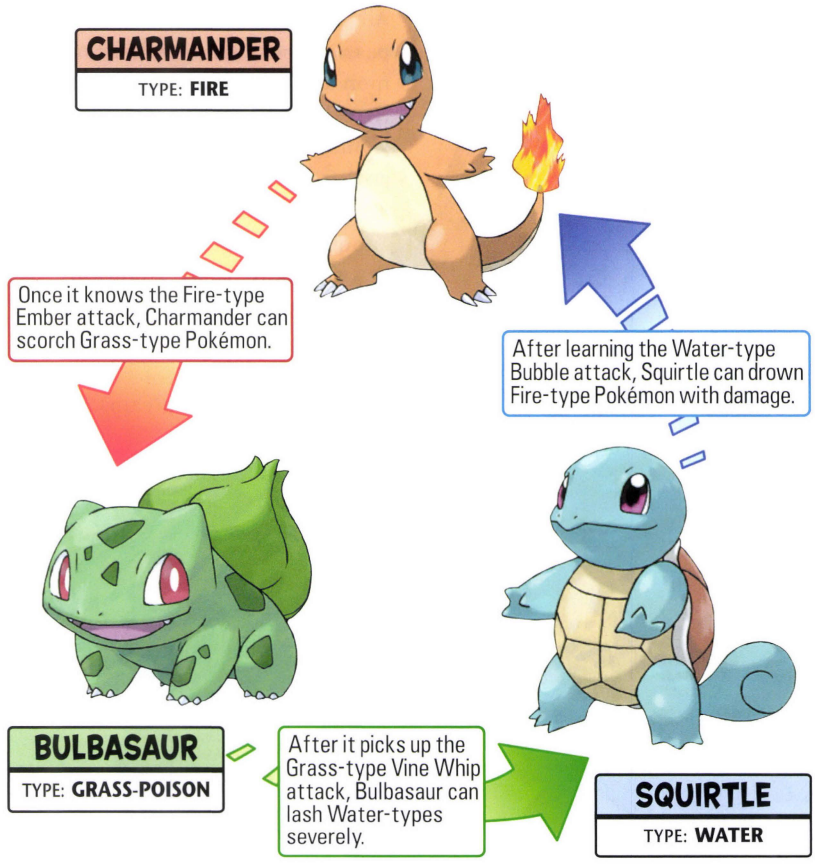
The island chain's genius, Celio, is creating the Network Machine, which will permit trades with other regions. You'll help him in due time—you've got plenty to do first!

POKéMON TYPES & STATISTICS

Some Pokémon Trainers like to rush into battle and dominate instantly. Others take a catlike approach, toying with foes via a complex battle strategy. Whatever your personal style, you'll find Pokémon that will back you up. To size up a Pokémon that you might like for your team, start by thinking about its type and statistics.

The Pokémon Pecking Order

Pokémon are categorized by type, and the 17-type pecking order takes rock-paper-scissors to the extreme. The example to the right provides a glimpse at the way certain Pokémon types run scared from certain attack types.



Pokémon Statistics

You'll also need a sense of how your Pokémon's stats compare to its target's stats. Even if your Pokémon has attack types that trump its target's Pokémon type, it helps even more to have stats that power the strikes.

Attack, Defense & the Special Stats

When a Pokémon hits a foe with a physical attack or a special attack—the next page explains the difference—its Attack or Special Attack stat, respectively, will drive up the damage. The target's Defense or Special Defense stat will decrease the damage.

Hit Points

If a Pokémon runs out of hit points, it will faint out of battle. Until it's healed, it won't be able to participate in any more fights.

Speed

Battles are turn-based, and attack order is determined by Speed stats. A Pokémon with high Speed will strike before one with low Speed.

Pokémon Natures

There are 25 natures, which reveal what kind of personality a Pokémon has—and how its statistics will tend to grow. If you catch two of the same kind of Pokémon—two Spearow, for example—each will probably have a different nature. One may be Bold; its Defense will grow faster. Another may be Rash, which will aid its Special Attack growth. Each nature that has an upside also has a downside, so consult the table to the right to learn how the 25 natures help and hinder growth.

NATURE	EFFECT	NATURE	EFFECT
ADAMANT	ATK + / SP ATK -	LONELY	ATK + / DEF -
BASHFUL	NO EFFECT	MILD	SP ATK + / DEF -

POKéMON BATTLE

When two Pokémon collide in battle, you can predict which will have the natural advantage by keeping the 17-type combat chart close at hand. The chart governs which direct-damage attacks do more or less damage against certain types of Pokémon. Milk the table for every possible advantage—you'll reach the Pokémon League Championship in no time.

The Pokémon Combat Chart

When planning a direct-damage strike, consider your target's Pokémon type then maximize your attack's damage by striking with an attack type to which it's weak (+)—you'll score a double-damage multiplier. Avoid hitting with attack types that the defender can resist (-), or you'll be penalized with a half-damage multiplier. Some Pokémon are dual-types; look up the attack's effect on both attack types, then multiply them together.

Damage Multipliers

x2	Damage for + attacks
x2	Critical-hit damage for lucky strikes
x1.5	Damage if the attack type matches the attacking Pokémon's type
x0.5	Damage for - attacks
x0	Damage for = attacks

PHYSICAL ATTACKS

When slamming a foe with a physical attack (types noted in black), the aggressor's Attack stat pushes the direct damage higher, while the target's Defense stat drives the damage lower.

SPECIAL ATTACKS

Attack Example

Use type-trumping to wear down foes fast. Check out the following scenario to see how Diglett's Ground-type Earthquake can hit damage-multiplier paydirt—and when the attack is a bust.

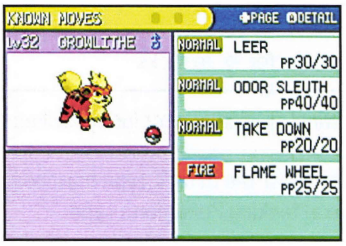
BATTLE MOVES

As you raise a Pokémon, you'll guide its growth into the fiercest possible member of your battle crew. It will have many opportunities to learn new moves. Since a Pokémon can know only four at a time, learning about the diverse kinds of battle moves—from direct-damage attacks to stat-tweaking moves—will help you make the right choices for your team.

Learning New Moves

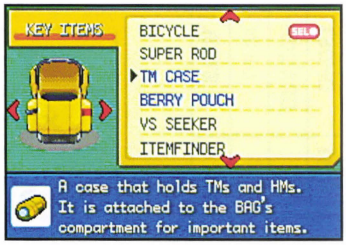
Pokémon can learn new moves in several ways—exploit the sources to the fullest. Which four moves your Pokémon knows will make all the difference in how well it can hold its own in battle, and how well it works with its teammates' moves to blow through your opponent's crew. Not all Pokémon can learn every move—consult the Pokédex, starting on page 93, for the restrictions.

By Leveling Up



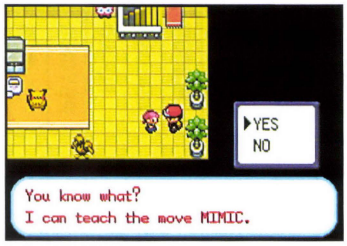
When a Pokémon reaches a specific level, it can learn a move. Trainers usually raise Pokémon to forget low-level moves and learn the high-level ones.

From a TM or HM



You can also use items to teach your Pokémon moves. A Technical Machine (TM) imparts a move only once, but a Hidden Machine (HM) teaches a move to as many Pokémon as you want.

From People



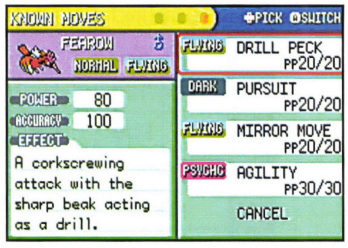
You'll bump into people that teach a certain move to a Pokémon. Choose the recipient carefully. Once the teacher has done his job, he won't offer his services again.

From the Move Tutor

The Move Tutor will help a Pokémon relearn a level-up move that it has forgotten. Lower-level moves can prove to be very powerful later on. Use the Move Tutor to act on your hindsight.

Move Statistics

Pokémon statistics aren't the only numbers that influence battle results. Move stats also impact the action. Consider both banks of statistics when deciding which moves to make, especially when launching direct-damage attacks. For instance, Fearow's Attack stat is much higher than its Special Attack stat, so it will get more bang out of its physical attacks (like its Drill Peck) than its special attacks (like Pursuit).



Power

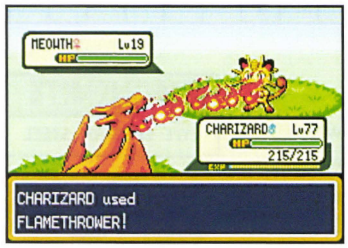
A move's Power shows the relative strength of its direct damage. It's the third and final influence on the exact amount of damage inflicted, along with Attack and Defense (or Special Attack and Special Defense).

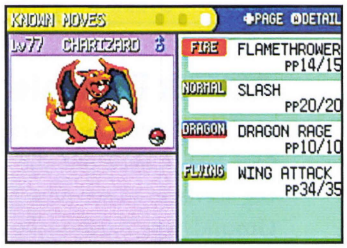
Power Points

A move can be used only a certain number of times. After its Power Points (PP) are depleted, the move can't be used again until the Pokémon recharges its energy.

Accuracy

The Accuracy stat reflects a move's chance of hitting successfully. If a defending Pokémon has raised its evasiveness, any move that comes its way will suffer a cut in Accuracy.



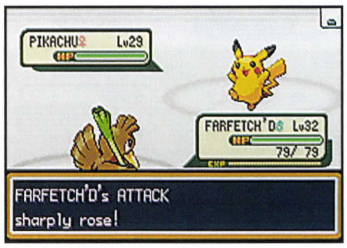


Attacks with high Power often have fewer Power Points, so you'll need to bring out your big guns sparingly. For example, Charizard's Wing Attack has a Power of 60 and 35 Power Points. You can use it much more often than Charizard's Flamethrower, which has a Power of 95 but only 15 Power Points.

Stat-Altering Moves

Some moves tamper with statistics, which affects battles dramatically. A stat can be raised or lowered a total of six steps—each time adding or subtracting much from the stat. Some moves accomplish it one step at a time; others do it two steps at once. Changes persist until the altered Pokémon leaves the field.

Attack & Defense



Change a Pokémon's Attack and Defense to affect direct damage from physical attacks. For instance, Farfetch'd can use Swords Dance to raise its Attack two steps—it can then do more damage with its Slash move.

The Special Stats

Tweak the Special Attack and Special Defense stats to influence the damage from special attacks. Jynx can do much more damage with its Ice Punch after it uses Fake Tears to lower its foe's Special Defense two steps.

Speed & Evasion

Tinker with a Pokémon's Speed stat to make it move earlier or later in battle. You can also make a Pokémon more or less likely to take a blow by altering its evasiveness—Scyther is hard to hit after it uses Double Team a few times.

Countertactics

You can easily undo your foe's stat-tampering mischief by using the Haze move—it sets all Pokémon stats at their normal levels. To restore evasion rates, use the Haze, Foresight or Odor Sleuth move.

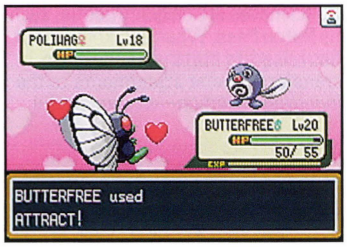
Status-Inflicting Moves

Many moves don't do direct damage; instead they inflict a status condition that is part of a more devious attack strategy. Such moves stop a Pokémon in its tracks or wear down its health over many turns. They're often the most effective strikes to make against foes that can endure or avoid a direct attack to their hit points.

Paralyze

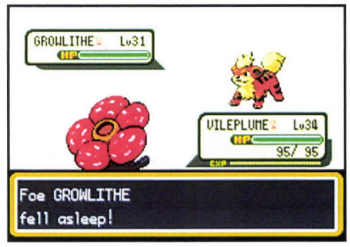
If you smite a Pokémon with a Paralyze condition, it won't be able to take its turn 25% of the time, and its Speed will fall. It's a great way to ensure that you'll attack more often.

Attract



A foe with an Attract condition can't attack 50% of the time. Attract is more powerful than Paralyze, but a Pokémon can Attract only a foe of the opposite gender.

Sleep

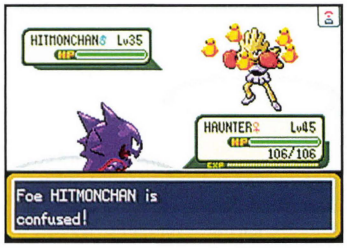


A Sleep condition completely shuts down a Pokémon, but only for several turns. If you need a few turns to roll out a battle strategy, using Sleep on the target will buy you time.

Freeze

A Freeze condition also completely prevents a Pokémon from attacking. It lasts much longer than a Sleep condition, however. The downside: moves that cause Freeze have low Accuracy.

Confuse



If you Confuse a Pokémon, it will sometimes lose its move and hurt itself instead. The condition lasts several turns—plenty of time to gain the momentum.

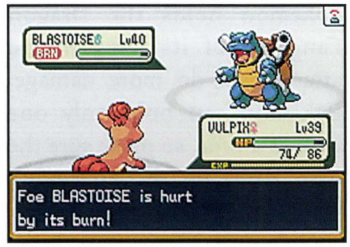
Flinch

Some moves cause the foe to Flinch, losing its move if it strikes second. Flinch is usually a secondary effect of a direct-damage move.

Poison

Slap an enemy with a Poison condition to cause a little damage each turn, which can KO a foe in good time. The Toxic move is better, though—its damage rises exponentially!

Burn



The Burn condition is similar to Poison. It erodes some hit points every turn, but it has an additional effect: it lowers the afflicted Pokémon's Attack stat.

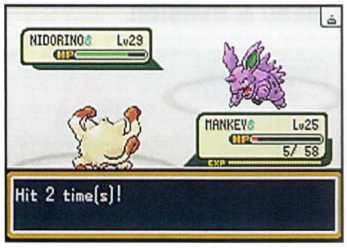
Miscellaneous Moves

Of the hundreds of battle moves in the game, many fall into categories—and many others are in a league all their own. You'll want to exploit them to get around your foes' defenses, especially when you're facing Trainers that tend to use direct-damage moves against your crew.

Recurring Damage

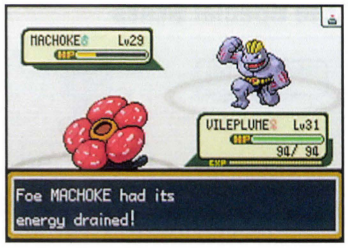
Moves like Charizard's Fire Spin do a little residual damage for two to five turns. Use such attacks after afflicting a target with Burn or Poison to stack up the recurring damage.

Multiple Hits



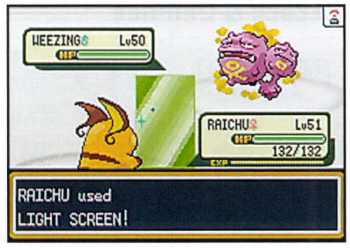
Fury Swipes is one of many moves that strike two to five times per turn. Using such attacks is like spinning a roulette wheel—you never know how much total damage you'll do.

Health-Sappers



Some attacks, such as Vileplume's Mega Drain, do damage and siphon a portion of the victim's hit points. Other moves spread the health-siphoning over many turns.

Shields & Protection



Pokémon can also learn moves that shield itself or its team from attacks. Light Screen, for instance, raises Special Defense for every member of the team for several turns.

Out-and-In Strikes

Several attacks, like Diglett's Dig, cause the attacker to leave the field for one turn—avoiding injury—then return on the next to deliver a huge amount of damage.

Secondary Effects

Dozens of moves have a potential secondary effect. Shadow Ball has a 20 percent chance of lowering Special Defense, for example, which makes its primary attack damage greater.

Pivotally Important

Some moves are uniquely useful, such as Baton Pass. When a Pokémon that has raised its stats uses the move, it transfers its stat adjustments to the incoming Pokémon—very impactful.

Combo-Related

Quite a few moves come into their true power, or make any sense at all, only as part of a combo. Rain Dance is a classic combo move—see page 12 for details.

Battle Bonus from Held Items

To get even more out of a Pokémon's battle moves, give it a held item that ties into a specific attack. For example, when a Pokémon holds the Dragon Fang, all of its Dragon-type attacks will do more damage. Pokémon can hold only one item at a time, so make sure the item amps up the Pokémon's best attack.

Most items work for all Pokémon, but a few work for only a certain kind. Farfetch'd is the only one that can use the Stick, which raises its chance of scoring critical hits.

Berries Add a Surprising Zing

Pokémon can also hold onto berries. Unlike held items, however, berries are consumed upon use. Many berries give a quick battle benefit, such as waking the Pokémon if it falls asleep or restoring hit points. Berries are a big part of battle, especially since a Trainer doesn't have to waste a battle turn ordering his Pokémon to use one.

A Pokémon knows when the time is right to use a berry, and it will do so on its own. For example, it will use the Oran Berry to restore 10 hit points when it has lost over half of its health.

POKéMON ABILITIES

A Pokémon's ability, which activates in battle automatically, is a special talent that helps it get the edge when making or enduring a specific kind of attack. Though you can raise any Pokémon to battle however you prefer, knowledge of a Pokémon's ability will help you find its natural role in combat.

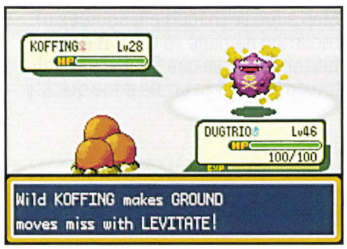
Abilities Are on Autopilot

You'll command a Pokémon to use its moves. It will decide when to use its single ability. You do have some control, however. You can raise a Pokémon to take advantage of its ability and put it into combat situations that will provoke it to tap into its ability. For example, Bulbasaur's Overgrow raises the power of its Grass-type attacks when its hit points are low. So you should teach Bulbasaur at least one Grass-type attack so it can come out swinging extra-hard when things get desperate. Check out the examples below to get the gist of how abilities benefit Pokémon.

Some Pokémon have two possible abilities. For example, Ekans can possess either Shed Skin or Intimidate.

You won't need to tell a Pokémon when to use an ability. Charizard's Blaze will raise its Fire-type attack damage when its hit points are low.

Prevention Abilities



Some abilities protect against certain attack types. A Poison-type like Koffing would normally be weak to Ground-type attacks, but its Levitate ability nullifies them.

Type-Based Abilities

Many abilities raise the power of certain attack types. Growlithe's Flash Fire turns up the heat on its Fire-type attacks—and decreases the damage from any Fire-type attacks it suffers.

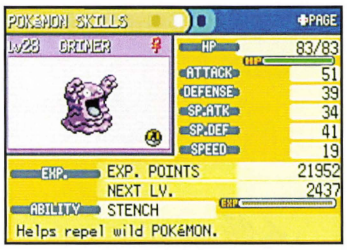
Direct-Hit Backlash

Some Pokémon have an ability that discourages foes from making physical contact in battle. Pikachu's Static will automatically paralyze any foe that touches it directly.

Status Protection

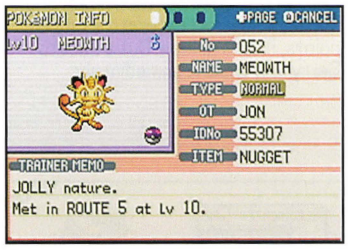
Inflicting status conditions is a great way of tripping up Pokémon. Some abilities help fight back, such as Mankey's Vital Spirit, which prevents it from falling asleep.

Off-Field Benefits



A few abilities are useless during battle, but they can be a boon while you're traveling. Grimer's Stench will decrease your chances of wild Pokémon encounters when you put the Pokémon in your team's lead spot.

Berry Enriching



A Pokémon with the Pickup ability will often pick up a random item (see the table to the right) if it participates in battle. Pickup plays a special role in Kanto: it's the only way to get many of the best battle berries.

PICK UP OFTEN
ORAN BERRY

PICK UP SOMETIMES
ASPEAR BERRY, CHERI BERRY, CHESTO BERRY, PECHA BERRY, PERSIM BERRY, RAWST BERRY

PICK UP RARELY
PP UP, RARE CANDY, NUGGET, TM10 (HIDDEN POWER)

PICK UP VERY RARELY
BELUE BERRY, DURIN BERRY, KELPSY BERRY, NOMEL BERRY, SPELON BERRY

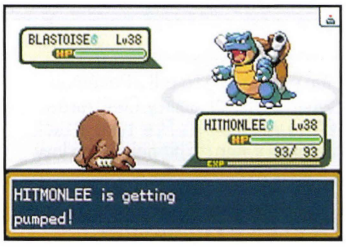
BATTLE COMBOS

You'll get far in battles if you simply slug it out move after move. But if you string together moves and other effects that work together to produce combos, you'll be able to create overpowering results that are much greater than the sum of their parts. When you face a Trainer that specializes in combos, try to anticipate them and do what you can to avoid their effects.

Step-by-Step Approach

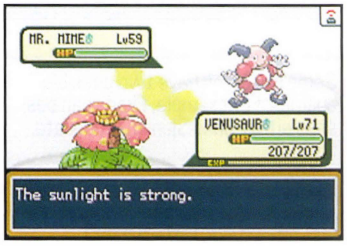
Battle moves, abilities, held items and berries—they can all combine to create combos. Some are simple one-two combos; others require several turns to unfurl. You can unleash combos with one Pokémon or several. The following examples will help you wrap your mind around the combo possibilities.

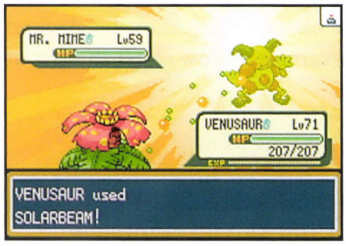
Critical-Hit Prep



If an attack connects for a lucky critical hit, it will do double damage. Use moves like Focus Energy to raise the odds, then follow up with harsh blows.

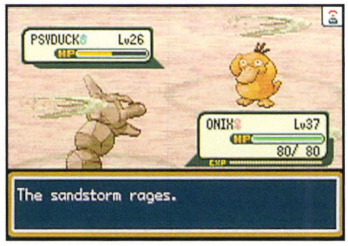
Weather Prep and Aftereffects





If you change the battle weather, you can build powerful combos. The Sunny Day move brings sunlight to the field, which amps up Fire-type attack damage. The sunny conditions also tie into other combos. Bulbasaur's Solarbeam normally requires a turn to charge up, but sunlight will power it up instantly.

Stack Residuals

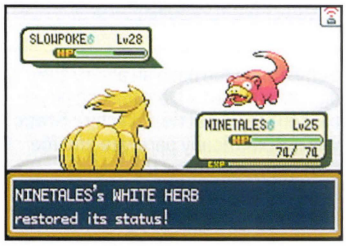


Slap a foe with multiple sources of recurring damage to wear it down faster. Onix can use Sandstorm followed by Bind to erode a foe quickly.

Ability Combos

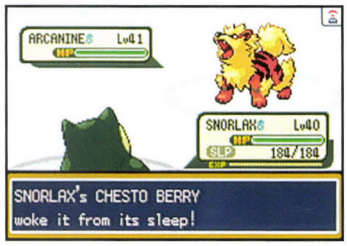
Many combos are tied to abilities. Rhydon's Rock Head, for instance, prevents the self-hurtin' backlash from its intense Take Down attack.

Held-Item Combos



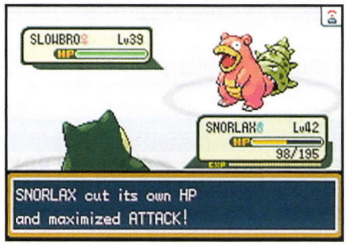
Held items can help create great combos. When Ninetales uses its Overheat attack, its Special Attack stat drops, but a held White Herb will restore it.

Berry Combos



Berries fuel combos, too. When Snorlax uses Rest, which restores its hit points, it falls asleep. But a Chesto Berry will wake it immediately.

A Complex Combo



When Snorlax uses Belly Drum, its Attack will skyrocket to the maximum possible value, but it will lose half of its hit points. Bring it back to full health with the Rest-Chesto Berry combo.

Even More Complex!

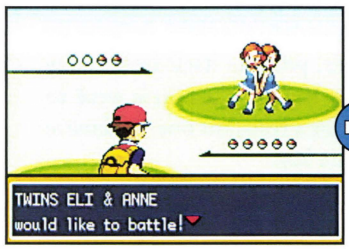
To take out a foe that uses direct-damage megamoves, send in a Pokémon that can pull off the Salac Berry-Endure-Reversal combo. Use Endure so your teammate survives a fierce blow with one hit point left. It will then eat the berry, which will raise its Speed and likely let it strike first on the next turn. Use Reversal, which does more damage if the attacker's HP is lower, to retaliate for tons of damage.

DOUBLE BATTLE

In a Double Battle, four Pokémon face off on the battlefield. You won't encounter many Double Battles during your solo adventures, but multiplayer battles are a different story. Double Battles require you to add another layer to your strategy—you'll need to keep your wits about you so survive twice as many attacks!

Where You Can Double Up

If you see two Trainers standing right next to each other during your run around Kanto, be prepared for a possible Double Battle. Twins and other Trainers who are inseparable—romantic types, for example—specialize in the art of the two-on-two fight. Think twice before you assume that your Single Battle team will hold up. Fighting two Pokémon with two Pokémon adds a whole new dimension to battles.



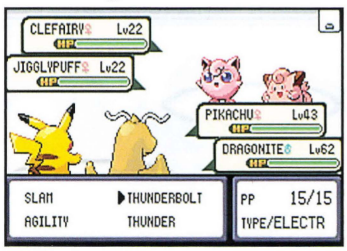
Twins are on the cutting edge of Double Battles—they'll use very different fightin' strategy.

In a Double Battle, the top two Pokémon on your team will lead the fight, so prep your order beforehand.

Wide-Range Attacks Make All the Difference

In Double Battles, battle moves take on a ranged aspect. Some strike one enemy, others strike both enemies, and a few hit both enemies plus your attacker's sidekick. Pay close attention to which moves have the farthest-reaching effects.

One Target

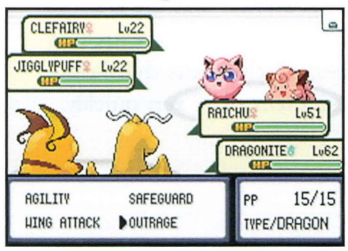


For many moves, like Pikachu's Thunderbolt, you'll need to select a single target. You can even aim at your own sidekick.

Double Target

Attacks like Rock Slide affect both foes—an excellent double whammy for the other team. Simply launch the attack and see the damage rain down.

Random Target



Some moves, like Outrage, carry a big risk in Double Battles. You never know who you'll hit: one of your foes or the attacker's sidekick!

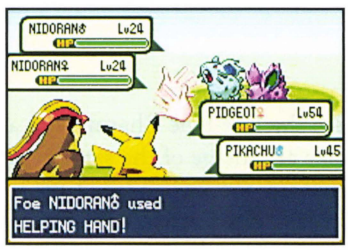
Foes plus Sidekick!

A few of the most powerful Double Battle moves, like Earthquake, strike everyone but the attacker—but you can take precautions (see below).

Sidekicks Make for Great Strategy

Plan your Double Battle teams so that you can pair Pokémon to cover each other's weaknesses and build combos even faster. You can get the Sunny Day-Solarbeam combo running on the first turn with two Pokémon, for instance. Some combos are possible only in Double Battles—keep your eyes open for advantages.

Rhyhorn's Lightningrod draws Electric-type attacks away from its sidekick—good protection for Flying-types.



The Helping Hand move is useful only in Double Battles. It raises the power of the sidekick's next attack.

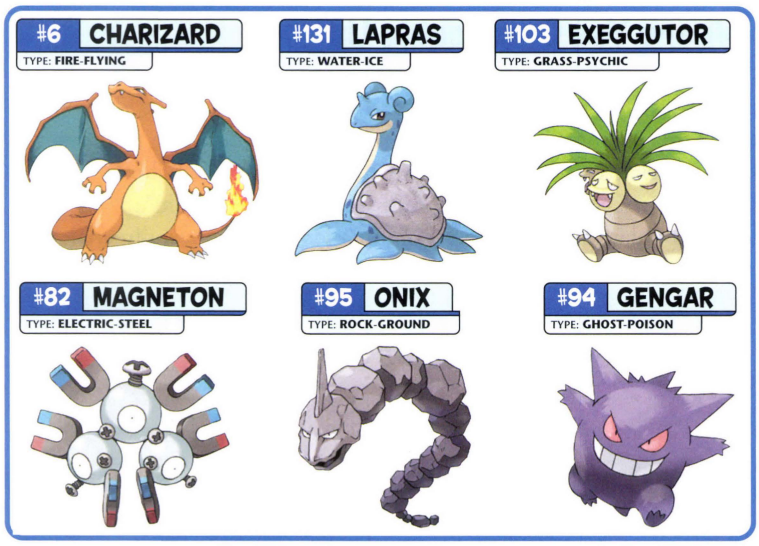
Pair a Pokémon that uses Earthquake with a Flying-type or one that has Levitate—or else it'll get blasted.

BACK TO BASICS: PLAY DEFENSE

There's no ultimate way to win all Pokémon battles. But there is an ultimate tip for building a great Pokémon team: before you plan on the attacks, construct combos, work with abilities and pile in the held items and berries, make sure that you're building on a strong defensive foundation. You can't pull off any brilliant moves if your team is decimated quickly!

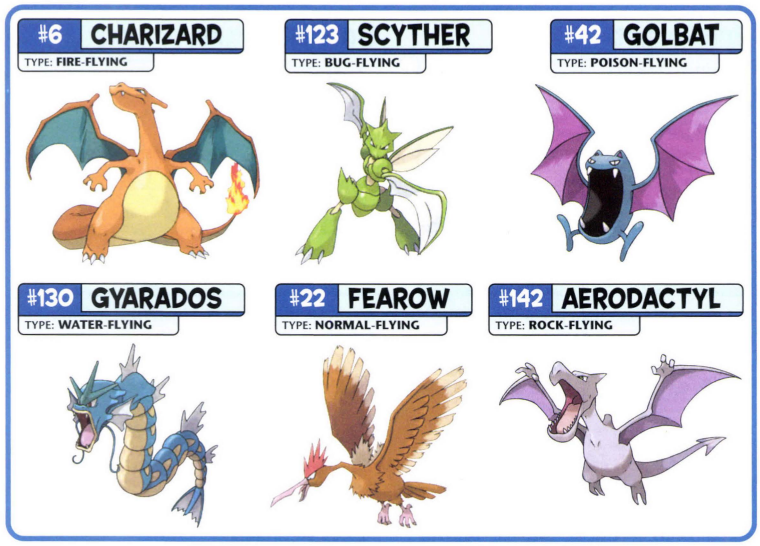
Effective Team

A strong foundation is based on defending your team from every type-trumping attack possibility. The team to the right, because its Pokémon cover a wide range of types, protects itself from many kinds of supereffective direct damage. If one Pokémon is weak to an attack, its Trainer can swap it out for a resistant one. Defensive team-building and battle-swapping are key.



Ineffective Team

Imagine the fierce, match-ending battle attacks that the team to the right must have! Defensively, however, the team is extremely weak. All its members are Flying-types, which means that Rock-, Ice- and Electric-type attacks will finish them all off very quickly.



Attack-Type Diversity

Though you might be tempted to give the Fire-type Charmander a wide range of Fire-type attacks (to take advantage of the same-type damage multiplier), you should diversify its moves instead. A Pokémon should have backup plans: if Charmander learns the Fighting-type Focus Punch move, for example, it can deliver supereffective preemptive strikes to Rock-types, which will probably try to use supereffective Rock-type attacks on Charmander. There are many more ways to diversify a Pokémon's moves—just don't put all your eggs in one basket.

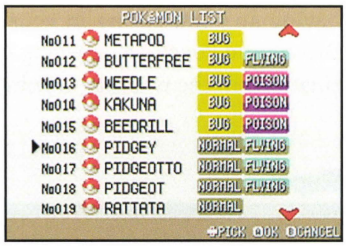
Normal-type Meowth can learn the Dark-type Bite attack. It's a good preemptive attack when Ghost-types and Dark-types threaten supereffective strikes.

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

Cool gear is a staple of the Pokémon Training experience, and Kanto has loads of it to help beginning Trainers get off the ground, meet their potential and maintain their battle prowess at the very top of their game. Know your gear—you'll get more out of the Kanto scene than you'd ever expect.

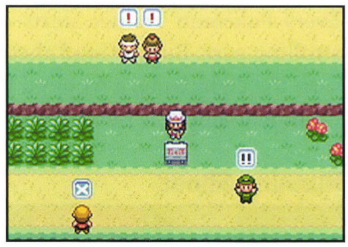
The Pokédex

The Pokédex is essential equipment. It will note Pokémon that you've fought and keep detailed records on those you've caught—including the most indispensable tidbit: their Pokémon types.



Vs. Seeker

When you activate the Vs. Seeker, you can stimulate Trainers that you've fought before into battling again. The Vs. Seeker will also show which Trainers you haven't yet fought, and which aren't itching for a rematch.

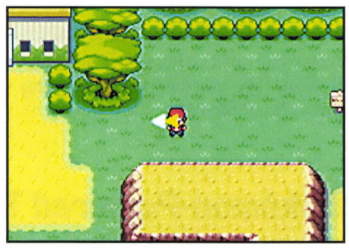


Town Map

With the Town Map in hand, you can look at the whole region of Kanto. An icon in the lower-right corner will reveal another sprawling area far at sea—after you've traveled to it for the first time.

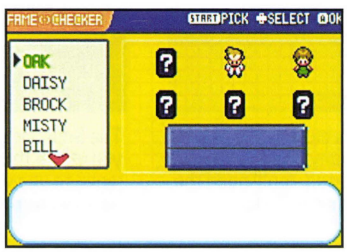
Itemfinder

When you turn on the Itemfinder, an arrow will point you toward any hidden items nearby. For some special items, you'll need to stand on the exact spot for the tool to detect anything.



Fame Checker

As you roam Kanto, you may lose track of all the excellent pieces of trivia you learn about the region's movers and shakers. The new Fame Checker organizes the gossipy info so you always know who's who and what they do.

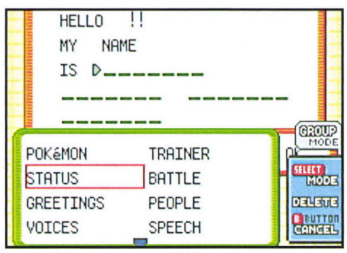


Teachy TV

Another great new gadget is the Teachy TV, which provides many battle tutorials. From type-trumping to status conditions, Teachy TV covers all the bases so no one need remain a beginner for long.

Text & Mail System

It's not gear, but you'll use it a lot: the text system allows you to build short phrases for mail and other uses. By organizing words into categories neatly, the system helps you quickly build just the right phrase to express yourself.



Trainer Card

The Trainer Card is standard gear. It tracks major accomplishments, such as which badges you have. It also bears a catch phrase on its back. You can tailor your phrase by talking to the woman in Pewter City's Pokémon Center.

TRAVELING IN KANTO

At the start of your adventure, you'll blaze a trail north from Pallet Town, but soon you'll find yourself backtracking to areas previously unreachable, using tunnels to take detours and surfing the waves in search of distant shores. Keep every mode of travel and barrier-busting in mind—soon all of Kanto will be yours to explore.

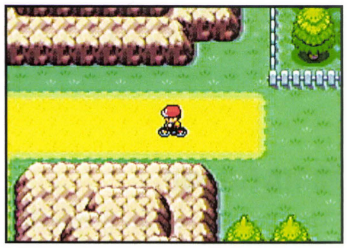
Foot-Powered Potential

Every Pokémon Trainer starts out by hoofin' it across Kanto at a strolling pace. But the road ahead—to the eight cities where you can earn the eight badges required for entrance to the Pokémon League Championship—is much longer than any Trainer ever expects. And having an extra spring in your step from the Running Shoes, the Bicycle and Pokémon-repelling items will help speed you to your destinations in the twisting, turning, Trainer-packed region.

Running Shoes

After you get the Running Shoes in Pewter City, you can dash by holding down the B Button.

Bicycle



You'll have to wait a bit to get the Bicycle, but once you have it, you can move even faster than when dashing.

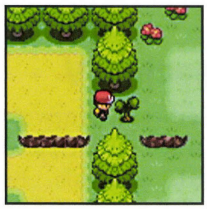
Repel

Wild Pokémon can seriously slow you down. Use Repel to prevent their random intrusions for a while.

Pokémon-Powered Travel

Early in your quest, you'll pass many areas that lie just out your reach because something blocks your path or prevents passage. Take note of each one—you'll be back. Pokémon can learn moves that not only serve them in battle, but also help break the barriers. Most of the moves are contained in Hidden Machines (HMs), so you can teach them to many Pokémon. They can use the moves outside of battle only if you've earned certain Gym Badges, however.

Cut (HM 01)



After you have the Cascade Badge, you can use Cut to hack through small trees.

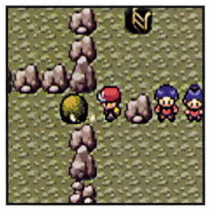
Fly (HM 02)

You can use Fly to go to any city that you've visited. You'll need the Thunder Badge.

Surf (HM 03)

The Soul Badge lets you utilize the Surf move to use waterways as highways.

Strength (HM 04)



Once you own the Rainbow Badge, you can employ Strength to roll boulders.

Flash (HM 05)

Use Flash to banish the darkness from caves. You'll need the Boulder Badge.

Rock Smash (HM 06)

Rocks often bar passage—break 'em with Rock Smash once you have the Marsh Badge.

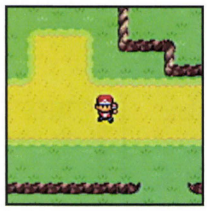
Waterfall (HM 07)

Surf won't let you ride up cascades. Waterfall will. You must have the Volcano Badge.

Dig

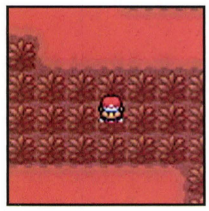
Use the Dig move to return to cave entrances instantly—no badge needed.

Teleport



If you're outdoors, Teleport warps you to the Pokémon Center you last visited.

Sweet Scent



It's not travel-related, but Sweet Scent does function out of battle: it calls wild Pokémon.

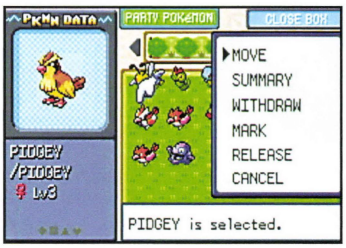
CATCHING POKéMON

You'll find dozens of Pokémon varieties running wild in Kanto. Though Professor Oak hopes that you'll catch at least one of each, you may prefer to catch only those that will help you blast through battles with major style and maximum glory. Whichever way you play, knowing where to catch Pokémon—and how—is of the utmost importance.

Weaken the Wild Pokémon

You'll get most of your Pokémon by catching them wild. One won't simply hop into the Poké Ball, your portable Pokémon-carrying container. You'll need to weaken it in battle—as close to a knockout as possible—before pitching the Poké Ball.

After you've done what you can to raise your chances of a good catch, throw a Poké Ball into battle.



The caught Pokémon will fill a position on your team of six. If your team is full, it will go to PC storage instead.

If you face a wild Pokémon that you've caught previously, you'll see a Poké Ball icon next to its name.

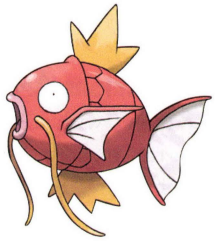
Make the Best Pitch

There are many varieties of Poké Ball. All will catch Pokémon, but certain ones offer specific advantages. Soon after you leave Pallet Town for the first time, you'll get a Poké Ball. It does a fine job catching Pokémon that you'll meet early in your quest, but soon you'll face higher-level Pokémon, and you'll need to master the art of selecting the right ball for the right occasion.

NAME	EFFECT
POKé BALL	Catches Pokémon with "entry level" success
GREAT BALL	Has better success than the basic Poké Ball
HYPER BALL	Has better success than the Great Ball
MASTER BALL	Catches Pokémon without fail
SAFARI BALL	Used to catch Pokémon in the Safari Zone

NAME	EFFECT
NEST BALL	Catches lower-level Pokémon more easily
NET BALL	Catches Bug- and Water-types more easily
REPEAT BALL	Catches Pokémon you have more easily
TIMER BALL	Catches Pokémon better as the battle goes on
LUXURY BALL	Fosters the friendship with your Pokémon

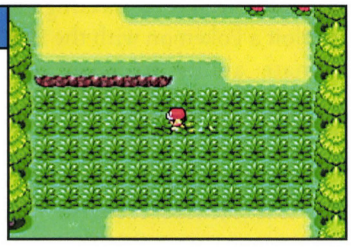
Where to Meet and Greet Wild Pokémon



You'll find many of Kanto's Pokémon in the wild. Grassy areas, where many Pokémon make their home, are commonplace, but some Pokémon may prefer the grass on a specific western route, while others reside only on a specific southern route. Also, some Pokémon may pop up frequently in a particular spot, while other kinds appear very rarely in the same area. Grass isn't the only place to find Pokémon—check out the following habitats.

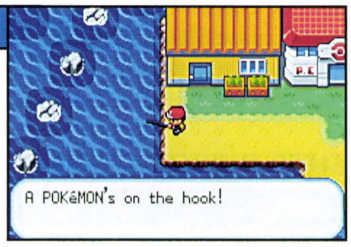
IN THE GRASS

Wander through areas covered with tall grass to scare up wild Pokémon. Be persistent. Many Pokémon appear only rarely, so run back and forth if you suspect that there's a big catch to be had.



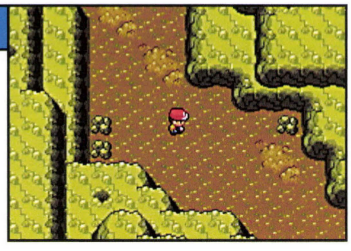
BY FISHING

You can drop a line into water to pull up a wild Pokémon encounter. Use all three rods—the Old Rod, the Great Rod and the Super Rod—to pull up all the possible catches from a spot.



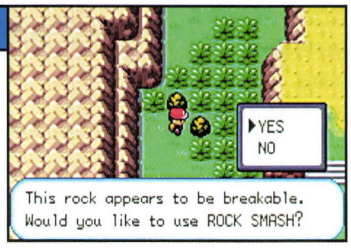
INSIDE CAVES

When you run around inside caves (and some run-down buildings), you'll have frequent wild-Pokémon sightings. Caves tend to house Pokémon that you can't catch elsewhere.



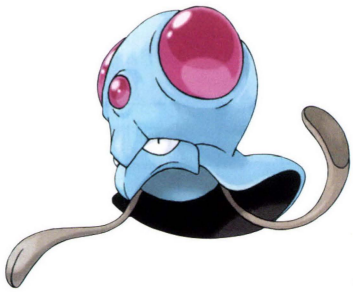
INSIDE ROCKS

With the Rock Smash move, you can break open small rocks. When you do, a Pokémon—usually a Rock- or Ground-type—may pop out of hiding.



ON THE WAVES

Every time you traverse the waves using Surf, you'll have a chance of seeing a wild Pokémon, usually a Water-type Pokémon that you can't get elsewhere.



WITH TRADE-WILLING TRAINERS

Some people you meet will offer you a Pokémon in a trade. Traded Pokémon—whether from a game character or from another player—always earn battle experience faster, so in-game trades can be very useful. In addition, you can get certain Pokémon only via in-game trades; some are exclusive to Pokémon FireRed, others to Pokémon LeafGreen.

PLACE	POKéMON YOU GIVE/POKéMON YOU GET
ROUTE 2 (house)	ABRA/MR.MIME
CERULEAN CITY	POLIWHIRL/JYNX
ROUTE 5 (underground)	NIDORAN(♀) or NIDORAN(♂)/NIDORAN(♀) or NIDORAN(♂)
VERMILION CITY	SPEAROW/FARFETCH'D
ROUTE 11 (gatehouse)	NIDORINO or NIDORINA/NIDORINA or NIDORINO
ROUTE 18 (gatehouse)	GOLDUCK or SLOWBRO/LICKITUNG
CINNABAR ISLAND	RAICHU/ELECTRODE or VENONAT/TANGELA or PONYTA/SEEL

Pokémon noted in red are in-game trades exclusive to Pokémon FireRed; those in green are exclusive to Pokémon LeafGreen.

Catching with Certainty

Once you've found a Pokémon that you'd like to catch, you'll have to engage it in a battle of wills. You'll win the fight—which leads to its joining your team—primarily by whittling its hit points as close to nil as possible. But you'll encounter some Pokémon that will resist you with all their might. Raise the odds in your favor with battle techniques that will show a Pokémon its proper place—in your Poké Ball.

Weaken Its Health

When battling Pokémon down to near zero hit points, avoid using attacks that are supereffective against its Pokémon type. If you hit it too hard, it will faint—and slip out of your grasp.

When your target's hit points are in the red, you have decent odds of catching it—but one hit point is best.

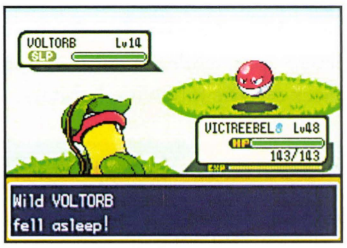
Restrain Your Prey

Some Pokémon will flee if they suspect that you're trying to catch it. Use the Mean Look and Block moves to prevent a wild Pokémon's escape. Otherwise, inflict move-preventing status conditions to stop it from leaving.

Block and Mean Look are the best way to prevent fidgety Pokémon from flying the coop.

Status Conditions Are Key

Stick your target with a status condition to improve your chances even more. Sleep and Freeze lead to the best results of all. The attacks listed below primarily cause Sleep and Freeze—always have at least one of the moves in your team's repertoire.



Calling All Pokémon

If you don't want to waste so much time meandering in the wild, hoping that a Pokémon pops up, use the Sweet Scent move to trigger a meeting, or exploit a Pokémon with the Illuminate ability to raise your chances of an encounter.

You need to put your Illuminate-armed Pokémon in the lead position to tap into its luring powers.

SLEEP-INDUCING MOVES

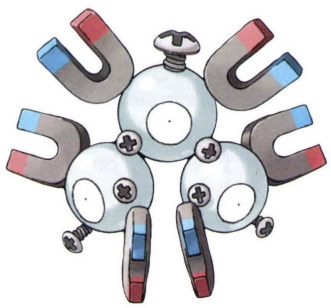
* Tri Attack has a 20 percent chance of causing Freeze, Paralyze or Burn—you never know which you'll inflict.



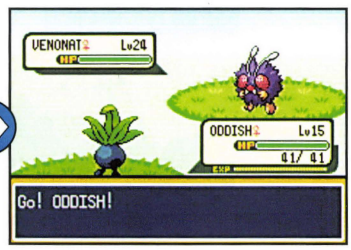
KANTO POKéMON: CATCHING THE REST

Catching wild Pokémon will get you only so far in your quest to find every one of Kanto's Pokémon. Pushing wild Pokémon to learn all they can from battle will get you farther, since many Pokémon evolve into different kinds at a certain experience level. Knowing a few more secrets will help you obtain even more Pokémon.

Battle Experience

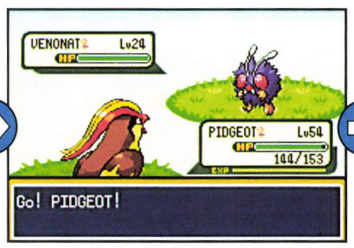
If you want to focus on leveling up a Pokémon, place it in the lead position of your traveling team. When you start a battle, the lead Pokémon will always leap onto the field first, ensuring that it will get a share of the battle experience.

It's a great strategy to use even if your lead Pokémon doesn't have a chance of holding its own in the battle. Simply swap it out for another Pokémon when the battle begins. It doesn't need to fight to get a share of the experience—it just needs to hit the field.

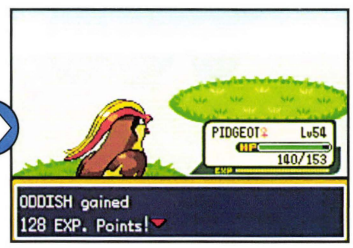


Always keep the Pokémon that you want to develop in the front of your party. It will lead your battle charge and be guaranteed a share of experience.

The technique is great for quickly leveling-up very low-level Pokémon. After it leads your charge . . .



. . . swap it out for a Pokémon that can truly take on the challenge, such as those with supereffective attacks.



After your other Pokémon defeat the foe, you'll see how much your non-battling Pokémon gets for its share.

Experience Sharing & Experience Share

All battle participants get an equal share of battle experience. But once you possess the vital Experience Share held item, you can use it to develop a Pokémon's experience even faster by giving half of the experience total if it doesn't enter battle—plus an additional portion if it does hit the field.

Normal Experience Division

60 EXPERIENCE POINTS → 60

POKéMON 1 FIGHTING	20	POKéMON 2 FIGHTING	20	POKéMON 3 FIGHTING	20
POKéMON 4 NON-FIGHTING	0	POKéMON 5 NON-FIGHTING	0	POKéMON 6 NON-FIGHTING	0

After your team defeats a Pokémon, all battle participants will get an equal share of the experience points. Pokémon that never entered battle will get zero points.

When One Pokémon Uses Exp. Share (And Doesn't Hit the Field)

60 EXPERIENCE POINTS → 30 + 30

POKéMON 4 NON-FIGHTING WITH E.S.	30	POKéMON 5 NON-FIGHTING	0	POKéMON 6 NON-FIGHTING	0

When a Pokémon holds Experience Share but doesn't enter the battle, it will siphon half of the experience total. The remainder will be divvied up among battle participants. Other Pokémon that didn't battle will earn zero points.

When One Pokémon Uses Exp. Share (And Does Hit the Field)

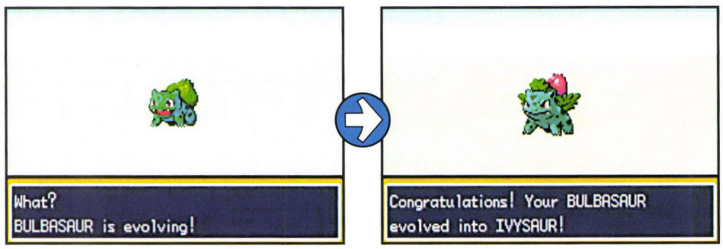
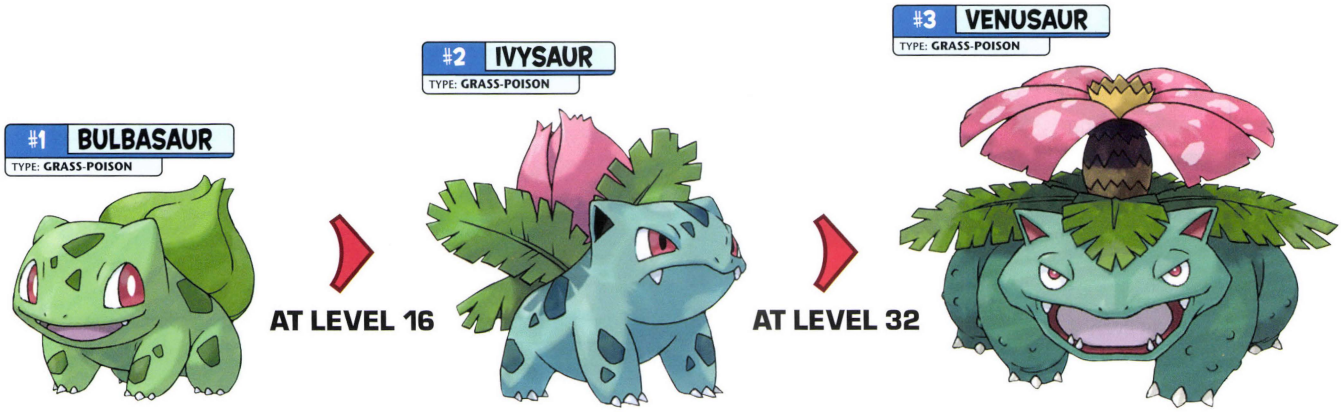
POKéMON 1 FIGHTING WITH E.S.	40	POKéMON 2 FIGHTING	10	POKéMON 3 FIGHTING	10
POKéMON 4 NON-FIGHTING	0	POKéMON 5 NON-FIGHTING	0	POKéMON 6 NON-FIGHTING	0

When a Pokémon holds Exp. Share and enters battle for any length of time, it will receive half of the points, plus an equal share from the remaining points. Nonbattling Pokémon earn zero points.

Leveling Up Can Lead to Evolution

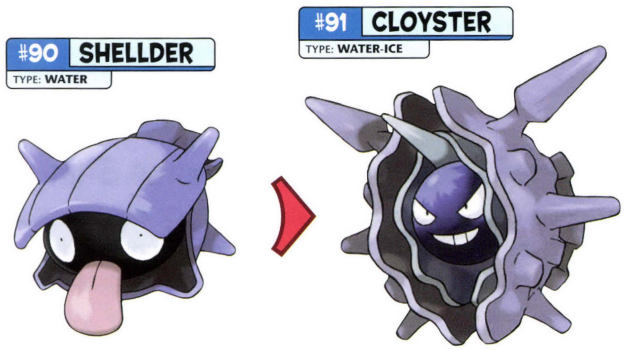
A Pokémon will reap benefits every time it levels up. At the very least, some of its statistics—Attack, Defense, Special Defense, Special Attack, Speed and Hit Points—will grow a little. It may also learn a new move if it hits a certain level. Some but not all kinds of Pokémon will experience a dramatic evolution when they hit a specific level. The evolution will force some statistics to make a quantum leap to bring the stats in line with the new kind of Pokémon.





The Pros and Cons of Evolution

In general, when you evolve a Pokémon its stats will become much stronger, but you will have to wait longer for it to learn moves. Check out the trade-off between Bulbasaur and Ivysaur. For some Pokémon, however, one form may learn some level-up moves that the other won't—see the differences between Shellder and Cloyster. Refer to page 22 to learn how to stop an evolution if you don't like what you see.



ATTACK	BULBASAUR'S LEVEL	IVYSAUR'S LEVEL
RAZOR LEAF	LEVEL 20	LEVEL 22
SWEET SCENT	LEVEL 25	LEVEL 29

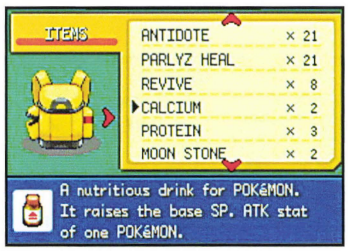
Raising Stats with Items

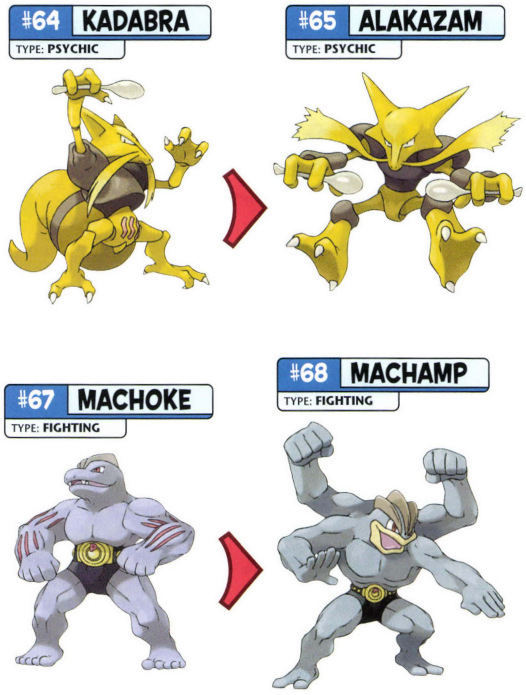
Feeding a Pokémon certain items (see the list to the right) will also raise its statistics permanently. A Pokémon can use only a limited number of a specific stat-raising item—after that the mineral will have no have further effect.



ITEM	EFFECT
CARBOS	Raises Speed
CALCIUM	Raises Special Attack
HP UP	Raises HP
IRON	Raises Defense
PROTEIN	Raises Attack
ZINC	Raises Special Defense

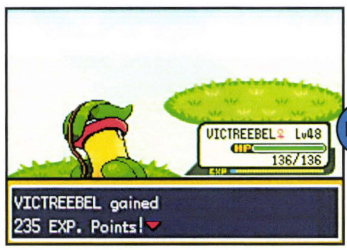
Trade Evolutions

Some Pokémon evolve only when they're traded to another game: Pokémon FireRed, Pokémon LeafGreen, Pokémon Ruby, Pokémon Sapphire or Pokémon Colosseum. It doesn't matter what a Pokémon's level is; it'll evolve instantly upon reaching the other game. If you want the evolved Pokémon back on your team, you'll have to work that out with your trading partner!

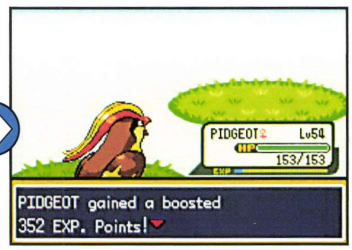


Raising Traded Pokémon

Whether you get a Pokémon via an in-game trade or from another game (see the above list), your new acquisition will have an advantage over other Pokémon: it will gain 1.5 times as much experience from battle. It doesn't take more than its share—it simply learns more from encounters.



A self-caught Pokémon will gain the normal amount of experience . . .



. . . but a traded Pokémon's share will receive 1.5 times as much.

Control Limitations

Before you trade, find out the level of the incoming Pokémon. Pokémon will disobey you in battle if you haven't proved yourself. Your Gym Badges (see the list to the right) mean everything to your team.

BADGE	EFFECT
CASCADE BADGE	Pokémon at or under Level 30 will obey
RAINBOW BADGE	Pokémon at or under Level 50 will obey
MARSH BADGE	Pokémon at or under Level 70 will obey
EARTH BADGE	Pokémon at or under Level 100 will obey

Forcing Evolutions with Stones

A handful of Pokémon will evolve only if you find a rare stone and use it as a catalyst for transformation. Don't have the Pokémon hold the stone—use it as you would any one-time-use item, such as a Potion. If the Pokémon is one that evolves from the stone you attempt to use, the item will be consumed and you'll see the Pokémon start its metamorphosis.

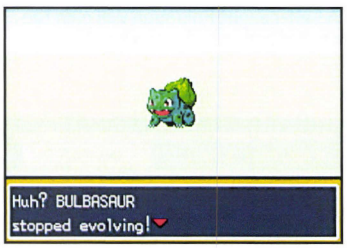
Wild Catches in One Pak or the Other

Some kinds of Pokémon, such as Golduck, can be found wild only in Pokémon FireRed; others are wild only in Pokémon LeafGreen. If you want to have every single wild Pokémon in Kanto, you'll need to trade between the two Game Paks. Such Pokémon are among the most powerful—and since you'll need to trade them into your game, they'll also benefit from the faster pace of learning that all traded Pokémon have.

Stop the Evolution!

When a Pokémon evolves—whether by leveling up, through a stone or via trading—you'll see it begin to transform, and you'll have a short time to stop the evolution by pressing the B Button. You won't be making a one-time decision—to evolve or never to evolve—because a Pokémon can always evolve again in the future under similar cirumstances. There are often benefits to holding back an evolution, usually so the unevolved Pokémon will learn moves sooner instead of enjoying the quantum leap in stats. Study up on the trade-offs by using the Pokédex that starts on page 95. You'll have mere seconds to make your decision.

Press the B Button



When you see your Pokémon start flickering into its new form, you'll have just a few moments to make your decision: push B or don't!

Give It the Everstone

If you want to keep your Pokémon from evolving for a long time, give it the Everstone. It will never change forms while holding the item.

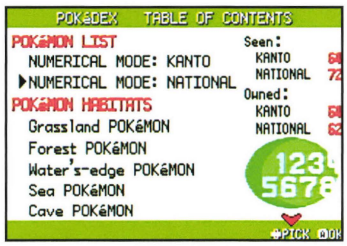
COMPLETING THE NATIONAL POKéDEX

Anyone who's visited Kanto in previous games will find that Pokémon FireRed and Pokémon LeafGreen open up massively pumped-up potential for catching Pokémon. When you reach the sprawling Sevii Islands, you'll have vast new territories to explore. And when you connect to other regions, you'll open the door to many more possibilities!

Kanto's Pokédex Isn't Big Enough!

After you've completed some major milestones in your Kanto quest (see below), Professor Oak will reveal that there are Pokémon besides those found on the Kanto mainland, then he'll tweak your Pokédex so it has a National Pokédex section that will track 380 Pokémon (all Pokémon except for Mew, Celebi, Jirachi, Lugia, Ho-Oh and Deoxys). You'll need to explore the new Sevii Islands, plus connect to Pokémon Ruby, Pokémon Sapphire and Pokémon Colosseum so you can bring all of the regions' Pokémon together for the first time.

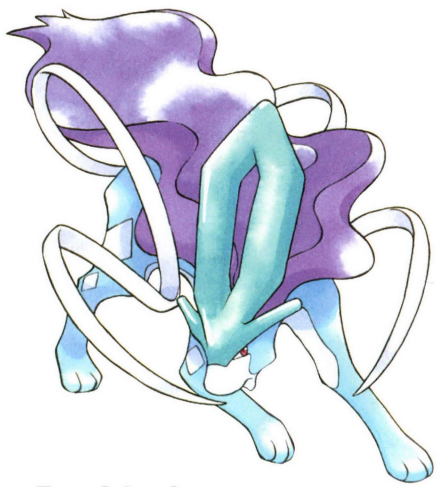
Visit Professor Oak in his lab after you've completed the major objectives—he'll alter your Pokédex.



Your new Pokédex will hold much more Pokémon data and allow for Kanto and National tracking.

Expansion Conditions:

- Registered in the Hall of Fame.
- Collected 60 or more kinds of Pokémon.
- Visited Sevii Islands with Bill.



Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen Possibilities

After you get the National Pokédex, you'll have expanded opportunities to catch and evolve more kinds of Pokémon by simply exploring Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen. Lots of Pokémon normally found only in Pokémon Gold and Silver will appear in certain areas. And Pokémon that resulted from the evolutions first seen in those games will begin appearing, plus you'll gain access to a breeding facility on one island. The big leap will help you fill up much of the new space in your National Pokédex!

The Sevii Islands and More Surprises

After you have the National Pokédex, sail to the Sevii Islands and speak to Celio, the area's genius, to get the Rainbow Pass. You can then visit more of the island chain, where you'll see additional kinds of Pokémon. After you help Celio get the Network Machine running (see page 24), you'll start seeing a legendary Pokémon running free on the mainland, and be able to enter Cerulean Cave—home to more surprises!

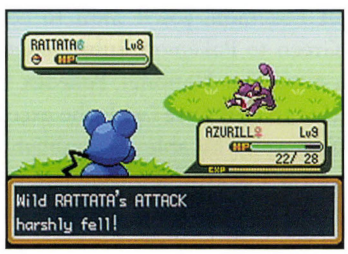
Breeding on Four Island

During your badge-collecting mission in Kanto, you can't breed Pokémon to produce baby Pokémon (such as Pichu, the pre-evolved form of Pikachu), because the mainland's Day Care accepts only one Pokémon at a time. With Celio's Rainbow Pass in hand, you can sail to Four Island. Its Day Care has a breeding facility, so you can fill your National Pokédex with more kinds of Pokémon.

Stock up on Poké Balls after you have the Rainbow Pass. You'll have much more to catch.

The legendary Pokémon that will run free has never been seen in Kanto. Welcome Suicune, Entei or Raikou!

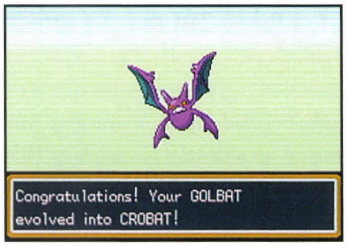
Check in with the Day Care man to pick up Pokémon Eggs—the result of successful breeding.



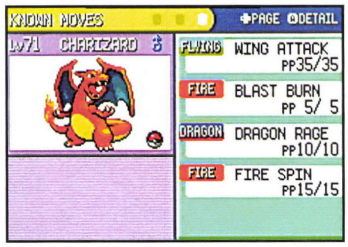
The baby Pokémon Azurill will learn moves its later forms won't, such as the Attack-stat-lowering Charm.

Friendship Evolutions Fly at Last

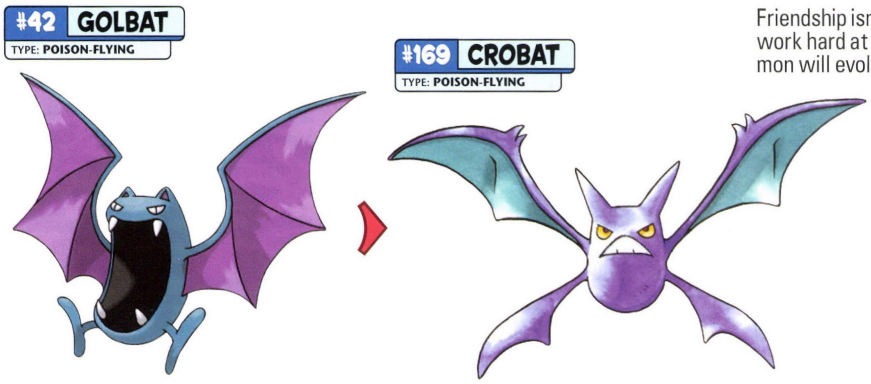
If you develop a strong bond with certain kinds of Pokémon, they'll evolve when they reach their next experience level. You can foster a strong Friendship by keeping a Pokémon in lead position, never letting it faint in battle and plying it with many stat-raising items and much grooming. (If you haven't gotten the National Pokédex, it will start to evolve and then stop mysteriously.)



Friendship isn't built in a day. If you work hard at it, though, some Pokémon will evolve in due time.



Your starter Pokémon won't evolve from Friendship, but it will benefit in a new way—see page 72.



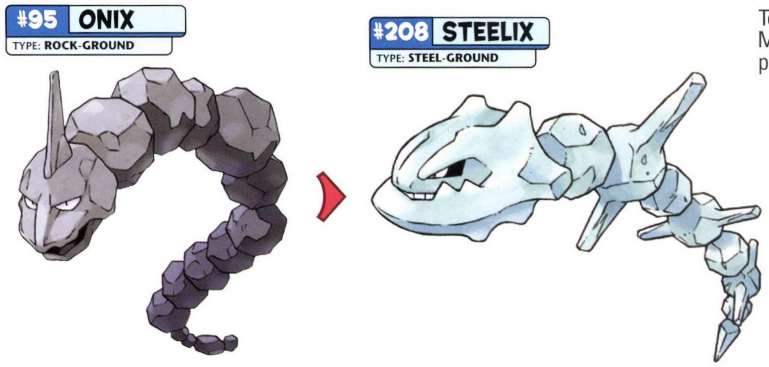
After you've beaten the Elite Four, your rival's sis will groom your Pokémon and measure their Friendship.

Held-Item Trade Evolutions

Quite a few Pokémon, including some found on the Kanto mainland, will evolve only when traded while they're holding a specific item. Until the trade recipient has the National Pokédex, however, the traded Pokémon won't be able to complete its transformation—it will start then stop. But when the trade conditions are perfect, you'll be able to get some amazing Pokémon.

To get Onix to evolve, give it the Metal Coat then trade it with a player who has the National Pokédex.

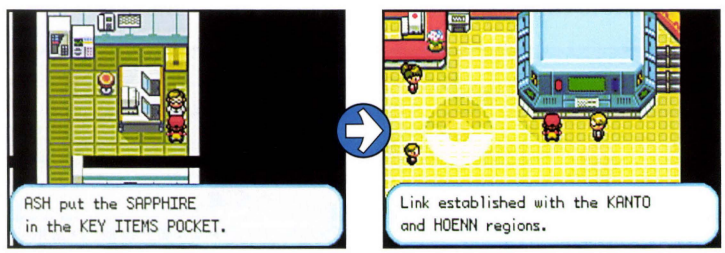
The Onix will transform upon landing in the other Pak—and the tough-as-nails Steelix is worth the effort.



Trade-evolution items are rare. If you know another player who has one, use a Pokémon to courier it in a trade.

Beyond Kanto: Connect to Other Regions!

To fill your National Pokédex and tap into the potential of the world of Pokémon, you'll want to connect Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen to Pokémon Ruby, Pokémon Sapphire and Pokémon Colosseum. The National Pokédex tracks all the Pokémon in Kanto, Hoenn and Orre (with the exception of a few legendary Pokémon). You won't be able to establish this eye-opening connection until you've helped Celio complete work on the Network Machine, however. Celio's mission will take you all over the Sevii Islands in search of the Ruby and the Sapphire that he needs to wrap up work on his region-connecting network. It's a dangerous mission, but the payoff is big.



The Ruby and the Sapphire are key in the Sevii Islands quest to establish a connection with the other regions.

After you've completed Celio's long mission, he'll finally get the Network Machine up and running—trade away!

Trading with Pokémon Ruby and Pokémon Sapphire

When you trade with a Pokémon Ruby or Sapphire Pak, the Pokédex in the distant Hoenn region will be upgraded to National Pokédex capacity. It will be slightly different, however—it will track 382 Pokémon (it excludes only Mew, Celebi, Jirachi and Deoxys). The advantages to both regions are huge—exploit them to the fullest.

Even though your trading partner is in the distant Hoenn region, you'll still be able to make the trades from your normal spot in a Pokémon Center.

Explore how Hoenn's Pokémon can help you in Kanto. Many of them reside only in Hoenn, such as the starter Pokémon Mudkip, Treecko and Torchic.

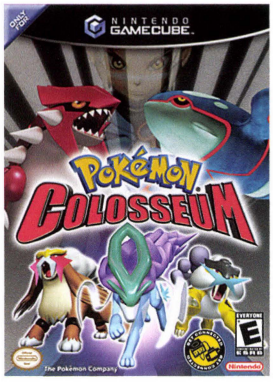
You can find some of the world's legendary Pokémon, such as Groudon and Kyogre, only in Hoenn. Imagine their influence in Kanto!

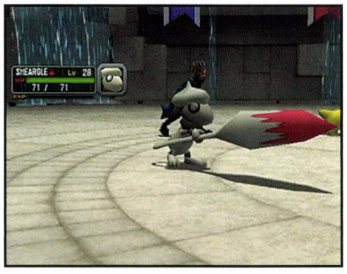
Trading with Pokémon Colosseum's Story Mode

Players who've explored Orre in Pokémon Colosseum know that you can't catch any wild Pokémon in the region. You can only Snag 48 tainted Pokémon from crooks. Many of them are exclusive to the Orre region, so the only way to get them into Kanto is to trade with the Nintendo GameCube game.

Your trading partner will need to have completed the main Story-mode quest. Then he can use the trading machine in Phenac City.

Many Pokémon are now available only in Orre, such as Bayleef, the evolved form of one of the starters from Pokémon Gold and Silver.

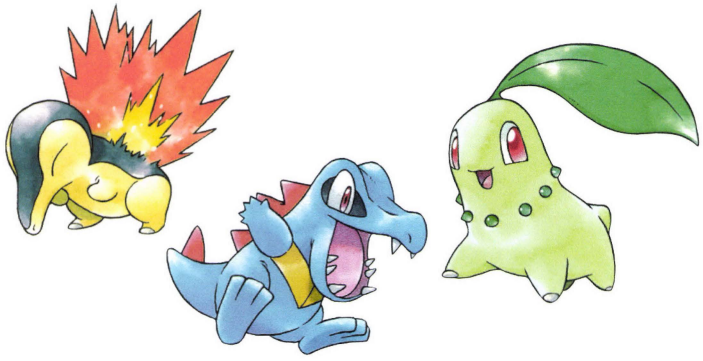




Many old favorites, such as the utterly adaptable Smeargle, are also found only in the Orre region.

The Wider World of Catches & Evolutions

To complete your National Pokédex, or simply to acquire more of a rare Pokémon you already have, you should explore every nook and cranny of Kanto, Hoenn and Orre. You'll also need to take advantage of some unusual evolution methods, including some that work only in Hoenn, and be sure to export Orre Pokémon to a Day Care to breed even more Pokémon that aren't available by other means.



Snag Then Breed—Pushing Orre's Limits

Since Orre doesn't have a breeding facility, you can acquire the earliest forms of its Pokémon—including many last seen in Johto—only by exporting them to a breeding center in Kanto or Hoenn. If the breeding is done correctly (see pages 27 and 28), the Pokémon Eggs that result will truly reward your efforts.

To get Chikorita, Cyndaquil and Totodile, you'll first need to Snag Bayleef, Quilava and Croconaw in Pokémon Colosseum.

Their earlier evolutions don't exist in Orre, so you'll need to export them to a region with a breeding facility, such as the Sevii Islands.

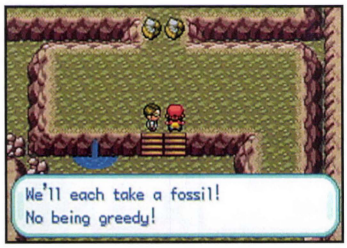
The starter Pokémon will learn their moves much earlier than their later forms do—and they'll prove to be a major asset in Kanto battles.

On the Hunt for Fossils and Legendaries

One-of-a-kind Pokémon, such as those that develop from fossils and legendary Pokémon, present an especially large challenge for National Pokédex completists. Unless you trade for them, most fossil-derived Pokémon require you to play through a story a second time to claim every fossil. The legendaries demand the utmost in wild-Pokémon-catching skills.

Some legendary Pokémon are part of Hoenn's main quest, but Rayquaza and others demand that you take up several quests after you topple Hoenn's Elite Four.

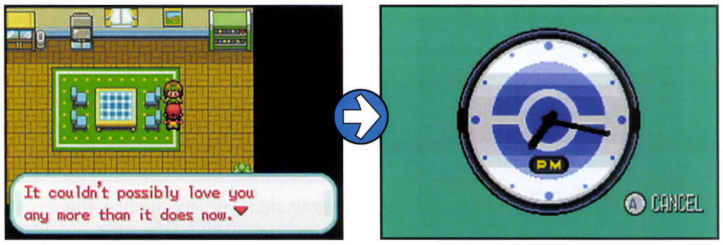
To catch Latias and Latios in Pokémon Ruby or Sapphire, you'll need to hunt one down in Hoenn and reach the other's island by scanning in a real-life Eon Ticket with an e-Reader.



You'll face a decision during both your Kanto and Hoenn quests: you must choose one of two fossils that develop into a Pokémon. To get all four, play through each quest twice.

Unusual Evolutions

Some Pokémon may elude Trainers going for a complete National Pokédex because of several unique evolution triggers. And though you can Snag Umbreon and Espeon in Pokémon Colosseum, if you plan to use Friendship evolution to evolve an Eevee into one or the other, you'll need to know an especially fascinating region-spanning trick.



Eevee changes into two forms through friendship and an extra time-of-day twist: Espeon if it's daytime, Umbreon if it's nighttime. The time isn't measured in Pokémon FireRed or LeafGreen, however. So when your rival's sister tells you that your Eevee couldn't like you any more, save your game then turn on your Pokémon Ruby or Sapphire game. Check the clock in your room in Littleroot Town. If it's the right time of day to produce the evolution you want, trade your Eevee ASAP!

Tyrogue and Its Evolutions

You can get a Tyrogue by breeding Hitmonchan, Hitmonlee or Hitmontop with a compatible Pokémon. Tyrogue can evolve into one of three Pokémon when it reaches Level 20. It will change into Hitmontop if its Level-20 Attack stat is equal to its Defense stat. But if its Attack is greater than its Defense, it'll evolve into Hitmonlee. If Defense is greater, it'll turn into Hitmonchan.

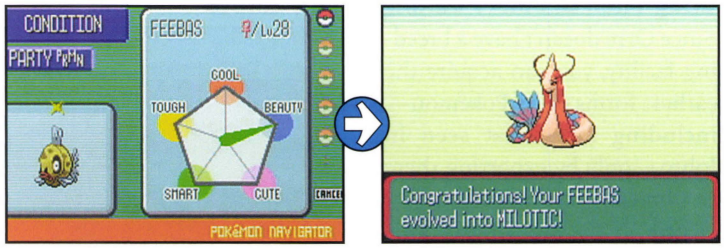
Which One, Wurmple?

Wurmple from Hoenn evolves into Silcoon or Cascoon. Which one Wurmple turns into is tied to time of day (though the timing is so complex that it seems random), so keep it in Hoenn if you want it to make the change.

The Shedinja Shift

Normally, only Ninjask evolves from Nincada, but if the sixth position of your party is empty when Nincada evolves, you'll also get an extra Pokémon: Shedinja.

Making Your Way to Milotec



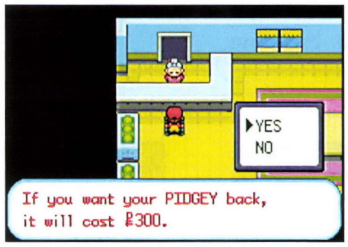
Feebas is among the most challenging wild Pokémon to catch in Hoenn (you can fish it out of one of six spots along Route 119 with an Old Rod), but getting it to evolve into the majestic Milotic is even more challenging. You must feed your Feebas only PokéBlocks that raise its Beauty rating. (Don't give it other kinds of PokéBlocks at all, or you'll throw it off.) Beauty is measured only in Hoenn, so Feebas won't evolve in other regions.

POKéMON BREEDING

Breeding Pokémon is almost a game unto itself—and it's certainly worthy of attention. Those who master breeding can produce Pokémon that are far superior to others of their kind that are gifted with battle moves and abilities. To produce such dazzling battle specimens, study up on breeding techniques and use the Pokédex in the back of this book to its fullest.

The Pokémon Day Care

The Pokémon Day Care near Cerulean City will accept one Pokémon and raise its experience levels while you're off road-tripping. But the Day Care on Four Island will accept two Pokémon at a time. With so many Pokémon to be caught on the mainland and the Sevii Islands, you'll have lots of candidates for the Day Cares, so keep both facilities busy. You'll have to pay the Day Care to withdraw a Pokémon. The more it's leveled-up, the more you'll pay.



Four Island's Breeding Grounds

The Four Island Day Care also has a breeding facility. If you check in a male and a female Pokémon, the man who runs the breeding park behind the Day Care will soon have a Pokémon Egg for you. After you've checked in two Pokémon, you can speak with the man to hear how well they're getting along.

You can speak with the Day Care man to tell right away how compatible your two Pokémon are for breeding.

If he says that your Pokémon are at least playing with each other, there's a chance that he'll give you an Egg later.

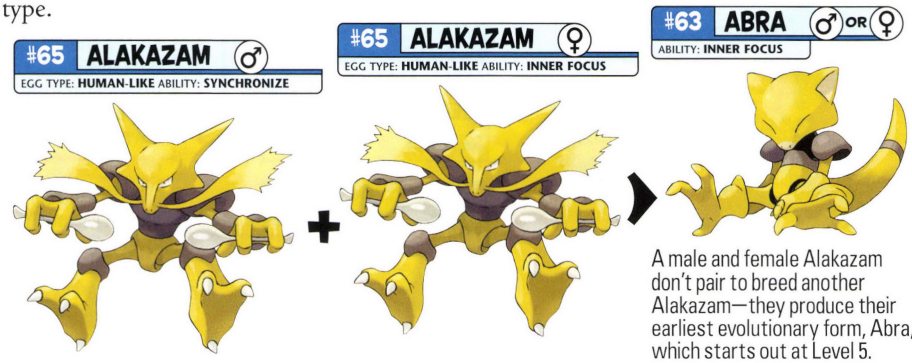
You can find the gender symbol—♂ for male, ♀ for female—in the Pokémon team and status screens.

MAN'S MESSAGE	EGG PROBABILITY
They're very friendly . . .	Extremely likely
The two seem to get along . . .	Somewhat likely
The two don't seem to like each other . . .	Not very likely
The two prefer to play with other Pokémon . . .	Not a chance

14 Egg Types, Countless Combinations

The female Pokémon helps determine the contents of the Egg: it'll be the female's earliest evolutionary form at Level 5. You may have the best results breeding a male and a female of the same kind—two Alakazams to produce an Abra, for instance—but it's not required. You need only pair a male and female with matching Egg types. A female Alakazam, with its Human-like Egg type, could pair with a male Machamp, Hypno or others with a Human-like Egg type.

EGG TYPES
AMORPHOUS	FLYING	MONSTER
BUG	GENDER UNKNOWN	WATER 1
DRAGON	GRASS	WATER 2
FAIRY	HUMAN-LIKE	WATER 3
FIELD	MINERAL	NONE



A male and female Alakazam don't pair to breed another Alakazam—they produce their earliest evolutionary form, Abra, which starts out at Level 5.

Ditto-Worthy Solutions

If you have only a male of an evolutionary line that you want to breed, you're not out of luck. One Pokémon found wild in Kanto, the flexible Ditto, will help you achieve a breeding breakthrough. Some Pokémon, such as Tauros, are found only as wild males, so the Ditto workaround is key. And the amazing Pokémon also provides a solution for breeding Kanto's Gender Unknown Egg types (shown below), such as Magneton. To breed a Magnemite from Magneton, simply check it into a breeding facility with Ditto.

Mix and Match for Superior Pokémon

Typically, the Pokémon hatched from an Egg will have the female's ability. And it will start with moves from a variety of sources. If you know the sources, you can pair Pokémon carefully to raise your chances of hatching a superior Pokémon that knows moves it would never learn, learns other moves much earlier than normal and wields attacks that it'd normally get only from TMs and HMs.

#102 EXEGGCUTE ♂

If the male and female know the same level-up move, there's a strong chance that the hatched Pokémon will already know it at Level 5!

If the male has a move that is among the offspring's Egg Moves (see this guide's Pokédex), the offspring may learn it. Such moves often make for amazing advantages!

If the male knows an HM- or TM-taught move, there's a chance that the move will transfer to the offspring.

THE POKéMON CENTER

Found mostly in cities, the Pokémon Centers are havens for Trainers who need to recover from adventuring, as well as social hubs for those who want to trade, battle and visit with other Trainers. Always know how far you are from the nearest Pokémon Center—they're essential to responsible Pokémon Training.

Heal 'Em Up, Send 'Em Out

You'll use the Pokémon Center most frequently for its recharging station. If you hand over the Poké Balls that your team is stored in, your crew will have its hit points and its Power Points restored within seconds. Don't let your team wear itself out on the road—recharge often.

Any time you're prepping for the next leg of your adventure, check in at the recharging desk to refresh your team.

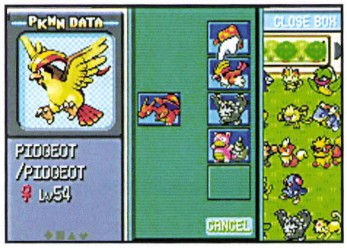
After a few moments, you'll get your team back with full HP and PP, ready to take on any challenge.

Get Personal with the PC

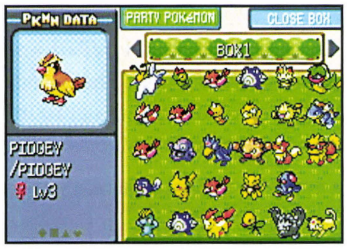
You'll pick up many Pokémon and items during your quest. Use the PCs in each Pokémon Center to store it all away. Check in before you leave a city to reevaluate what you have on hand before you head out.

Circulate Your Pokémon into Battle

Different parts of your quest demand different skills from your team. Dip into Pokémon storage—14 storage boxes, each with space for 30 Pokémon—to swap members of your crew for others. Space for 420 Pokémon should be enough for a while; but hard-core Trainers may want to check out the much larger Pokémon Box (see page 32).



Swapping between your team and storage is simple: grab a Pokémon and drag it where you want to put it.



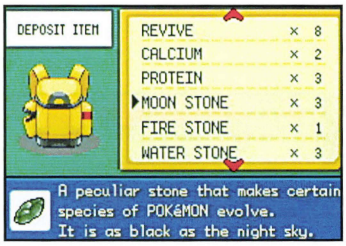
You can change the name and background pattern for each of the 14 storage boxes to fit your needs.

Connecting to Professor Oak

If you can't visit Professor Oak in person, you can always reach out and touch him via a PC connection. He'll be glad to analyze the current state of your Pokédex and advise you on how to broaden your collection even more. If he's opened up your National Pokédex, he'll also comment on how well you've filled it.

Tweak Your Inventory, Read Your Mail

You can carry only so many things while journeying, so transfer unnecessary items to a PC. It'll hold up to 30 kinds of items (with a large quantity for each). The PC also lets you store and read mail. Don't clutter your traveling inventory with it. You can send and receive mail by giving Pokémon mail to hold during trades.

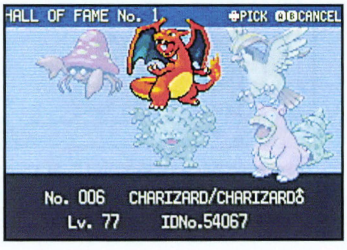


You can cram only so much into your bag. Before you leave a city, transfer any clutter to PC storage.

Store mail on the PC. You can always open a letter and catch up on correspondence.

Digital Glory: The Hall of Fame

After you beat the Elite Four and become Kanto's Pokémon League Champion, the team of six that took you to the top will be recorded in the Hall of Fame. You can always check out the record via PC to recall which team helped you rise to the very top of the Pokémon League.



Never forget the friends that helped you get ahead. Check in at the PC to see which Pokémon made your name feared and respected in Kanto.

THE WORLD OF WIRELESS

Pokémon FireRed and Pokémon LeafGreen bring the world of Pokémon closer than ever. Each Pak comes with a Game Boy Advance Wireless Adapter that helps Kanto Trainers connect at a distance. You'll find lots of wireless gameplay in the region—much of it on the second floor of the Pokémon Center.

Union Room: Socialize and Strategize!

The community of Pokémon players has always been one of the most passionate groups of gamers in the world. The Union Room in Kanto brings 'em together in a whole new way. Before you head to the second floor of the Pokémon Center, make sure that your Game Boy Advance Wireless Adapter is attached. The Union Room, which lets you socialize with other wireless-equipped Kanto Trainers, will then be up and running. If you're playing Pokémon FireRed or LeafGreen in a crowd, you may find players waiting for you in the Union Room.

If you want to head into the Union Room, speak to the middle attendant on the second floor.

Before you choose to enter the Union Room, you can check how many people are already inside.

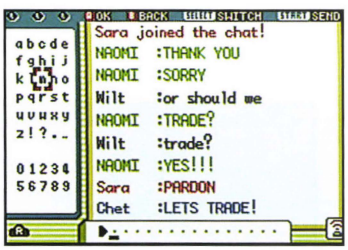
Meet and Greet

Up to 39 other Trainers can be in the Union Room with you. To speak with one, simply walk up and push the A Button. You'll be able to select several options, such as viewing your new friend's Trainer Card—it's a great way to get a sense of his Trainer standing.

Check out a player's card to find out if he's someone that you'd like to connect with further.

Chat with Players

Players from all over Kanto meet in the Union Room, so you can chat to learn secrets and strategy that will help you no matter where you go in the region. Or you can just shoot the breeze with other players.



You never know what you might find out from other Trainers when you're chatting in the Union Room.

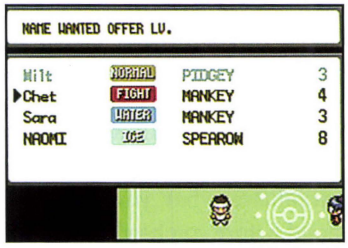
Brief Battles

The Direct Corner remains the place for hard-core battling and trading. In the Union Room, however, you can get a taste of someone's battle skills by walking up and initiating a limited battle: each participant can use only two Pokémon at Level 30 or lower.

You'll each choose two Pokémon for a quick clash. You can always reconnect in the Direct Corner for more.

The Trade Board

Engaging with up to 39 other wireless Trainers to arrange trades would be chaos. The Union Room makes things easier with its trade board. For the duration of your stay in the room, you can post one of your Pokémon with a trade request for a specific type of Pokémon.

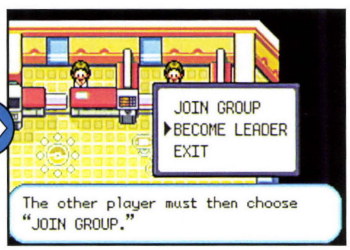


For example, you can post your Spearow with a request for any Ice-type Pokémon—very convenient.

Direct Corner: Go Head-to-Head

The Direct Corner has long been an essential part of Pokémon Centers. Though you can—as in previous games—use a cable to link up with one to three other players in Kanto's and Hoenn's Direct Corners, Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen players can link up via wireless connection. The corner's Trade Center and Colosseum battles have never been easier to initiate, and the new Berry Crush wireless minigame offers some special rewards.

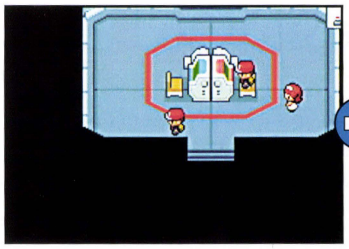
Strike up a conversation with the attendant on the left side of the room to make a direct connection.



To connect, one of the players must choose to lead a group that the others must join.

Two-Player Swapping in the Trade Center

Two players can meet in the Trade Center to trade specific Pokémon. Before you strike up a connection, fill your team with Pokémon that you'd like to trade. (There's a PC on the second floor for your convenience.) After you take a look at the other player's team of Pokémon, you can agree upon a trade and let the exchange commence. Trading is a critical part of Training strategy, so trade often to get ahead in your quest.



When you're ready to start trading talks with your partner, belly up to the trading station.

You'll see your team and your trading partner's team—negotiate carefully before you send over a Pokémon.

Matches in the Colosseum

Two or four players can smash their teams together in the Direct Corner's Colosseum to see whose Pokémon and battle skills are superior. You can enter a Single Battle or Double Battle match with two players, or engage in a Multi Battle match with four players. A Multi Battle is similar to a Double Battle: each team still has two Pokémon, but each team also has two Trainers. It's the ultimate thrill in Colosseum battles—and it demands serious teamwork to pull off the combos.

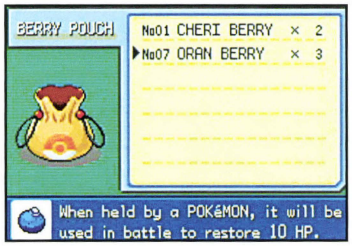
Once you enter the Colosseum, you'll have to take your position at your end of the battlefield.

Colosseum Rules:

- There's no limit to Pokémon level.
- Use of all items except held items is prohibited.
- Held items collected during battle will be returned after the battle.
- Using the Run option results in a forfeit.

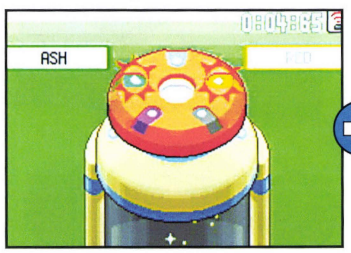
Get Rich with Berry Crush

After you get the Berry Jar from the Cerulean City Powder Trader, you can play Berry Crush. You and other players will throw berries into the contraption, then you'll mash the A Button to pulverize them into powder. Which berries you use determines how much powder you'll get to buy the trader's items (see page 45). Players will also be rated by one of four crushing criteria.

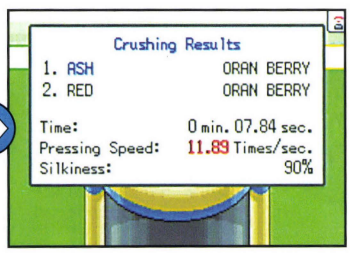


You'll need to dip into your Berry Pouch to make a contribution to the Berry Crush wireless minigame.

BERRY	MAX. POWDER
Aspear, Cheri, Chesto, Pecha, Rawst	20
Leppa, Lum, Oran, Persim, Sitrus	30
Aguav, Figy, Iapapa, Mago, Wiki	50
Bluk, Nanab, Pinap, Razz, Wepear	70
Grepa, Hondew, Kelpsy, Pomeg, Qualot	100
Cornn, Magost, Nomel, Rabuta, Tamato	150
Belue, Durin, Pamtre, Spelon, Watmel	250



If two or more players hit A simultaneously, the lights flash and the Berry Crush produces extra powder.



After all the berries are fully crushed, players will see the final results of their cooperation.

Crushing Criteria:

NO. OF PRESSES: Players are ranked by the number of times they pushed the A Button.

NEATNESS: Players are ranked by how well they pushed the A Button in a consistent rhythm.

COOPERATIVE: Players are ranked by the number of times they hit the A Button at the same time as others did.

PRESSING POWER: Players are ranked by the longest A-Button-press they achieved during the session.

POKéMON BOX: A HUGE SOLUTION

Are you a Trainer who plans to throw yourself into the worldwide Pokémon hunt, breed in serious pursuit of superpowerful Pokémon or transport dozens of Pokémon to and from Kanto? Pokémon Box for the Nintendo GameCube is the perfect solution for Trainers who need maximum storage and mass transport.

Break into Pokémon Box

Ambition knows no bounds—unless it maxes out the Pokémon storage space on Kanto's PCs. Pokémon Box provides storage space for 1,500 Pokémon, plus great ways to sort and display such gigantic assemblies. The amazing utility program comes with a Nintendo GameCube Game Boy Advance cable plus a special Memory Card—you'll be connecting and storing your horde in no time. The must-have application is available only through the Pokémon Center NY store and its website, Pokemoncenter.com.

Brigette's Invention

Kanto's Bill invented the PC system. Hoenn's Lanette made it better. And Lanette's sister, Brigette, created the Pokémon Box system, which ties into the PCs in both Kanto and Hoenn to provide more storage capacity.

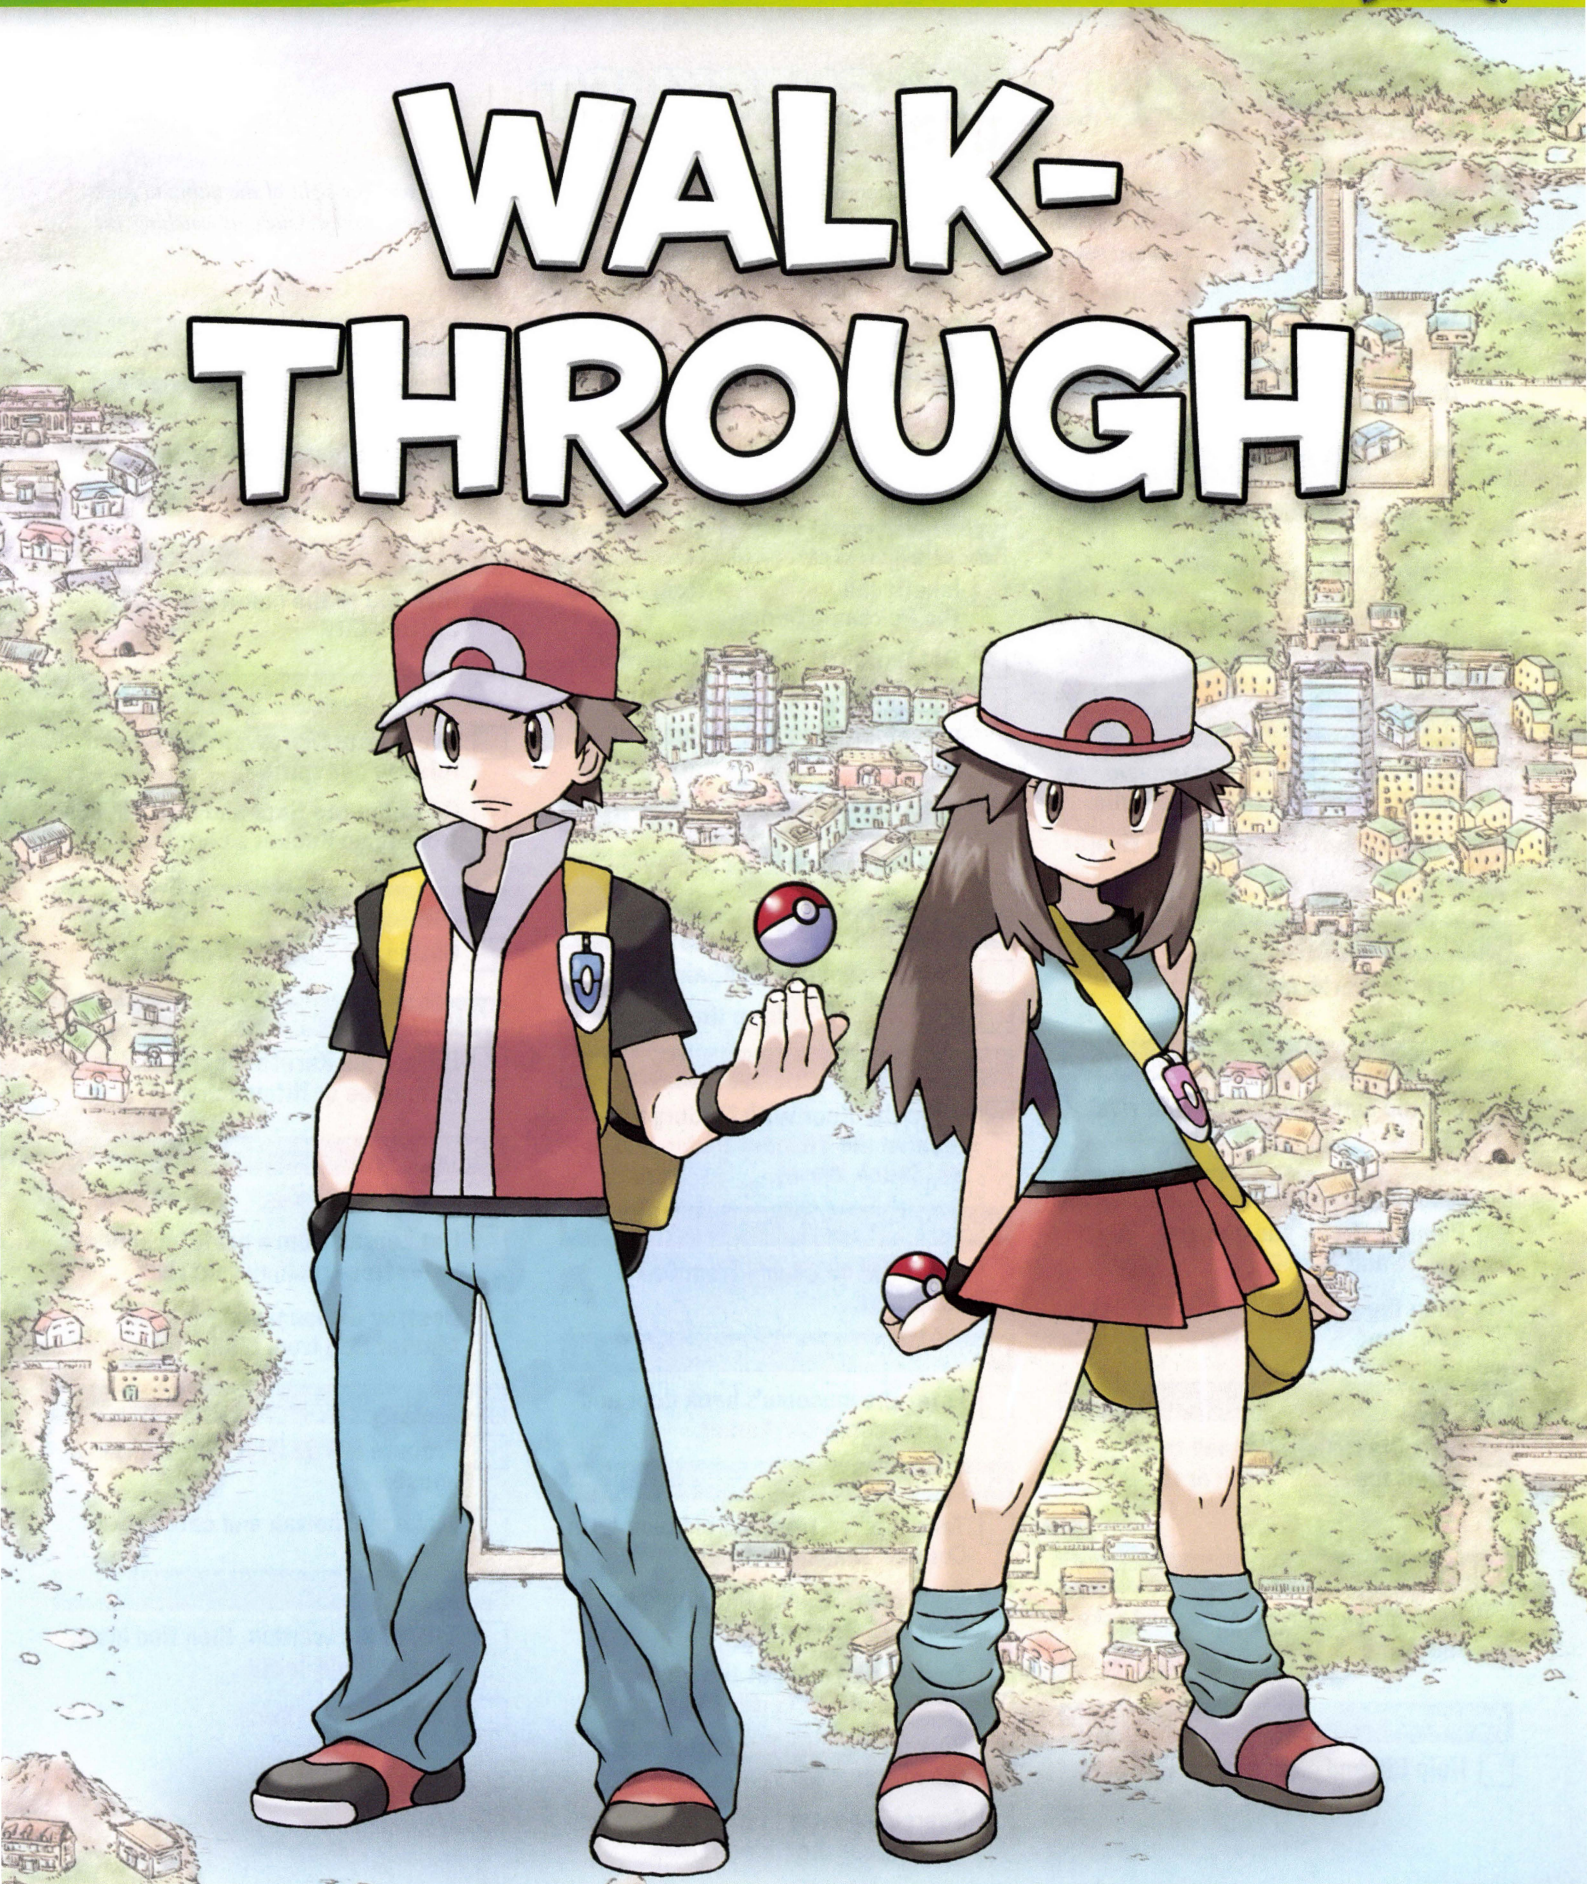
Superdeep Storage

When you connect Pokémon Box on your Nintendo GameCube to your GBA Pak, you'll be able to see both storage banks at once, then grab batches of Pokémon from one area and move them to the other with ease.

Further Features

Pokémon Box has many ways for you to sort and display your collection. It also connects to Pokémon Ruby and Sapphire (but not Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen) and allows you to play the Hoenn epic on your TV.

WALK-THROUGH



GAMEPLAY CHECKLIST

There's a lot to see and do in Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen, and sometimes you can lose sight of the ultimate goal. The checklist shows everything you'll need to do to complete the game, and some things (such as catching the legendary Pokémon) that will make your experience much richer.

READING THE WALK-THROUGH

The walk-through will tell you everything you need to know to complete the game, but it's no good if you can't understand it. Study this section carefully so you'll be ready to scan a page and pull out the information you need.

LATER

You can't see it all on the first trip through Kanto. You'll often need to revisit an area to receive an item or trigger an event. "Later" labels indicate those instances.

GYM LEADER

Each Gym Leader appears in a box that tells you who he or she is and the Pokémon you'll face—plus strategy for dealing with the foe.

RIVAL BATTLES

You'll meet and battle your rival several times. His Pokémon will depend on which Pokémon you take from Professor Oak at the beginning of the game.

REGION MAP

The region map highlights your location. The green sections indicate towns, cities and routes. The red sections mark caves.

Letters inside black circles indicate connections between two different maps. If the connecting map is not on the same page, the page number will be listed next to the circle.

STICK

Yellow labels show item locations. You can find items on the ground or get them from people.

METRONOME

Blue labels show the location of Move Tutors—characters who will teach your Pokémon a TM. The move can be learned only once.

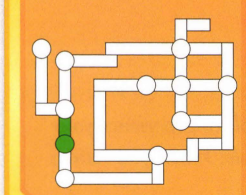
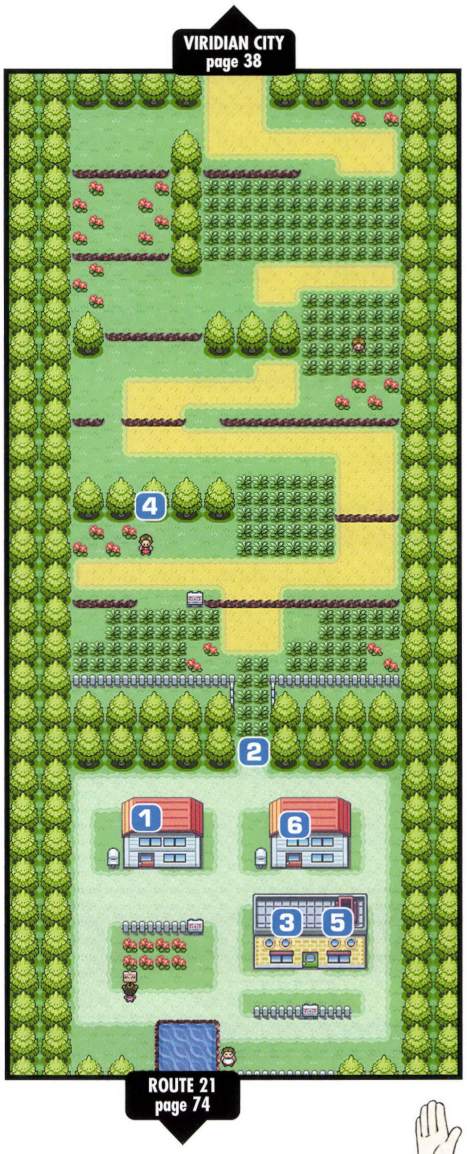
Red exclamation points show where you'll meet and battle with your rival. They are accompanied by a Rival Battle strategy box.



PALLET TOWN & ROUTE 1

Pallet Town is the small, unassuming burg from which you'll embark on your adventure. In the beginning you can walk only north, but once you learn Surf you can come back and explore the waters to the south. Spend a little time getting to know your neighbors before rushing out into the great wide world.



1 Home Sweet Home

Your home is your castle—a welcome retreat from the crazy life of a Pokémon Trainer. When you visit home, your mom will let you rest in the upstairs bedroom. Any injured Pokémon in your party will be healed during the snooze.

LATER After you've completed some major milestones in your Pokémon-training career—caught 60 Pokémon, returned Lostelle to her father on Two Island and become the Pokémon League Champion—Professor Oak will upgrade your Pokédex so it will help you keep track of the hundreds of Pokémon across the whole world, not just Kanto's 151.

2 Leaving So Soon?

There isn't a lot to see in Pallet Town, and the road calls to all restless Pokémon Trainers. When you try to leave, however, Professor Oak will impede your progress and escort you back to his laboratory.

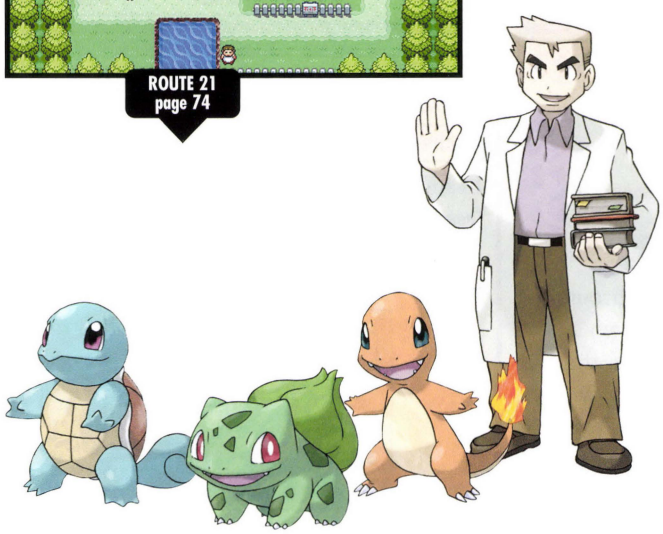
3 Choose Wisely

After Professor Oak smacks down his hot-headed grandson, he'll let you choose a Fire-type Charmander, a Grass-and-Poison type Bulbasaur or a Water-type Squirtle to call your own. Think carefully—you get only one, and you won't be able to catch the remaining two Pokémon anywhere else.

4 Potion Commotion

POTION

Head north from Pallet Town and talk to the Pokémart employee on Route 1. The slick salesman knows that happy customers are repeat customers, and if you speak to him he'll give you a free Potion to start you on your journey. After you get the freebie, continue to Viridian City.



5 Get the Pokédex

POKéDEX POKé BALL x5

A man at the Pokémart in Viridian City will give you a package for Professor Oak. When you return it to him, the grateful prof will give you a Pokédex and five Poké Balls. You'll then be ready to catch wild Pokémon and start building your collection.

6 A Sister's Revenge TOWN MAP

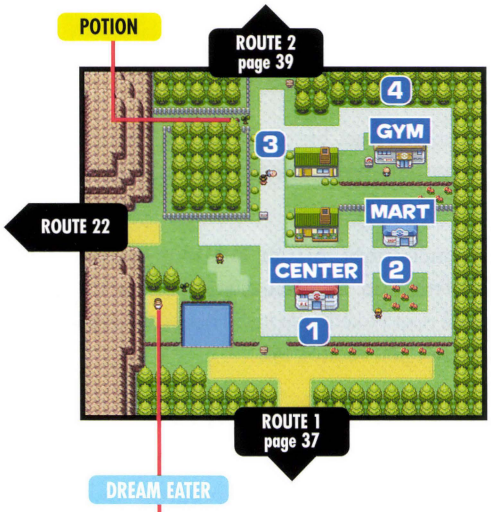
After you get the Pokédex, swing by your rival's house in the top-right corner. His sister will give you a town map that shows the location of Kanto's important landmarks.

LATER After you've become the Pokémon League Champion, your rival's sister will occasionally offer to groom one of your Pokémon, which will strengthen its Friendship with you. You can also have her evaluate your bond with your lead Pokémon.

VIRIDIAN CITY

Viridian City seems like a bustling metropolis compared to the slow pace of Pallet Town. You'll be able to experience your first Pokémart, Pokémon Center and Gym in Viridian City, and also meet a lot of interesting people. When you return with a few new moves and badges under your belt, you'll be able to do even more.



LATER Once you've learned Cut (HM 01), you can slice down a small tree in the southwest corner of Viridian City. The man waiting there will teach Dream Eater to one of your qualified Pokémon.

1 The Center of Your World

Pokémon Centers are located in any town of decent size, and they're invaluable resources. The nurse on the first floor will heal your Pokémon free of charge and let you use the computer to her right. Upstairs you'll find stations where you can battle your friends or trade Pokémon. See page 24 for more details.

2 Shop Smart. Shop Pokémart. OAK'S PARCEL

The Pokémart sells a small assortment of items that will help you in battle. (Later Pokémarts will have a much larger selection.) Speak to the man behind the counter to receive a parcel for Professor Oak.

3 Get up, Gramps! TEACHY TV

On the east side of town you'll find an old man lying on the ground who will refuse to let you pass. Once you deliver Oak's Parcel, however, the old timer will let you through and give you the Teachy TV—which shows how to battle and catch wild Pokémon.

4 Gym Leader in Hiding

LATER The Viridian City Gym will remain closed until you have seven badges. Once you do, you can return and challenge the Gym Leader for the eighth and final badge.

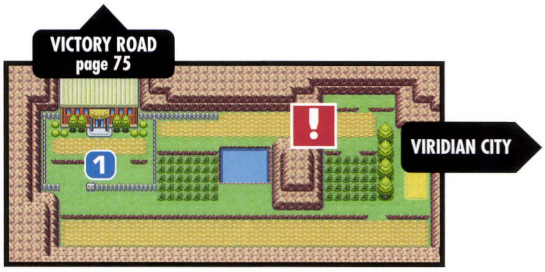
ANTIDOTE	100	POKé BALL	200
PARALYZE HEAL	200	POTION	300

ROUTE 22

Your rival is waiting for you on Route 22, and he's got two higher-level Pokémon. Try to grab a Mankey in the tall grass—it will be helpful for your first Gym Leader battle.



1 We Need Badges

You won't be able to pass through Victory Road until you own all eight Gym Badges. Rather than wasting your time haggling with guards, search the grass on Route 22 and catch a few wild Pokémon.

! RIVAL BATTLE 1

	LV 9	PIDGEY	NRM-FLY

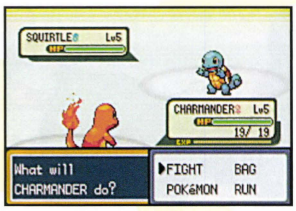
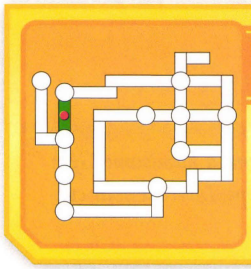
BULBASAUR	LV 9	CHARMANDER	FIRE
CHARMANDER	LV 9	SQUIRTLE	WTR
SQUIRTLE	LV 9	BULBASAUR	GRS-PSN

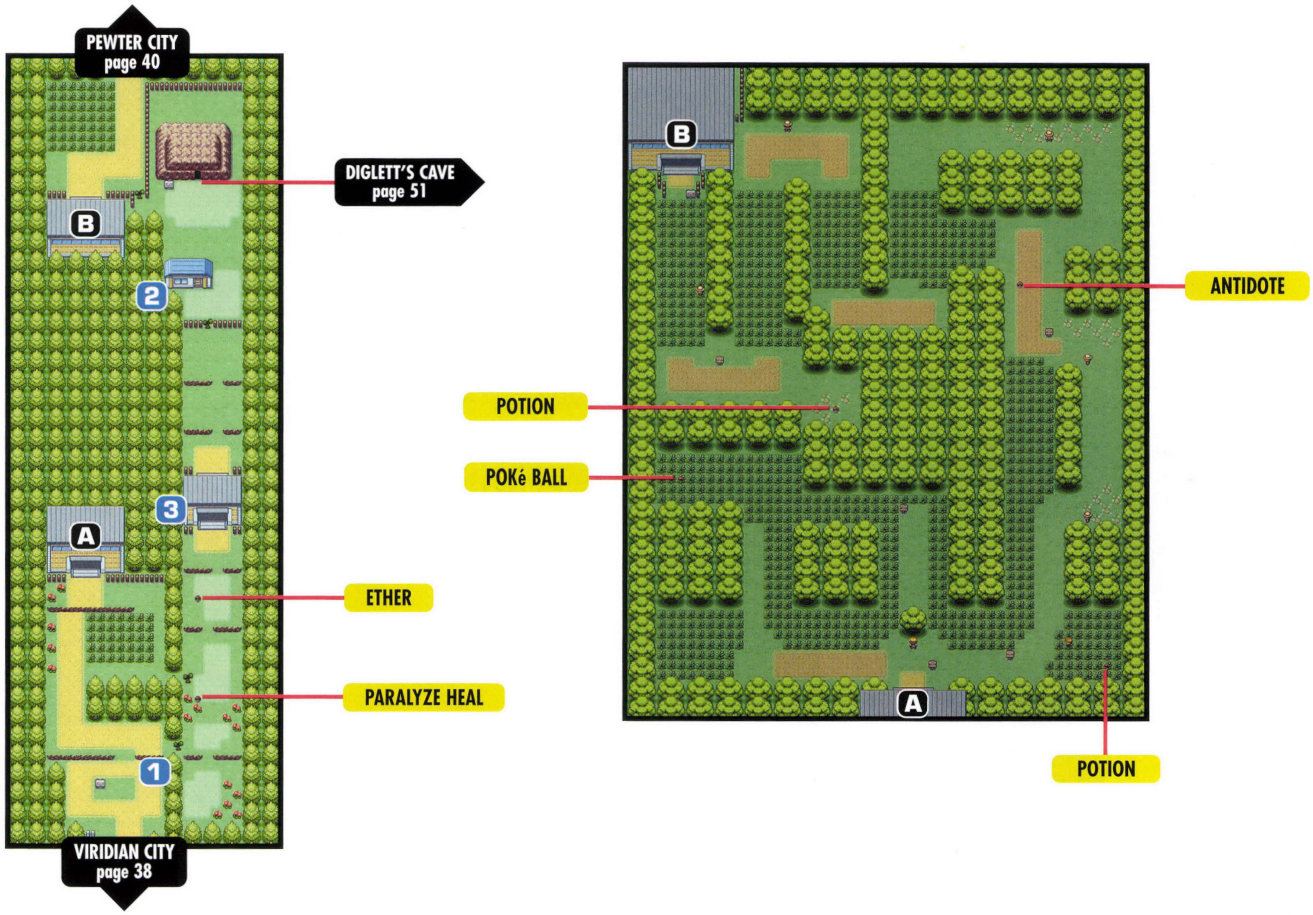
In addition to the Pokémon he took from Professor Oak, your rival will have a level-nine Pidgey. If you caught a wild Pikachu on Route 2, use Thundershock to take down the Pidgey.





ROUTE 2 & VIRIDIAN FOREST

Route 2 contains some useful wild Pokémon, including Pikachu—and catching the Electric-type early will give you a big advantage in the first couple of gyms. Viridian Forest is home to a number of trained and wild Pokémon—nearly all of which are Bug-types. Use Fire-, Flying- and Rock-type moves to bring the Bugs into line.



1 How to Cut Like a Pro

LATER Once you've learned the HM Cut, you can use it to chop down small, thin trees and enter the eastern side of Route 2. The trees are an especially hearty variety and will regrow almost immediately once you are out of sight.

You'll learn Cut from the captain of the S.S. Anne, a luxury liner docked in Vermilion City.

2 Mime! All Mime!

LATER A young Pokémon Trainer in the house at the north end of Route 2 will swap his rare Mr. Mime for an Abra. If you have a spare Abra in your party, take him up on the offer. The level of Mr. Mime will match that of the traded Pokémon.

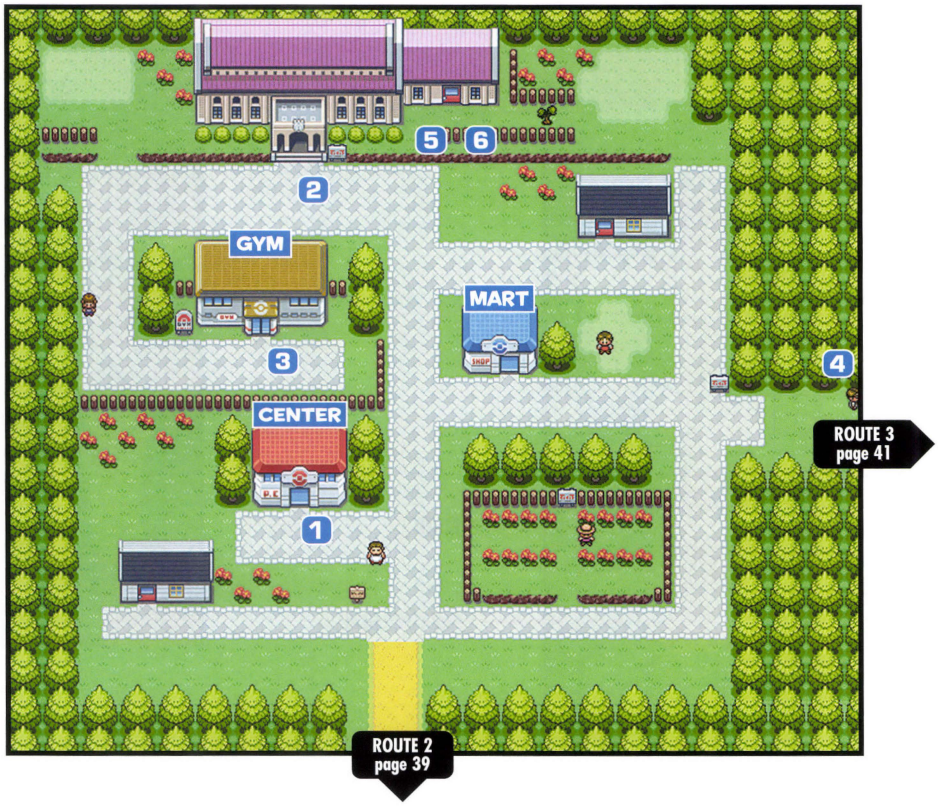
3 Earning Flash

HM 05 (FLASH)

LATER Professor Oak has stationed assistants all around Kanto to encourage you in your journey. If you speak to the one inside the blue-roofed building, he will give you Flash (HM 05)—but only if you have 10 Pokémon in your Pokédex.

PEWTER CITY

Pewter City is home to a number of impressive sights, including the Pewter Museum of Science and a handsome Gym Leader named Brock. The Pokémart also has a couple of new items for sale, including the Escape Rope. Increase your cultural awareness by visiting the scholarly types, then go pound Brock into the ground.



1 The Profiler

Inside the Pokémon Center, you'll find a young girl in a pink dress. If you speak to her, she'll offer to change your profile—which is the message that appears when you battle other Trainers. You can build the profile by choosing four words or phrases from a lengthy list of options.

2 In the Name of Science

The museum charges a hefty entrance fee of ₽50, and there are no membership discounts. If you fork over the cash, you'll be able to speak to the other patrons and view exhibits of old Pokémon fossils—but there's no strategic reason to do so.

3 Fight for Your Freedom

Brock is always looking for a good challenge. To that end, he's stationed a lackey at the eastern edge of town who will block your way until you challenge and defeat the Gym Leader.

5 Backdoor Bargains

OLD AMBER

LATER The museum has a backdoor, but you can't use it until you know Cut. Once you do, speak to the scientist in the corner to get a piece of Old Amber. You can turn it into an Aerodactyl on Cinnabar Island.

6 The Toss Is Boss

SEISMIC TOSS

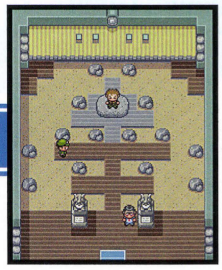
LATER A scientist in the rear of the museum knows Seismic Toss, a powerful Fighting-type move that causes damage equal to the Pokémon's level. He will teach it to one of your Pokémon if you ask nicely.

GYM LEADER BROCK

LV 12	GEODUDE ♂	RCK-GRD	LV 14	ONIX ♂	RCK-GRD

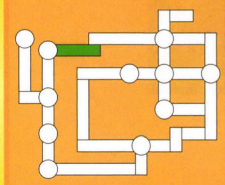
RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: WATER, GRASS, FIGHTING

If you selected Bulbasaur or Squirtle as your starting Pokémon, you'll have little trouble with Brock. Water- and Grass-type attacks will be doubly effective against his Rock-and-Ground types. If you took Charmander, the battle will be tougher. Use any Grass-, Water- or Fighting-type moves at your disposal to gain the upper hand. You can catch a wild Mankey on Route 22, it will prove very useful against Brock.



PRIZES:
BOULDER BADGE & TM 39 (ROCK TOMB)

The Boulder Badge raises your Pokémon's Attack and lets you use Flash; Rock Tomb lowers a foe's Speed by one level.

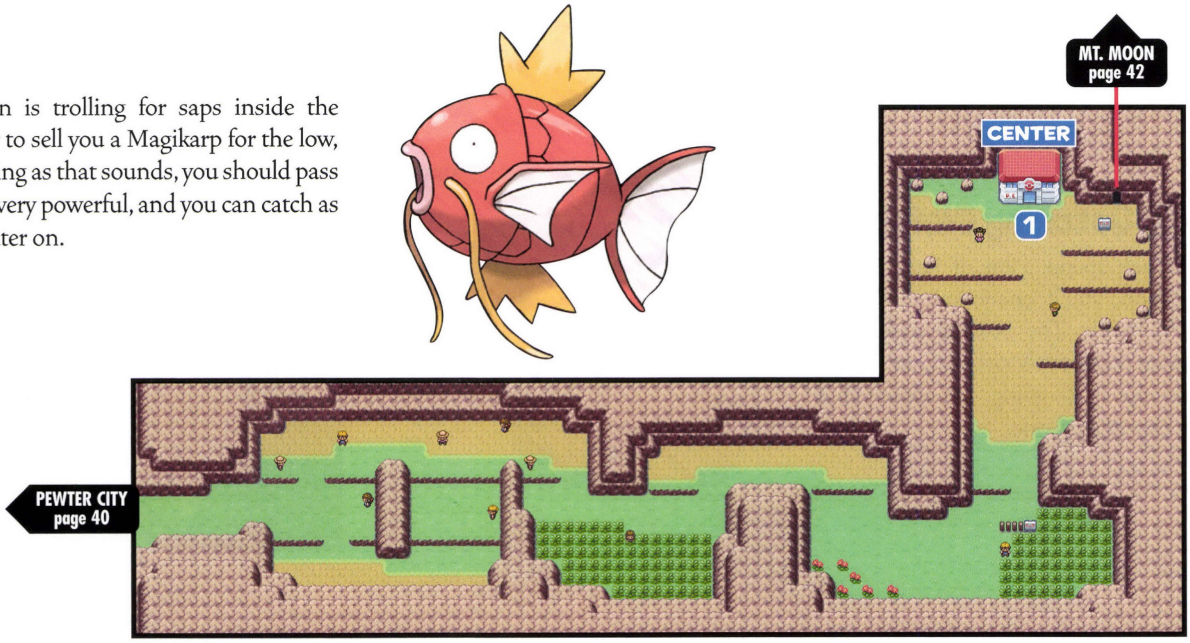


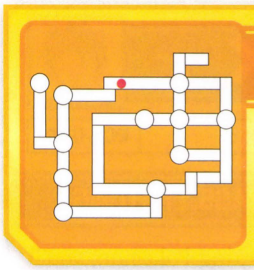
ROUTE 3

Route 3 connects Pewter City with Mt. Moon. The area is packed to the brim with eager Trainers, most of whom are holding Bug-type Pokémon (with the occasional Normal- or Flying-type). If you run into trouble, make for the Pokémon Center at the end of the road and heal your team.

1 Bad Deals

A shady traveling salesman is trolling for saps inside the Pokémon Center. He'll offer to sell you a Magikarp for the low, low price of ₽500. As tempting as that sounds, you should pass on the offer. Magikarp isn't very powerful, and you can catch as many as you want for free later on.

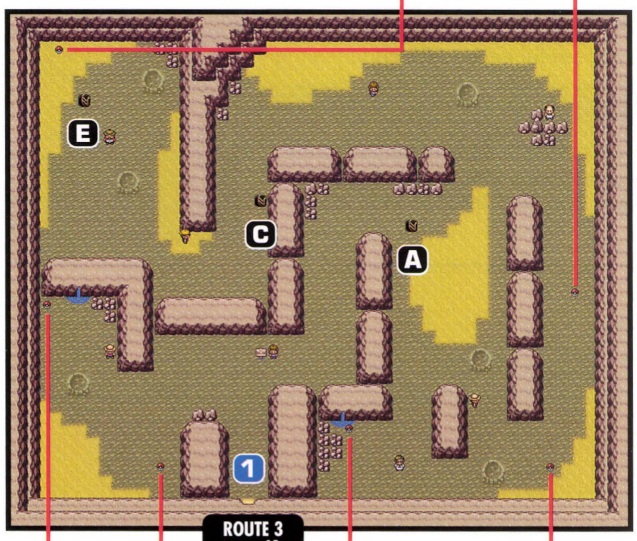




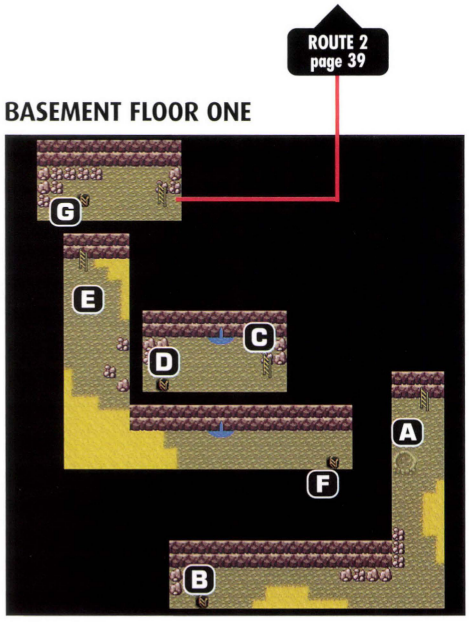
MT. MOON

You'll find lots of wild Geodudes and Zubats inside Mt. Moon, but you'll also encounter lots of strong Trainers—many of whom use Bug-, Flying- or Poison-type Pokémon. (If you catch a Geodude, it can usually hold its own against all three types.) Bring along plenty of Potions and Antidotes, plus an Escape Rope in case things get out of hand.

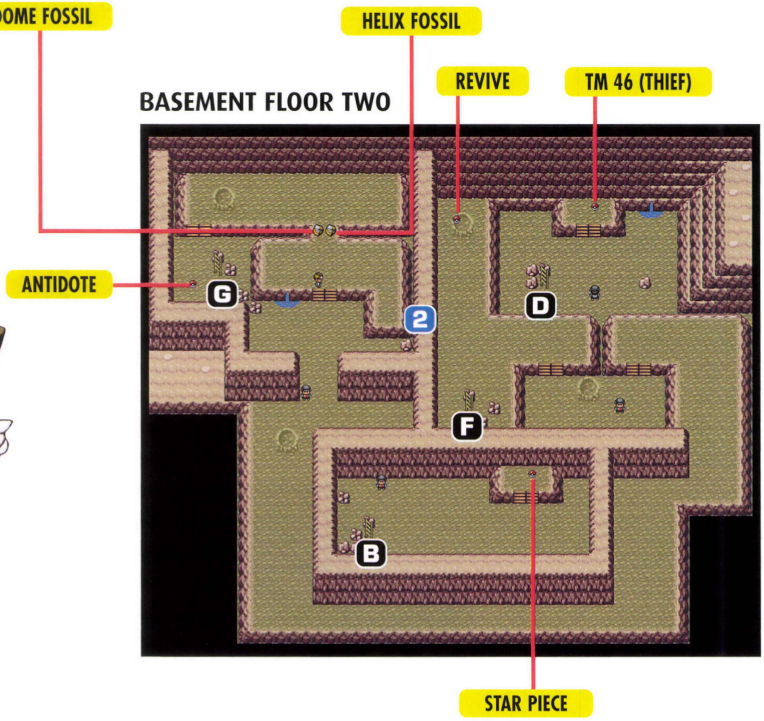
GROUND FLOOR



BASEMENT FLOOR ONE

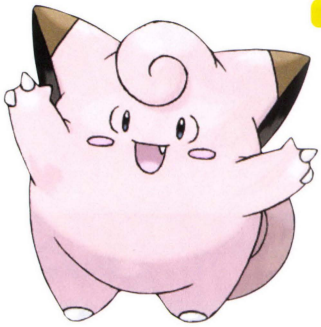


BASEMENT FLOOR TWO



1 Catching Clefairy

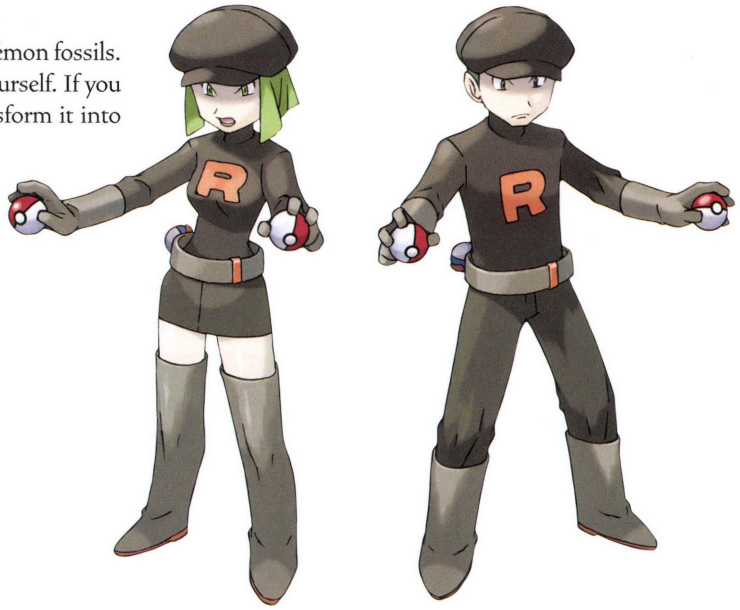
If you spend a lot of time in Mt. Moon, you'll encounter a Clefairy eventually. The Normal-type Pokémon is extremely rare and very helpful in the early going. Do whatever it takes to snag one.

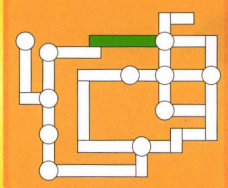


2 The Fossil Selection

Near the exit to Mt. Moon, you'll discover a man guarding a pair of Pokémon fossils. Once you defeat him in battle, you'll get to take one of the fossils for yourself. If you take the fossil to the Pokémon Lab on Cinnabar Island, you can transform it into either a Kabuto or Omanyte.

The Dome Fossil (on the left) will become a Kabuto, while the Helix Fossil (on the right) will turn into an Omanyte. Both are Rock-and-Water-types with one evolution, so take the one that suits you better.





ROUTE 4

Route 4 will seem like a picnic compared to the harsh world of Mt. Moon. If you're low on energy, bypass the grass and head for the Pokémon Center in Cerulean City immediately. If you still have the will to explore, however, wander through the weeds for a bit—FireRed players can pick up an Ekans, while LeafGreen games can capture a Sandshrew.

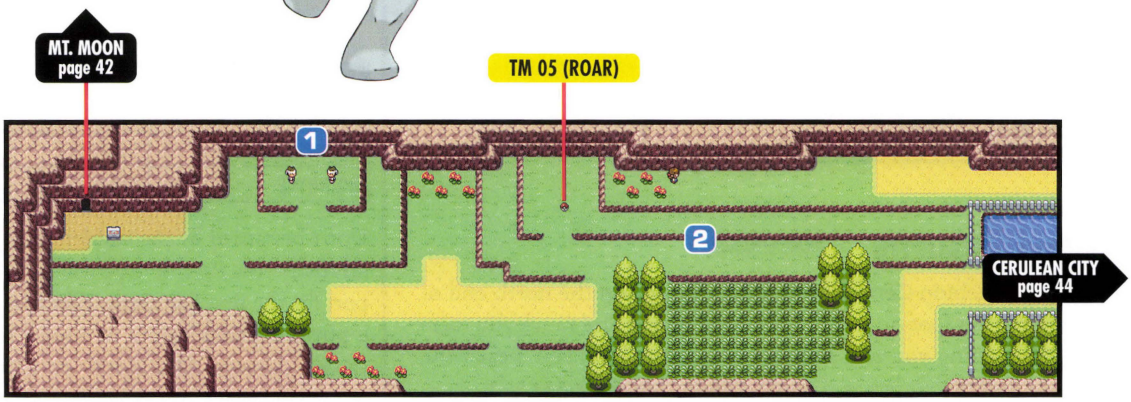
1 Deliver the Goods

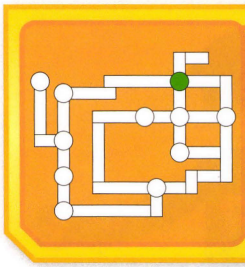
MEGA PUNCH MEGA KICK

When you exit Mt. Moon you'll find a pair of fighters standing on a hilltop. Each one will offer to teach you a move—Mega Punch or Mega Kick—that you can learn only once. Think carefully before you agree to learn them, especially if you want a powerful Fighting-type move for a later Pokémon.

2 The Cliff of No Return

Once you leap off the cliff marked with a 2 on the map below, you won't be able to return to Mt. Moon for some time. Make sure that you collect all the Pokémon and items you want before proceeding.





CERULEAN CITY

Cerulean City is home to a Pokémon Gym, and it's also the launching point for all those who wish to visit the Pokémaniac known as Bill. Spend some time learning about berries, help foil a robbery and check out the insane prices on wheeled transportation. It's all in a day's work for an up-and-coming Pokémon Trainer.

1 The Rival Returns

FAME CHECKER

Once you visit the Pokémon Center, head for the bridge on the north end of town. Before you can set foot on it, your rival will appear and mock you mercilessly before challenging you to a fight. If you defeat him, you'll earn the Fame Checker—a device that lets you recall certain conversations.

Don't be rattled by the sudden appearance of an Abra—the Psychic-type will try to use Teleport for the first few turns. Take him out with a physical attack before he uses a move that causes damage. Use Rock- or Electric-type moves to take down Pidgeotto, then a Pokémon with high Defense to wear out Rattata.

2 Punish the Thief TM 28 (DIG)

Team Rocket has ransacked a house on the edge of town. After you head north and meet with Bill the Pokémaniac, enter the house and use the backdoor to access a new part of Cerulean City. You'll have to defeat the thief first, and he uses Fighting- and Psychic-type Pokémon. When you best him, he'll hand over Dig.

3 Berry-Powder Trader POWDER BAG

Once you have at least one berry, you can get the Powder Jar from the berry-obsessed man. You can then play the Berry Crusher wireless-multiplayer minigame on the second floor of Pokémon Centers in Kanto (see page 25) to produce Berry Powder. The man will trade you power-ups, including rare minerals, for the powder.

4 Nice Bikes, Awful Prices BICYCLE

LATER The shop on the southwest end of town sells bicycles for ₽1,000,000 each! There's no way to purchase one, so return when you get the Bike Voucher from Vermilion City.

5 Jynxed! FAB MAIL

The old man on the west side of town will give you a Jynx in exchange for a Poliwhirl. It's the only way you can get the rare Ice-and-Psychic type Pokémon, so trade as soon as you can. You can find a Poliwhirl by using the Super Rod near Viridian City.

6 Cerulean Cave's Mystery Dungeon

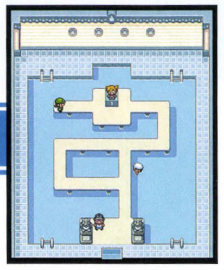
LATER You can reach Cerulean Cave only by Surfing from the takeoff spot at the north end of the bridge. A bouncer who warns you about superstrong Pokémon inside the cave won't let you pass until you've proved your might. To do so, you must become the Pokémon League Champion, then help Celio get the Network Machine up and running on One Island. Return when you've done so and enter Kanto's ultimate dungeon (see page 90).

GYM LEADER MISTY

LV 18	STARYU	WTR	LV 21	STARMIE	WTR-PSY

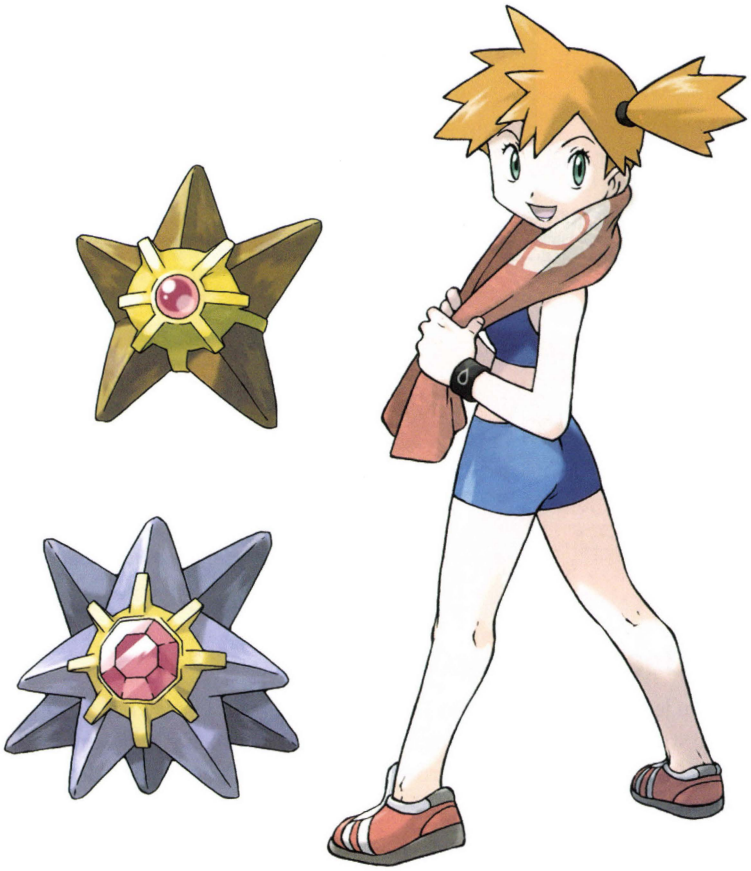
RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: GRASS, ELECTRIC

Misty has a team composed of Water-types, with one Water-and-Psychic-type thrown in for good measure. Grass-type moves will eliminate her team in short order, but you can also use Electric-type moves to good effect. Consider using Bug-type moves on Starmie—they're supereffective. If you took Squirtle from Oak, you should be able to win a battle of attrition with the help of a couple of Potions.



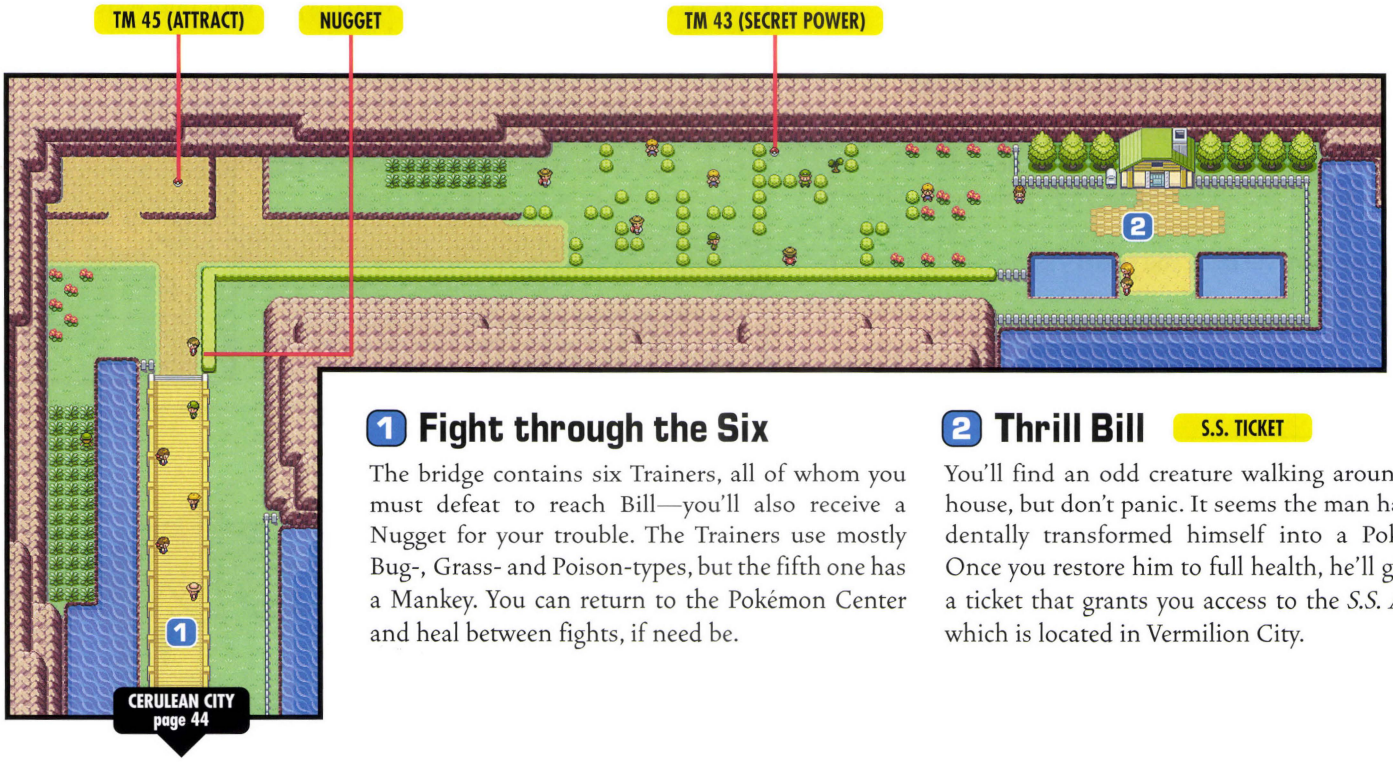
PRIZES:
CASCADE BADGE & TM 03 (WATER PULSE)

The Cascade Badge lets you control Pokémon up to Level 30 and also use Cut. Water Pulse has a 20 percent chance of causing Confuse.



ROUTES 24 & 25

Routes 24 & 25 lead to Bill's house, and there are many Trainers to test you along the way. More importantly, you can find an Abra in the clump of grass northeast of the bridge. You'll need a fast Pokémon that can cause Sleep or Paralyze to catch the elusive Psychic-type—otherwise it will cast Teleport and flee. Try using a Butterfree that knows Sleep Powder.



1 Fight through the Six

The bridge contains six Trainers, all of whom you must defeat to reach Bill—you'll also receive a Nugget for your trouble. The Trainers use mostly Bug-, Grass- and Poison-types, but the fifth one has a Mankey. You can return to the Pokémon Center and heal between fights, if need be.

2 Thrill Bill S.S. TICKET

You'll find an odd creature walking around Bill's house, but don't panic. It seems the man has accidentally transformed himself into a Pokémon. Once you restore him to full health, he'll give you a ticket that grants you access to the S.S. Anne—which is located in Vermilion City.

ROUTES 5 & 6

Route 5 leads from Cerulean City to Saffron City, while Route 6 takes you between Saffron and Vermilion Cities. You won't have access Saffron City at the moment, so take the underground passage and head for Vermilion. You'll face a few Trainers using mostly familiar Bug- and Normal-type Pokémon—nothing you can't handle.

1 Using the Day Care

If you leave a Pokémon in the Day Care, it will gain experience as you take steps. When you want to pick it up again, you'll have to pay a fee based on how much it has grown. See page 27 for complete details about the Day Care.

2 None Shall Pass

LATER The guard at the gate to Saffron City won't let you through, but he will complain about how thirsty he is. Once you visit Celadon City and get the Tea, you can give it to the guard and access the area.

3 The Nido Shuffle TINYMUSHROOM

The young girl on the Cerulean side of the Underground Passage wants to trade Pokémon. If you're playing FireRed, she'll give you a female Nidoran in exchange for a male. If you're playing LeafGreen, she'll fork over a male Nidoran in exchange for a female.

4 Invisible Treasures

LATER There are a few goodies hidden in the Underground Passage, but you'll need the Itemfinder to locate them. Once you receive the tool, activate it and follow the arrows, then press A to search.

VERMILION CITY

Vermilion City is home to the S.S. Anne, a massive luxury liner that is hosting a party for dozens of Pokémon Trainers. It also boasts a Gym and a man who will give you a fishing rod—which is the first step in catching wild Water-type Pokémon.

1 Seek and Destroy VS. SEEKER

A young woman in the Pokémon Center will hand you a Vs. Seeker if you speak with her. The item allows you to scan an area for Pokémon Trainers that you've already defeated and see if they wish to battle anew. Each time you use it, you must recharge it by taking 100 steps.

2 The Ol' Fishing Rod OLD ROD

A man who calls himself the Fishing Guru lives in a house on the west edge of town. If you tell him that you like to fish, he'll give you the Old Rod. You can use the rod to fish in any body of water, although it will catch only Magikarp.

3 A Farfetch'd Idea STICK

The girl in the center house will give you a Farfetch'd in exchange for a Spearow. Since Spearows are very common and this is the only Farfetch'd in the game, you'd be well advised to make the trade. The Flying-type Pokémon also comes with a Stick—an item that improves the Critical Hit stat. Only Farfetch'd can use the Stick.

4 Yakity Yakity BIKE VOUCHER

The old fellow in the house with a green roof loves to talk. If you permit, he will yammer on and on about all things Pokémon. If you hear him out, however, he'll reward you with a Bike Voucher. You can take the voucher back to the bike shop in Cerulean City to receive a free bicycle.

5 To the Gym

You can't take on the Gym Leader until you've learned Cut—there's a tree blocking the way. The captain of the S.S. Anne will give you the HM, so head for the boat and meet with the good captain if you want to take down Lt. Surge.

6 Head for the Sevii Islands

LATER After you gain one of two special island passes, you'll be able to ride a special ferry to the distant Sevii Islands. With the Tri-Pass, you can travel to One Island, Two Island and Three Island; with the Rainbow Pass that you'll get even later, you'll be able to ride to Four Island, Five Island, Six Island and Seven Island, as well.

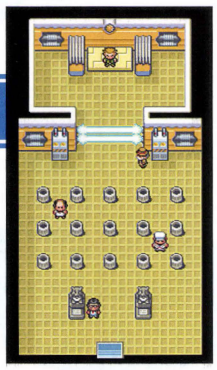
GYM LEADER LT. SURGE

LV 21	VOLTORB	ELC
LV 18	PIKACHU	ELC

LV 24	RAICHU	ELC

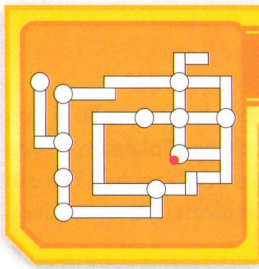
RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: GROUND

Lt. Surge has spent his entire career in training, and his Pokémon are a fierce bunch. Unfortunately for him, they're all Electric-types. Take in a couple of strong Ground-type Pokémon; they will be unaffected by all Electric-type attacks. If you don't have a Ground-type, try using a Normal- or Grass-type that knows a damage-causing Ground-type move. Avoid sending in Water- or Flying-type Pokémon at all costs—they will be decimated.



PRIZES: THUNDER BADGE & TM 34 (SHOCK WAVE)

The Thunder Badge increases the Speed of your Pokémon and lets you use Fly outside of battle. Shock Wave is an Electric-type move that will always strike the foe.



S.S. ANNE

It's all the fun of a cruise without the seasickness and lame limbo parties! The S.S. Anne is hosting a Pokémon spectacular, and all the guests are itching for a fight. Make your way from bow to stern and challenge all who dare oppose you, then pay a visit to the captain's stateroom to learn a new HM.

1 Rest and Relaxation

Remember the location of your bedroom—it's where you can take a quick nap and restore the health of all Pokémon in your party. Speak to the girl inside to initiate the process.

2 Making the Cut

HM 01 (CUT)

The seasick captain will give you the Cut HM after you speak to him. Be careful—once you get the move and leave the ship, the S.S. Anne will sail away and never return. Make sure that you get all the items and battle all the Trainers before the boat departs.

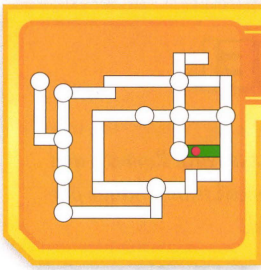
The third time you meet your French-speaking rival, he'll unleash four powerful Pokémon. Use Electric- or Rock-type attacks on Pidgeotto, and use a Pokémon with high Speed to blast Raticate before it can use Hyper Fang. Kadabra is tough, but it has a low Defense—hit it with strong physical attacks.



ROUTE 11 & DIGLETT'S CAVE

Route 11 is full of Trainers who use a wide variety of Pokémon, including Fire-types and an Electric-and-Steel-type. When you're not fighting, search the grass for a Drowzee. Diglett's Cave is a tough go. Use Water- and Grass-type attacks to make it easier.

1 Find the Finder

ITEMFINDER

If you have 30 different Pokémon in your Pokédex, an assistant to Professor Oak will give you the Itemfinder. You can use it to find invisible goodies in a variety of locations.

2 The Nido Shuffle

The boy sitting next to Oak's assistant wants to trade Pokémon. If you're playing FireRed, he will give you a Nidorina in exchange for a Nidorino. In LeafGreen, he will offer his Nidorino for a Nidorina.

ROUTE 11

ROUTES 9 & 10 & ROCK TUNNEL

After clearing out the S.S. Anne and exploring Diglett's Cave, go back to Cerulean City then head east to reach Routes 9 and 10. You'll find a bunch of Trainers armed with a variety of Pokémon, so be sure to bring a well-balanced team. Include one Pokémon that knows the HM Flash—otherwise you won't get very far in the darkness of Rock Tunnel.

1 The Everstone Gift

EVERSTONE

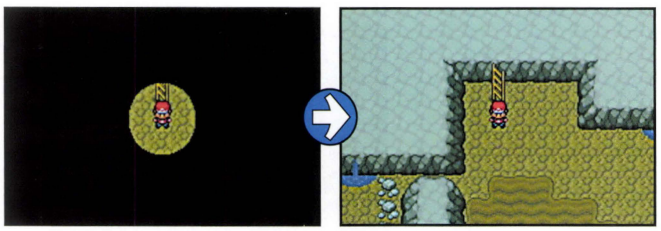
Another of Professor Oak's many aides is waiting for you in the Route 9 Pokémon Center. If your Pokédex has at least 20 entries, he will give you an Everstone. A Pokémon that holds the item is prevented from evolving.

2 Catch a Big One

LATER Once you've learned Surf, go to the north end of Route 9 and use the skill to head south. At the end of the river you'll find a power plant where you can catch the incredibly rare Electric-type Pokémon Zapdos.

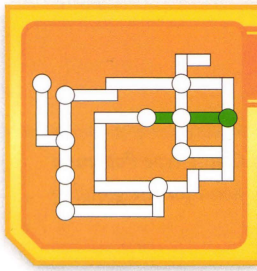
3 Shed Some Light on the Subject

When you first enter Rock Tunnel, you'll have only a small circle of light to guide your way. Use the HM Flash to illuminate the cave and make the journey much easier. Rock Tunnel is also a good place to use the Itemfinder and pick up a few choice tidbits.



4 Learning the Moves ROCK SLIDE

A yellow-capped boy on B2F of Rock Tunnel will teach Rock Slide to one of your Pokémon. The Rock-type move is fairly powerful, and it may cause the victim to flinch and miss its turn.



LAVENDER TOWN & ROUTES 7 & 8

Lavender Town is home to the scariest skyscraper around, but you won't be able to reach the top floor on your first visit. If you want a Haunter, however, enter the tower immediately and capture the Ghost-and-Poison-type—just make sure it knows Hypnosis! Once you get the Silph Scope, return to the tower and climb to the top floor to rescue a man named Mr. Fuji.

1 Mr. Name Rater

The Name Rater tends to like any nickname you give your Pokémon, but he will let you change it if you like. Note that you can change the names of your own Pokémon only—those that you receive in trades are stuck with their names forever.

2 Helping Fuji

LATER A Pokémon expert named Mr. Fuji is trapped at the top of Pokémon Tower. Unfortunately, you won't be of any help to him until you get the Silph Scope from Celadon City.

3 The Gift of Music

POKé FLUTE

LATER Once you rescue Mr. Fuji, you'll be transported to his house at the base of the tower. Speak to him to receive the Poké Flute—an item that can wake sleeping Pokémon.

4 Blocked Passages

LATER The direct route to Saffron City is blocked by a thirsty guard. Once you get the Tea you'll be able to slake his thirst and pass freely, but in the meantime you'll need to take a stroll through a long underground tunnel.

You won't be able to reach the tower's top floor without the aid of the Silph Scope. You'll fight a lot of Ghost-type Pokémon in the tower—bring Normal-type Pokémon that know a variety of moves. If you run into trouble, head for the glowing blue spot on the fifth floor—standing on it will restore your Pokémon to full health.

When you reach the sixth floor, you'll be confronted with a mysterious shadow. If you have the Silph Scope, you'll recognize it as Marowak, a Ground-type Pokémon. You can't catch it, so eliminate it with Water- or Grass-type moves.

2 The Final Challenge

Before you reach Mr. Fuji, you must battle three Team Rocket members, all of whom use Poison-, Normal- or Psychic-type Pokémon. Once you clear the room, speak to Mr. Fuji and head back to his house in Lavender City to receive the Poké Flute.

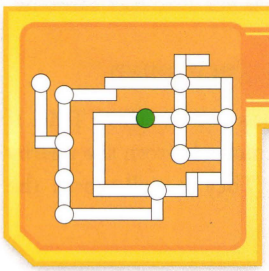
	LV 22	GROWLITHE	FIRE

Your rival has constructed a well-balanced team, but it still has weaknesses. Electric-type moves are effective against Pidgeotto and Wartortle and supereffective against Gyarados, while Bug-type moves will decimate Exeggcute. His Level-20 Kadabra is your main concern. The same Bug-type attacks that hurt Exeggcute will be effective against Kadabra, but you may want to rely on a Pokémon with good physical attacks instead—Kadabra's Defense is fairly low.



CELADON CITY

Celadon City is the biggest burg in Kanto, and home to the world's largest department store. Head there for all your Pokémon needs, then spend some time in the gaming hall, take down a Gym Leader and infiltrate the Team Rocket hideout.

TEA

An old woman on the first floor of Celadon Mansion has the recipe for deliciousness! When you speak to her, she'll hand over some hot Tea—take it to the thirsty guard stationed near Saffron City to finally gain access to the town.

2 Poster Child

A man is guarding a poster in the Game Corner. If you defeat him (his Pokémon aren't particularly strong) he'll flee the scene and leave the poster behind. Examine it with the A Button to press a switch and reveal Team Rocket's secret hideout (see page 53).

3 Gambling Fever

COIN CASE

A man in the back of the restaurant is giving up his gambling ways, and he'll hand you a Coin Case when you speak to him. Once you get coins for the case (which many folks will give you if you ask), you'll be able to play the slots at the Game Corner.

4 Hit the Slots

After you earn a few coins, you can use them to purchase cool prizes in the building next door. (You can also purchase coins at inflated prices if you don't want to gamble.) Note that some prizes and prices differ slightly in the FireRed and LeafGreen versions.

5 Pretty Printer Pictures

There is a Pokémon Printer on the southeast side of the Game Corner. You can use it to print pictures of the Pokémon in your party on the back of your Trainer Card. The price for the pics is ₽50—not too shabby.

6 In through the Back Door

Walk north past the Pokémon Center and turn west. When you reach a small dirt path behind the apartment building, walk inside and head for the roof—where a man will give you an Eevee.

7 The Thirsty Girl

TM 16 (LIGHT SCREEN) TM 20 (SAFEGUARD) TM 33 (REFLECT)

The little girl on the roof of the department store has three TMs. If you give her Fresh Water, Soda Pop and Lemonade from the nearby vending machines, she'll fork them over. They're well worth the small price of three beverages.

8 Behind the Counter

COUNTER

There's a salesman on the third floor of the department store who's itching to teach Counter to one of your Pokémon. The Fighting-type move doubles a foe's previous physical damage infliction, but it forces you to attack second.

9 Chansey's Time to Shine

SOFTBOILED

LATER Once you learn Surf, you can cross the small pond in the middle of town and speak to the old man there. He will teach Softboiled to one of your Pokémon—bring along a Chansey, as the Normal-type is the only one that can learn it.

10 Game Freak Inc.

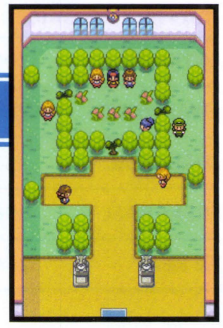
LATER After you complete the Kanto Pokédex, the Game Freak staff—the creators and designers of the Pokémon world—who work in the Celadon Mansion will celebrate your massive accomplishment.

GYM LEADER ERIKA

LV 29	VICTREEBEL	GRS-PSN	LV 29	VILEPLUME	GRS-PSN
LV 24	TANGELA	GRS

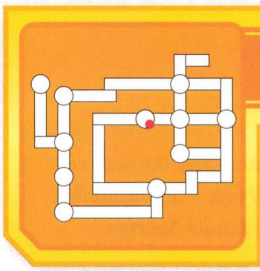
RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: FIRE, FLYING, PSYCHIC

Erika's main strategy is to hit you with status conditions such as Sleep, Paralyze and Poison. Fire-, Flying- and Psychic-type attacks will all serve you well, especially coming from a Pokémon that is immune to one or more status conditions. Bring along Antidotes and Full Heals, and try to end each battle quickly—the longer a fight takes, the more the scales tip in Erika's favor.



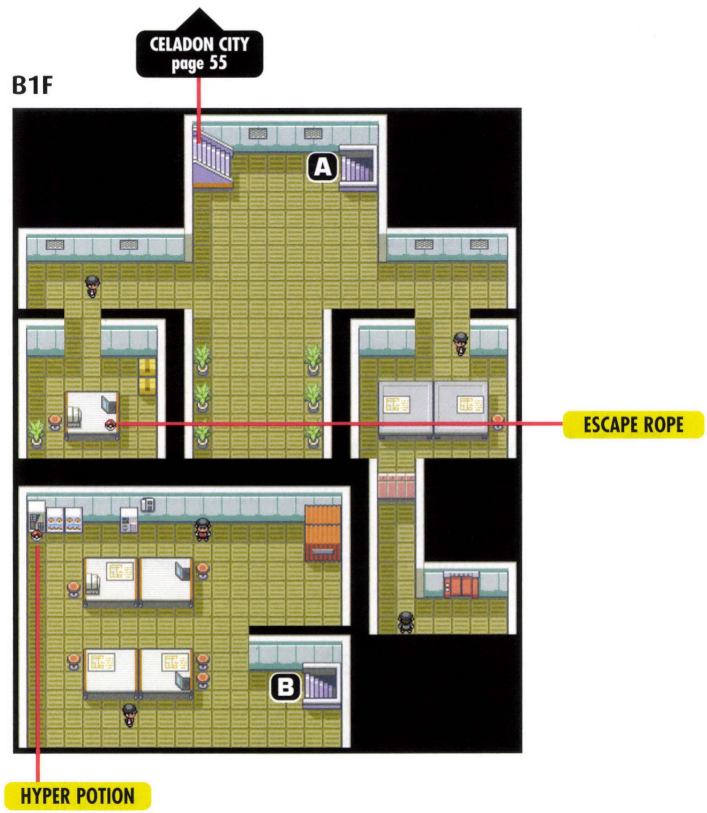
PRIZES: RAINBOW BADGE & TM 19 (GIGA DRAIN)

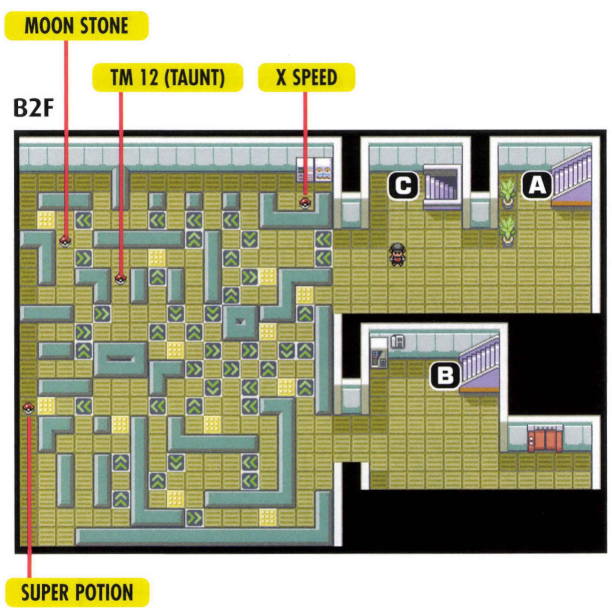
The Rainbow Badge makes all Pokémon up to Level 50 obey you, plus it grants you the ability to use Strength. Giga Drain is a very powerful Grass-type move.

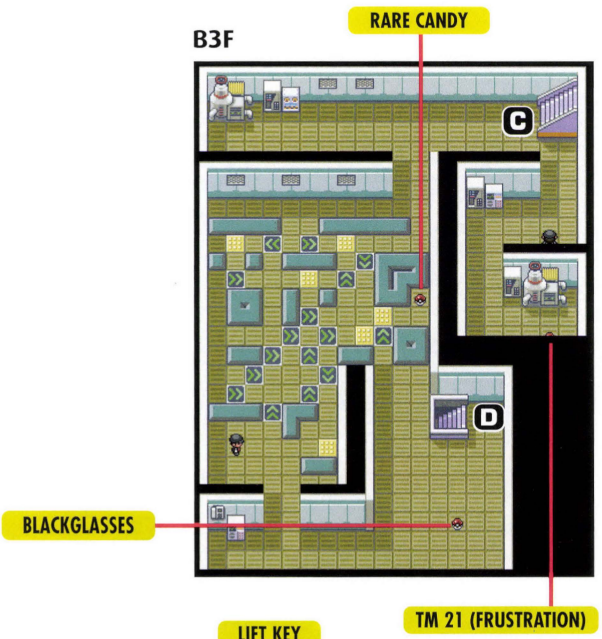


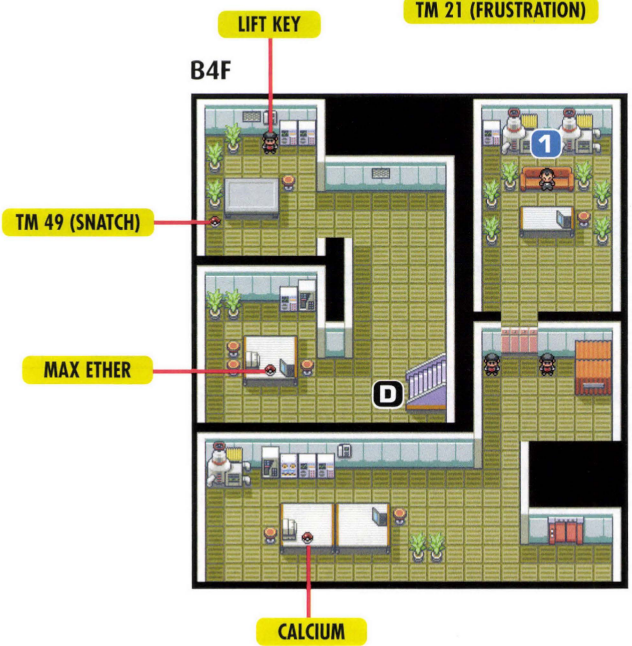
TEAM ROCKET HIDEOUT

The Team Rocket members use Normal-, Poison- and Fighting-type Pokémon almost exclusively. Bring Pokémon that know Psychic-, Fighting-, Flying- and Ground-type moves to strike back. Note that the arrows on the ground will propel you in the direction they point. Examine them closely to make it through the maze.







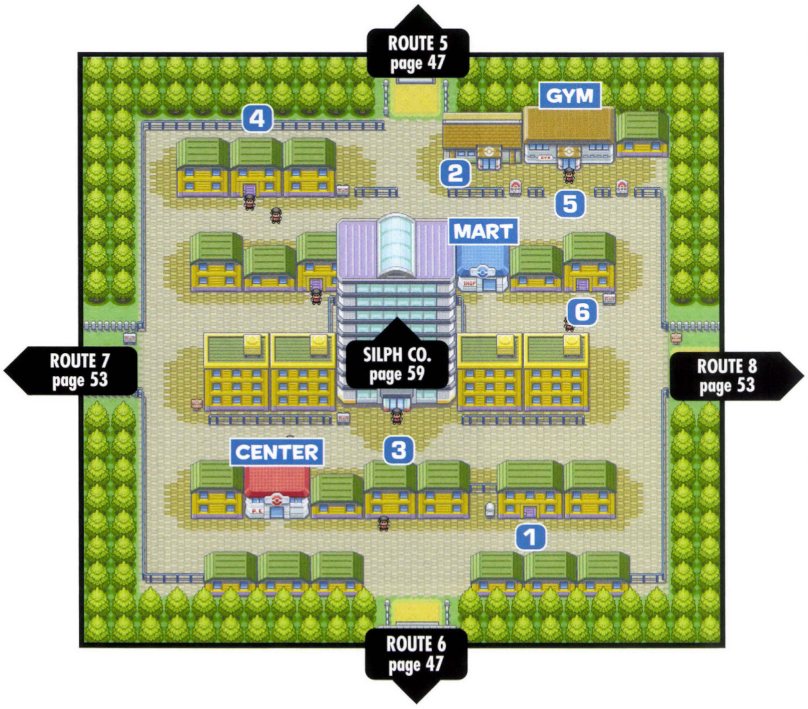


1 Deliver the Goods — SILPH SCOPE

The Team Rocket boss, Giovanni, specializes in Ground- and Ground-and-Rock-type Pokémon. You can defeat his three Pokémon (all of which are around Level 25) by bringing in Pokémon that know Water- and Grass-type attacks. When you best him, he'll fork over the Silph Scope; take it back to Lavender Town.

SAFFRON CITY

Saffron City has been overrun with Team Rocket members who strut around like they own the place. Give the poor citizens a break by entering the Silph Co. and eliminating the Rockets at the source. Get the Psychic TM first—it's invaluable. After you defuse the Rocket threat, you'll resume your badge quest and match wits with local Gym Leader Sabrina.



1 Psychic Friend Network

TM 29 (PSYCHIC)

The man in the southeastern house will give you TM 29, Psychic. The move is the most powerful Psychic-type one in the game and can turn any Psychic-type Pokémon into an offensive juggernaut.

2 Going Ringside

In addition to the regular Gym, there is a dojo that specializes in Fighting-type Pokémon. Use Flying- or Psychic-type attacks to wallop the Trainers inside, who will then let you take either Hitmonlee or Hitmonchan as a reward.

3 A Company Man

Team Rocket won't get out of Dodge until you dislodge them from the Silph Co. headquarters. You'll need to climb to the top of the building and take out Team Rocket's leader to do so—see the following pages for more info.

4 Befriend the Brat

MIMIC

LATER After you've purged Team Rocket from the Silph Co. high-rise, the thug in front of the northwest house will be gone. If you have a Poké Doll when you speak to the obnoxious little girl inside, she'll offer to teach one of your Pokémon the Mimic move.

5 Meet the Minds of Saffron Gym

LATER After you complete your Silph Co. rampage, the shady character who blocks the Gym entrance will also be gone. Enter to challenge Sabrina and her cohorts. Just be sure to freshen up and tinker with your team at the Pokémon Center first.

6 Pokémon Trainer Fan Club

When you first enter the club, you'll hear nothing but praise for other Trainers. After you become the Pokémon League Champion, you'll gain your own devotees inside the house. You may also hear from fans of Pokémon players that you've battled. Keep checking in.

GYM LEADER SABRINA

LV 38	KADABRA	PSY	LV 37	VENOMOTH	BUG-PSN
LV 37	MR. MIME	PSY	LV 43	ALAKAZAM	PSY

RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: FIRE, FLYING, PSYCHIC

Sabrina's three Psychic-types are weak to Dark-, Ghost- and Bug-type strikes. Unfortunately, all have high Special Defense, so they'll rebuff much Dark- and Ghost-type damage. They have dismal Defense, so stick with Bug-type attacks or effective physical attacks with high basic attack. Her Bug-and-Poison-type Venomoth has several weaknesses; by the time you meet Sabrina, you're likely to have a supereffective Psychic-type attack in your arsenal—use it.

PRIZES:

SILPH CO.

You'll need a Card Key to reach the boss. Look for small teleportation pads scattered around the building that will take you from one floor to another. Though you can run for the key, you should use every pad so you can collect all the items and fight as many battles as possible.

2 The Ultimate Paralysis THUNDER WAVE

Using the Card Key, unlock the door in the northwest corner of the second floor to reach a woman who will teach one of your Pokémon Thunder Wave. It's a paralyzing move with awesome accuracy.

3 You Deserve a Break Today

Before you get too carried away with the Card Key's path-opening power, unlock the break room on the ninth floor. You can use the room to heal your crew as often as needed during your Silph run.

4 Lapras in the Final Lap

You'll need to reach the Team Rocket boss to save Silph. Your final teleport-assisted stretch will start on the third floor. Freshen up your team before you teleport to the seventh floor—your rival will battle you (see below). After you beat him, speak to the researcher to get a one-of-a-kind Lapras, a powerful Water-and-Ice Pokémon.

5 He's Blasting off Again MASTER BALL

Teleport to the eleventh floor after your Lapras chat. Unlock the door with the Card Key, then barge into the Silph president's office and battle Giovanni—Ground-type attacks will be supereffective against most of his Pokémon. The Team Rocket boss will run off after you defeat him, and the grateful prez will give you the never-failing Master Ball. It's the only one you'll find on your quest, so use it wisely.

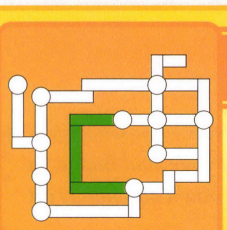
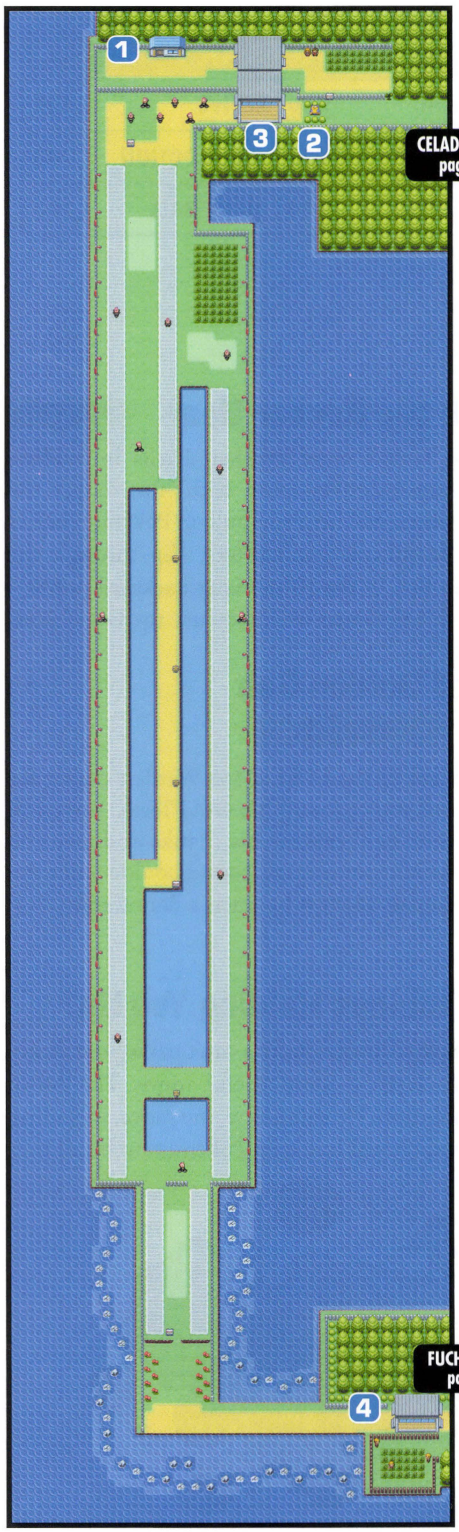
SQUIRTLE	LV 40	VENUSAUR	GRS-PSN
	LV 38	GYARADOS	WTR-FLY
	LV 35	GROWLITHE	FIRE

Your rival's starter has reached its ultimate evolution, and he's got his Grass-, Fire- and Water-type bases covered. Come packing a strong Electric-type attack to blast Flying-types and Water-types off the field. His Alakazam can be a real terror; hit it hard with the strongest physical attack you've got (but not a Fighting-type strike), because its Defense isn't that great.



ROUTES 16, 17 & 18

With the Poké Flute, you can go to Fuchsia City in the south via a western path (Routes 16, 17 and 18) or an eastern path (see page 64). The latter has its pluses, but the western way, packed with Poison-type-using Trainers, will get you in top shape for the battle with Fuchsia's Gym Leader and his Poison-types. The path is steep—you'll also need the Bicycle.



1 Fly—Be free! HM 02 (FLY)

Before you hop on your Bicycle, Cut your way to the building next to the guard post, then walk through to reach a clearing. Enter the house there and speak to the woman to get HM 02 (Fly). The move lets you fly to any city you've visited—an easy way to get the Bicycle if you didn't make the required stops in Vermilion and Cerulean.

2 A Pain in the Snorlax

You can wake the Snorlax that blocks the entrance to the guard post by playing the Poké Flute. If you win the battle, it will run off, opening the way to Route 16. Go to the pains of catching the massive Normal-type, however, because it's one of only two Snorlax available in all of Kanto—a major rarity.

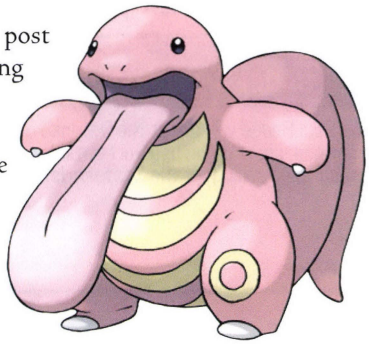
Before you wake Snorlax, stock up with the best Poké Balls you can buy. Even after you wear down Snorlax and put it to sleep or freeze it, it will resist capture. The juggernaut is worth the trouble.

3 Double Your Money AMULET COIN

Another of Professor Oak's aides is in the guard post. He'll give you the Amulet Coin if you've caught at least 40 Pokémon. If you give the item to a Pokémon to hold and it participates in battle, you'll get twice as much cash for your victory prize. Nab the Amulet Coin as early as you can—it'll make you a high roller in no time.

4 Receive Lickitung

The boy on the observation deck of the guard post just outside of Fuchsia will trade you his Lickitung for Golduck (in Pokémon FireRed) or Slowbro (in Pokémon LeafGreen). It will be the same level of the crewmate that you trade. If you've labored long to raise and evolve the Pokémon he wants from a low level, consider returning later to trade after you catch a wild Golduck in Pokémon FireRed and wild Slowbro in Pokémon LeafGreen in the Seafoam Islands cave.



FUCHSIA CITY

Fuchsia City is a place of great opportunity. You can beat down Koga, the local Gym Leader, to get your Soul Badge. In Fuchsia's Safari Zone, you can catch many rare Pokémon, nab lots of TMs and get HM 03 (Surf). You'll also finally get your hands on Ultra Balls—stock up heavily for the huge catches ahead.

For starters, slip through the back door to fish in the fisherman's backyard pond—you can catch a Goldeen when you use the Good Rod.

GYM LEADER KOGA

LV 37	KOFFING	PSN	LV 37	KOFFING	PSN
LV 39	MUK	PSN	LV 43	WEEZING	PSN

RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPE: PSYCHIC

Bring in an armload of Antidotes. Koga and his Gym minions sling Poison conditions left and right. Though his students use a wide variety of Pokémon, Koga restricts himself to Poison-types. Psychic-type moves will devastate Koga's entire team fast. Watch your use of Ground-type attacks, however. Though such moves are supereffective against Poison-types, two of Koga's Pokémon—Koffing and Weezing—have the Levitiate ability, which lets them avoid taking Ground-type damage.

PRIZES: SOUL BADGE & TM 06 (TOXIC)

The Soul Badge will boost the Defense of all your Pokémon, plus let you use Surf outside of battle—a critical step sailing for the Seafoam Islands.

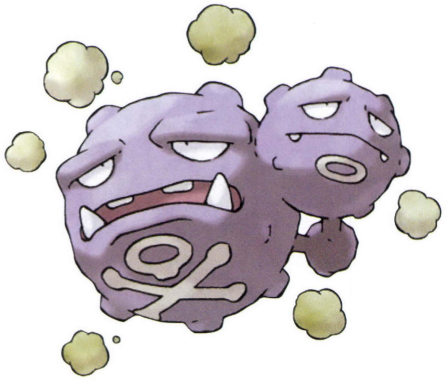
2 The Gift of Golden Gab

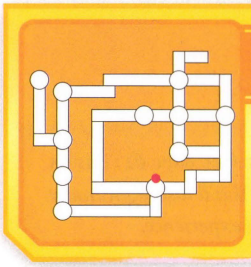
HM 04 (STRENGTH) RARE CANDY

You won't get much out of the Safari Zone Warden except for mumbles, at least until you've found his Gold Teeth. After you hand him his choppers, he'll express his thanks and give you HM 04 (Strength), which moves large, round boulders like the one in the warden's house. Move it to reach a Rare Candy.

3 Hidden Machines Holding You Up?

Hidden Machines have a downside. You can't make your Pokémon forget them to learn a more useful move. The Move Deleter is the only solution. He can delete any move, including HM-taught ones—which will free up a Pokémon to be all that it can be.





SAFARI ZONE

For ₽500, you'll get 30 Safari Balls and 600 steps' worth of time in the four-zone park. Don't leave without many rare catches, such as Venomoth and Kangaskhan. You won't battle Pokémon into submission. To catch one, you'll throw rocks (to improve catch odds) and bait (to encourage the Pokémon to stick around) before using a Safari Ball.

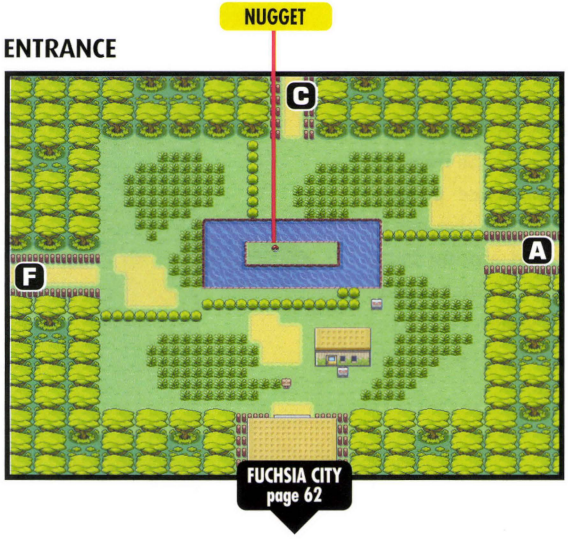
1 Pull Up Anchor at Last

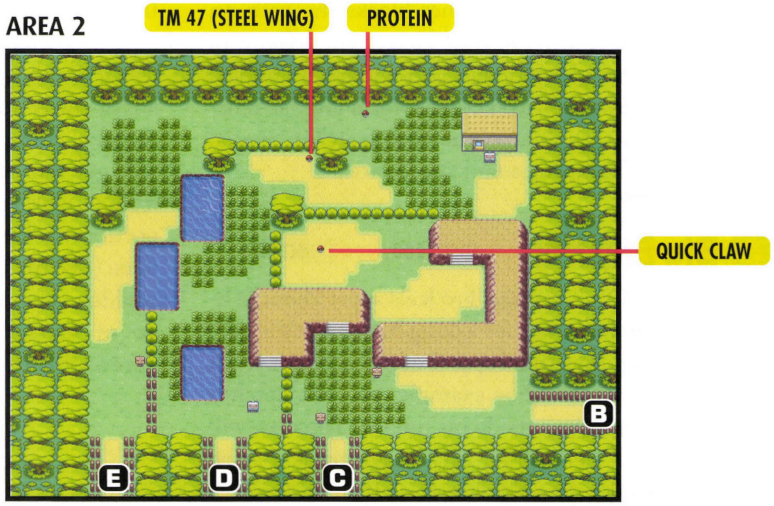
HM 03 (SURF)

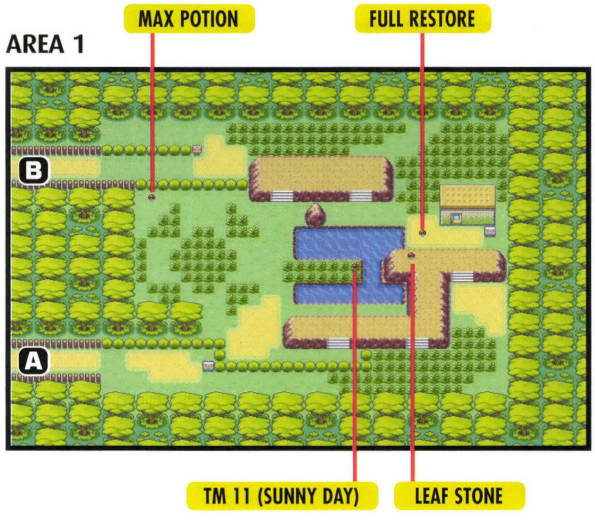
After finally untangling Kanto's complex network of tunnels and routes and arriving at last in Fuchsia City, you might think that your journey is coming to a close. But once you can Surf, much more territory will open up for exploration. You can get HM 03 (Surf) in the Safari Zone's Secret House; and if you've defeated Fuchsia's Gym Leader, Koga, you'll be able to command your Pokémon to use the move outside of battle and set sail.

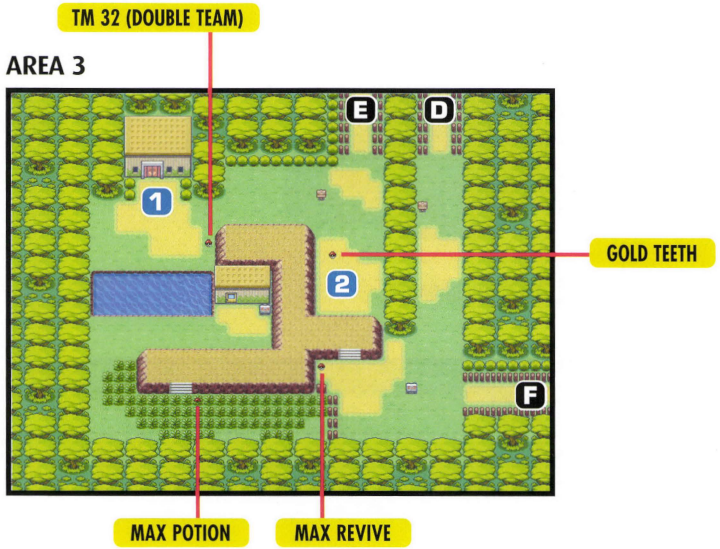
2 Sink Your Teeth into Great Finds

Spend lots of time in the Safari Zone. You'll find power-ups, plus three great TMs: TM 47 (Steel Wing), a strong Steel-type strike; TM 32 (Double Team), which raises evasion; and TM 11 (Sunny Day), the sunlight-summoning move that raises the power of Fire-type moves and triggers sun-drenched battle combos, like superfueling Solarbeam. The one item that's truly essential, however, is the warden's Gold Teeth—find it in Area 3.









ROUTES 12, 13, 14 & 15

The Poké Flute will open two paths that lead to Fuchsia City on the south coast. The western route (see page 61) has its benefits, but the eastern way through Routes 12 through 15 will score you the powerful Super Rod. You'll also fight many Flying-, Water- and Poison-types; bring a supereffective team that will bore through them for quick experience.

1 Fierce Friendship

TM 27 (RETURN)

Visit the girl in the guard post to get TM 27 (Return). The Normal-type attack does damage based on your Pokémon's Friendship with you. The stronger your bond is, the more damage Return will do. (You can evaluate your Friendship in Pallet Town—see page 37.)

2 Pry Snorlax Loose

You can catch only two Snorlax in Kanto. One blocks the path on Route 16; the other blocks the path on Route 12. Wake it with the Poké Flute, then defeat it in battle so you can pass through. Strive to catch Snorlax, however, because the Normal-type Pokémon has muscular attacks, high hit points and a stellar Special Defense. It's like having a tank on your team.

3 Big Bay Pal

SUPER ROD NET BALL

The Fishing Guru's younger bro feels super about fishing, and he'll thank you for asking him about his passion by giving you the Super Rod, which can hook mighty Water-types. (For example, you can catch a wild Gyarados right outside his house.) The man will also give you a Net Ball for each Magikarp you show him that's bigger than the last. (Use the Old Rod; it's hard to catch Magikarp with the Super Rod!)

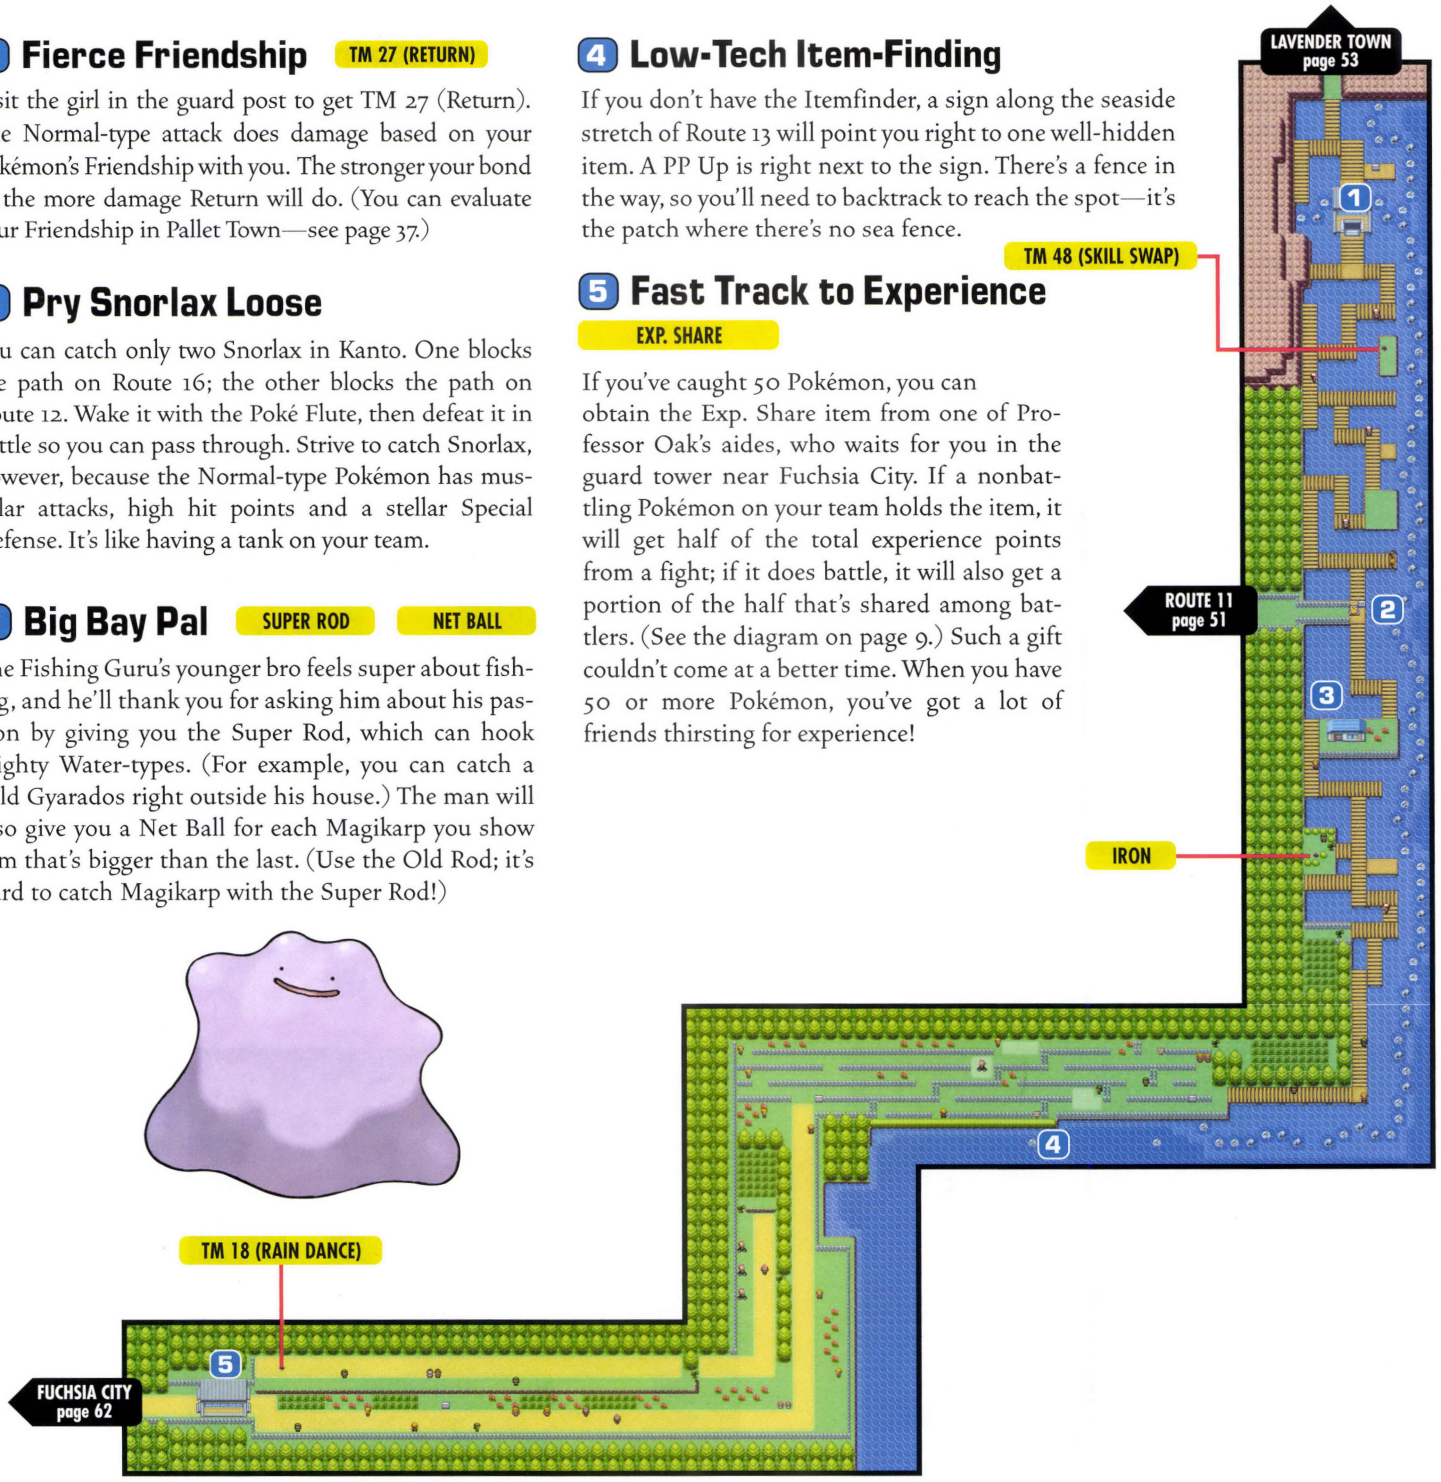
4 Low-Tech Item-Finding

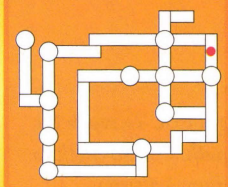
If you don't have the Itemfinder, a sign along the seaside stretch of Route 13 will point you right to one well-hidden item. A PP Up is right next to the sign. There's a fence in the way, so you'll need to backtrack to reach the spot—it's the patch where there's no sea fence.

5 Fast Track to Experience

EXP. SHARE

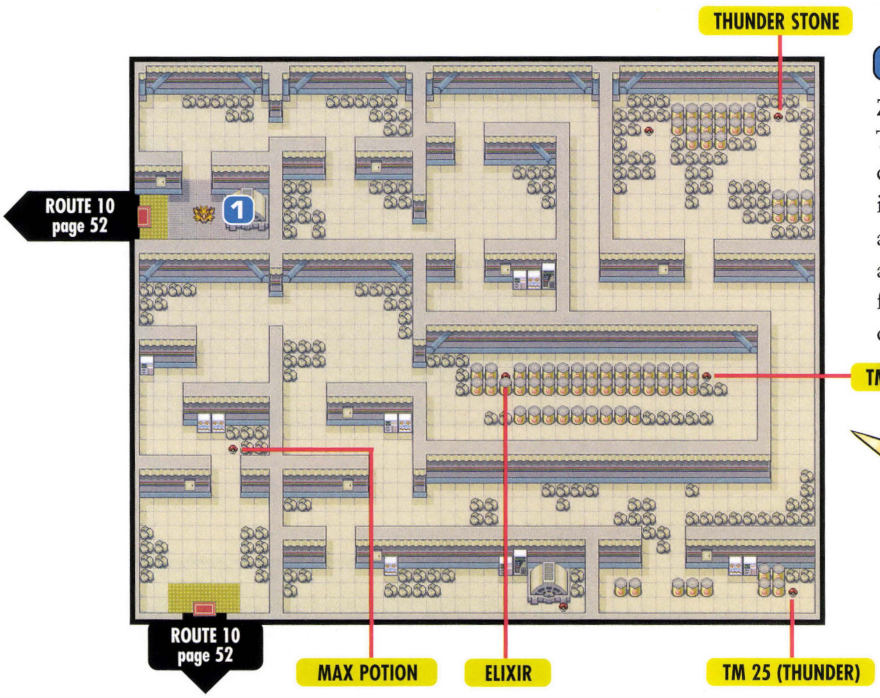
If you've caught 50 Pokémon, you can obtain the Exp. Share item from one of Professor Oak's aides, who waits for you in the guard tower near Fuchsia City. If a nonbattling Pokémon on your team holds the item, it will get half of the total experience points from a fight; if it does battle, it will also get a portion of the half that's shared among battlers. (See the diagram on page 9.) Such a gift couldn't come at a better time. When you have 50 or more Pokémon, you've got a lot of friends thirsting for experience!





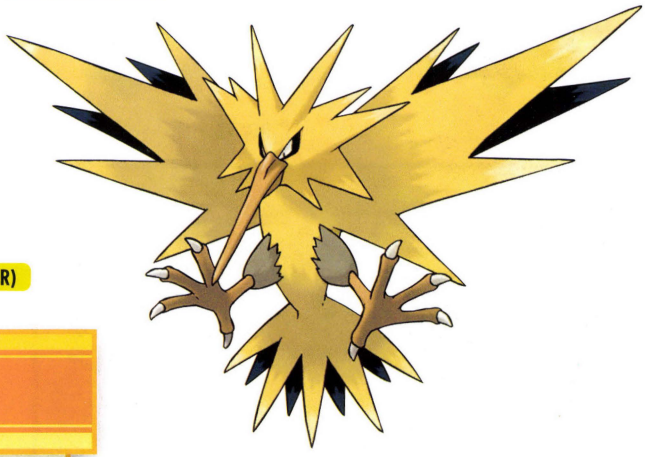
POWER PLANT

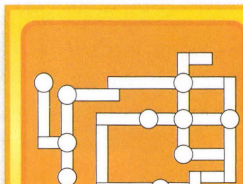
The Surf move allows you to travel from the shore east of Cerulean to Kanto's power plant. Bring Ground-types with same-type attacks. They'll glut themselves quickly on experience among the plant's Electric-types, including two Electrode posing as items on the floor. Bring a lot of Ultra Balls to the plant, since the legendary Zapdos is roosting in solitude.



1 Zap into Zapdos Power

Zapdos waits out in the open near the Power Plant exit. The Electric-and-Flying-type is a Level-50 Pokémon that can paralyze your crew easily with its Thunder Wave. Put it to sleep or freeze it early to shut down its blitzkrieg—and to raise your chances of catching it. You'll go through a lot of Ultra Balls before it'll go along with you. Be careful. If you defeat Zapdos, you won't have another shot at catching it.



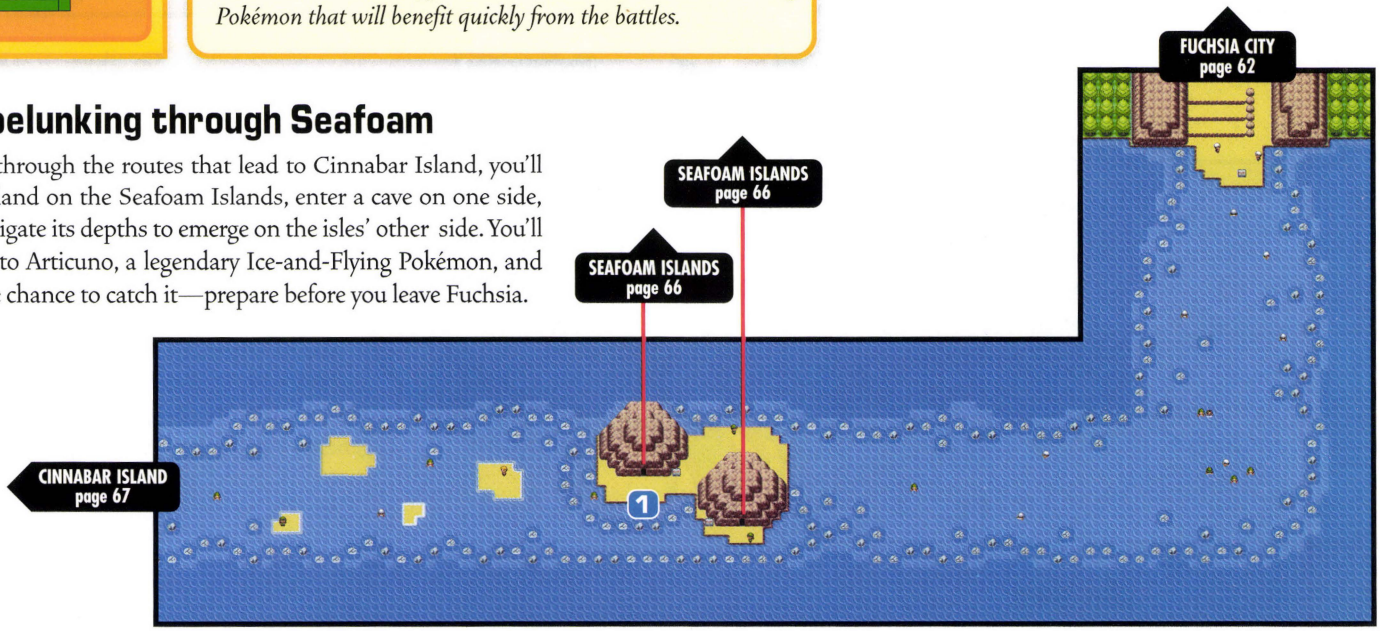


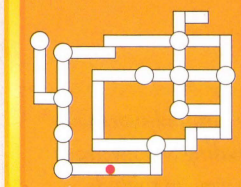
ROUTES 19 & 20

Surf will let you leave the mainland for Kanto's islands. Trainers with Water-types abound on Routes 19 and 20; bring Pokémon that will benefit quickly from the battles.

1 Spelunking through Seafoam

To pass through the routes that lead to Cinnabar Island, you'll need to land on the Seafoam Islands, enter a cave on one side, then navigate its depths to emerge on the isles' other side. You'll bump into Articuno, a legendary Ice-and-Flying Pokémon, and have one chance to catch it—prepare before you leave Fuchsia.





SEAFOAM ISLANDS

To get through the Seafoam Islands, you must enter a cave on the left side of one isle and find its right exit. To reach the way out—an exit path that starts at point J—you must stop the water flow that keeps you from the path. Use Strength to push boulders through holes until they clog channels far below. Use the same method to reach legendary Articuno.

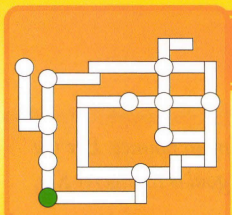
1 Chilling with Articuno

You'll push two boulders to their lowest points to block up the channel that prevents you from exiting, and you can do the same to still the waters on level B4F, where the Ice-and-Flying-type Articuno roosts out in the open. If you KO Articuno, you'll never have another chance to catch it, so proceed with caution and come with a bag full of Ultra Balls—the Legendary Pokémon won't come easily.



CINNABAR ISLAND

Cinnabar Island may be small and quiet, but it's also plagued by odd goings-on. A large building called the Pokémon Mansion has fallen into disrepair, and rumors of a genetically altered Pokémon are circulating through the populus. Enter the mansion, check out the laboratory and take down a Gym Leader in your quest for the truth.

A blond fellow in the third room will also trade his Seel for a Ponyta. The Tangela comes with Stardust, an item that can be sold for a high price at any Pokémart.

2 It's Alive!

You can create rare Pokémon from old fossils in the lab's third room. The Helix Fossil will become Omanyte, the Dome Fossil will become Kabuto and the Old Amber turns into Aerodactyl. The scientist says it will take some time, but you can just leave the room and reenter to finish the process.

3 Ticktock

METRONOME

A puckish fellow in the lab's middle room will teach Metronome to one of your Pokémon. The Normal-type move randomly uses one attack from the comprehensive list of all moves.

4 Open the Gym

The Cinnabar Gym is locked up tight when you first visit. To enter, you'll have to find a Secret Key deep within the Pokémon Mansion. Turn the page for a walk-through of the mansion.

5 Sail Away

After you take down the Gym Leader, Bill will offer you a chance to visit a secret chain of islands. If you take him up on the offer, you'll be out of touch with the PC System for a bit, so make sure that you have the Pokémon you need. If you turn down Bill's offer, you can always return and accept it later.

GYM LEADER BLAINE

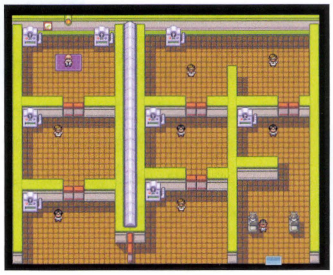
LV 42	GROWLITHE	FIRE	LV 42	RAPIDASH	FIRE
LV 40	PONYTA	FIRE	LV 47	ARCANINE	FIRE

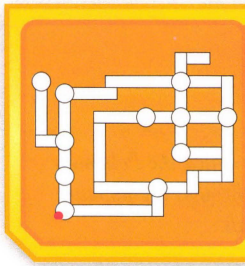
RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: WATER, ROCK, GROUND

Blaine has four high-level Pokémon with attacks that pack a wallop, but he also has very significant weaknesses. Water-, Rock- or Ground-type attacks—especially powerful ones such as Surf or Earthquake—will decimate his team. He is a master at inflicting the Burn condition, so you'll want to bring along a few Burn Heals and try to end the battle speedily.

PRIZES:
VOLCANO BADGE & TM 38 (FIRE BLAST)

The Volcano Badge raises your Pokémon's Special Attack and Special Defense. Fire Blast is a hugely powerful move that can inflict a Burn.





POKéMON MANSION

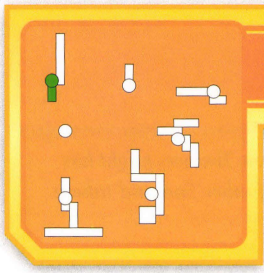
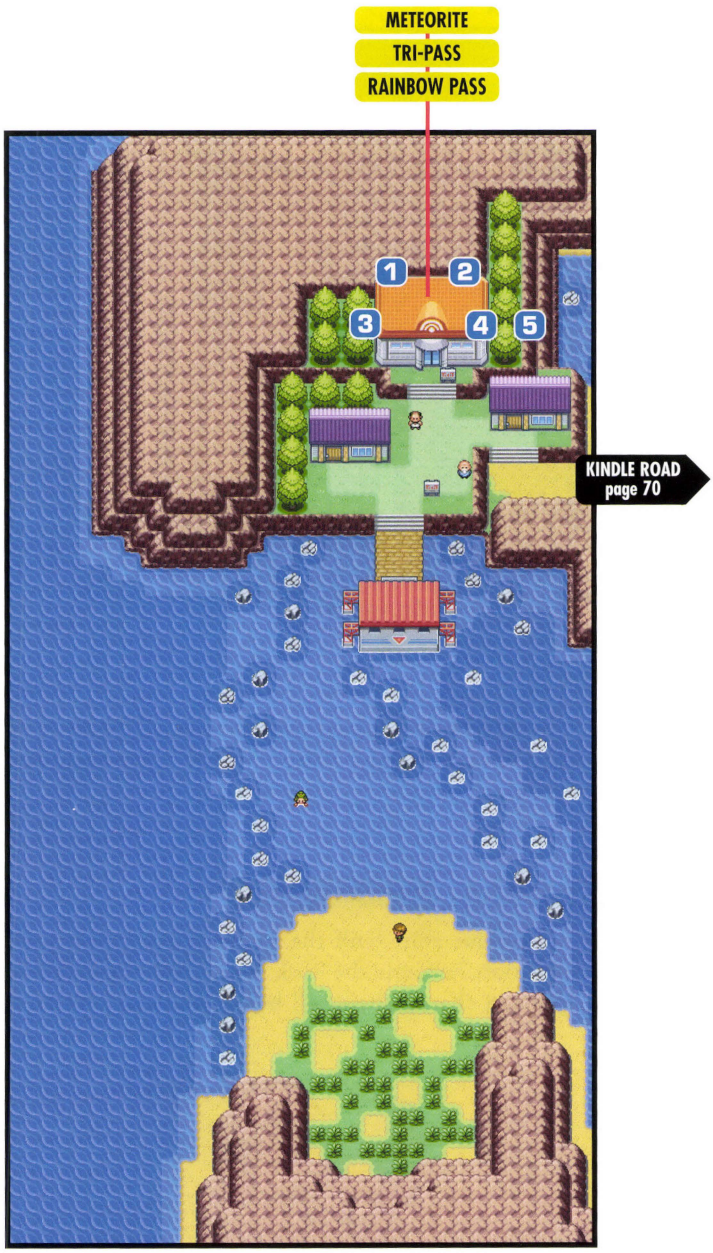
2 Diary of a Mad Scientist

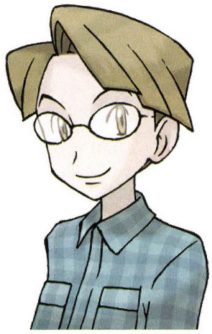
The techies in the mansion have been keeping diaries about an amazing new Pokémon. There are three such journals lying around the mansion, and you can glean their secrets by walking up to them and pressing the A Button.



ONE ISLAND & TREASURE BEACH

One Island and Treasure Beach are far, far south of Kanto's mainland. Immediately upon your arrival, a strange man will ask you to perform a favor. You won't be able to use Bill's PC until you take on the quest, so head for Two Island posthaste. Be sure to use the Itemfinder when you reach Treasure Beach—it's loaded with awesome goodies.





1 Hello Celio METEORITE TRI-PASS

Bill's friend Celio is inside the Pokémon Center on One Island. While the two of them are busy trying to repair the PC System, take the Meteorite and Tri-Pass that Bill offers and head for the Game Corner on nearby Two Island.

2 PC Communication

LATER Once you deliver Bill's package and return to One Island, the Pokémaniac will take you back to the mainland. Don't worry if there's unfinished business on the islands—you can catch the ferry in Vermilion City.

3 Don't Be a Rube

LATER When you return to One Island after defeating the Elite Four, Celio will be busy fixing the Network Machine. Rather than bother him, set out to find the Ruby and the Sapphire so he can repair the machine.

4 Other Islands, Ho! RAINBOW PASS

LATER When you return the Ruby to Celio, he'll trade you a Rainbow Pass for your Tri-Pass. The new pass lets you jaunt off to any of the islands you want. He'll also ask you to find another item for the Network Machine—make for Four Island.

5 New Pokémon

LATER After you give the Sapphire to Celio, he'll use it to fix the Network Machine. You will then be able to trade Pokémon between your game and Pokémon Ruby and Sapphire versions and Pokémon Colosseum.

KINDLE ROAD & EMBER SPA

You might expect a tough battle when you Surf to Kindle Road, but it's actually rather peaceful. A few Trainers might hassle you, but their Fighting- and Water-type Pokémon are a snap. If you're feeling low, enter the Ember Spa and take a relaxing dip. You might even make a few new friends.

1 Soak in It

When you reach the middle of the spa, your Pokémon will be restored to full health. While you're there, talk to the other bathers to hear their thoughts on relaxation.

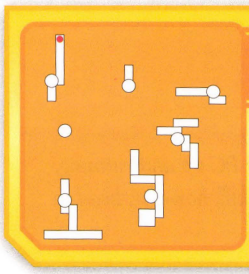
The old-timer in the blue shirt built the spa with his bare hands. During the construction, he found the Rock Smash HM. If you take it off his hands, you can shatter the small brown boulders scattered around Kanto.



MT. EMBER

Mt. Ember is the home of Moltres, a Fire-and-Flying-type Legendary Pokémon that you'll need much patience to catch. Whether you're exploring the mountain before or after you best the Elite Four, you'll need Pokémon that know the HMs Strength and Rock Smash—otherwise you won't get very far.

LATER There are two Visual Braille messages in the cave. The first, on B4F, is the alphabet with a period and a comma. The second, on B5F, reads "Everything has meaning existence has meaning being alive has meaning have dreams use power." Cryptic indeed!

TWO ISLAND & CAPE BRINK

Two Island has a handy Pokémart that sells a variety of rare items. If you are on a quest to get the PC up and running, speak to the owner of the Game Corner then head straight for Three Island. When you have time to kill, however, head to Cape Brink and learn some new moves—or revisit old ones with a stop at the Move Maniac house.

1 Little Girl Lost

MOON STONE

The owner of the Game Corner doesn't have time to take the meteorite—he's looking for his missing daughter. If you go to Three Island and return the kid, he'll give you a Moon Stone and take the Meteorite off your hands.

2 Ultimate Attacks

FRENZY PLANT | BLAST BURN | HYDRO CANNON

The woman at Cape Brink will teach your starter Pokémon an incredibly powerful move if you meet her conditions. Your Pokémon must evolved to a Blastoise, Venusaur or Charizard, and you must have a very high Friendship rating.

3 The Move Maniac

The Move Maniac can re-teach your Pokémon moves that they forgot during the evolution process. He charges one Big Mushroom or two Tinymushrooms for the service.

4 Stock Changes

The Pokémart on Two Island is an open-air affair that carries some odd items. The selection changes based on your game progress, so read the chart on this page carefully.

5 Gameplay Delights

Once you rescue the Game Corner owner's daughter and deliver the package, he'll open up his games for your enjoyment. You will need Wireless Adapters and multiple players to partake in them.

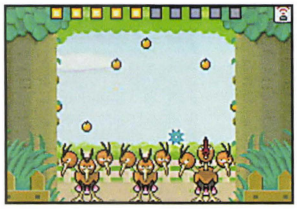
Pokémon Jump

To play the Pokémon Jump minigame, you must have a Pokémon in your party that is 2'4" or smaller—large fellows like Onix will have to sit this one out. Water-, Flying- or Ground-type Pokémon will also have to hit the bench, as they aren't very good at jumping. Two to five players can participate at one time.

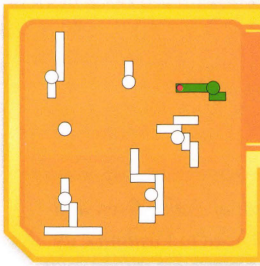
If everyone jumps at the same time, you'll earn bonus points. It might take a game or two to learn the timing.

Dodrio Berry-Picking

To play the Dodrio Berry-Picking minigame, you must have a Dodrio in your party. You will also need three to five players; a two-person game isn't allowed. When the game starts, berries will fall toward your Dodrio. Press Up, Left or Right on the Control Pad to have the appropriate Dodrio head eat the falling berry. If a berry hits the ground, one section of the meter at the top of the screen will turn gray. The game ends when 10 berries touch down.



Dodrio Berry-Picking is the only way to earn many rare and useful berries. If you have a couple of hours and some willing friends, you can really clean up.



THREE ISLAND, BOND BRIDGE & BERRY FOREST

There's nothing quite like a biker gang . . . even if its members are a bit sad and pathetic. Such punks have invaded Three Island and are hassling the poor citizens. Once you drive them from town, you'll be rewarded with the ability to use the the system again. Don't forget to rescue the missing girl, aptly named Lostelle—she's picking fruit in the Berry Forest.

2 Gold Digger

LATER When you first visit the man in the cave, he will be prospecting for riches. If you come back after defeating the Elite Four, he will give you a Nugget.

3 Land of the Lostelle — IAPAPA BERRY

The Game Master's lost daughter is hiding in the very back of the Berry Forest. She hasn't moved because she's being menaced by a Hypno. Take out the wild Psychic-type Pokémon to save the girl and get an Iapapa Berry. When you do, you'll be transported back to the Game Corner on Two Island.

2 You Again? Sheesh!

Your rival is waiting for you on Route 22, which you must use to reach the Elite Four. He's carrying a handful of tricky Pokémon, but nothing that an advanced Trainer like yourself can't handle. Once you've dispatched the chump, make for Victory Road!

If you have Water-type Pokémon that know Surf, bring them along—they'll mow through his team in no time. A Ghost-and-Poison-type will be useful for Nidoqueen and Nidoking; not only will it be it unaffected by poison, but its Levitate ability will make Earthquake miss.

Your rival has a very well-balanced team, and you'll need to counter with the same to best him. Alakazam is a toughie—use physical attacks or try to win a battle of attrition with your own high-level Psychic-type Pokémon. If your party members know any good Bug-type moves, use them on Alakazam.

VICTORY ROAD

Victory Road (which is actually a cave) is your path to the Elite Four. You'll need a Pokémon that knows the move Strength to clear it. There is a Pokémart and Center on the other side of Victory Road; restock there before the big battle. INDIGO PLATEAU

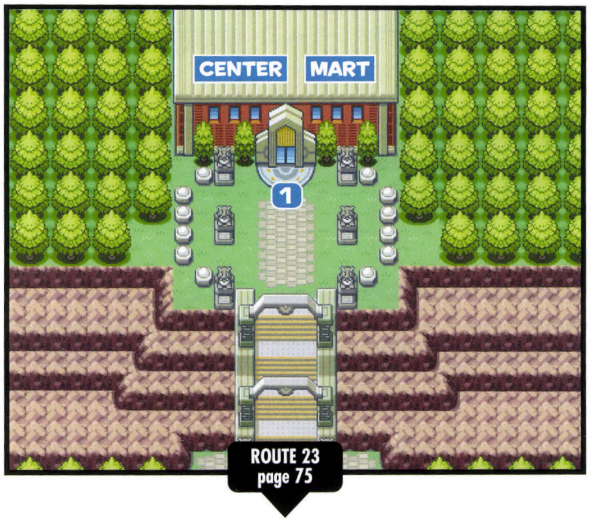
You've got five more battles before you can claim the title of the world's best Pokémon Trainer. Indigo Plateau is your last stop before the Elite Four—and once you start fighting them, you can't cry off unless you lose. Stock up on whatever items you need (Fly to another town if necessary) before you enter the arena.



1 The Even-More-Elite Four

LATER After you've defeated the Elite Four, you can return to Indigo Plateau and challenge them again. Be warned—if you do, they will be armed with incredibly powerful Pokémon. Take them on only when you've developed a team for the ages.

Getting Ready to Rumble

Before you set out to tackle the Elite Four, stock yourself with high-level Pokémon and plenty of items. You'll need a well-balanced team to take down the champions. We've provided a list of suggested Pokémon to the right, but take whatever Pokémon you're most comfortable with. The Legendary birds are a natural, but you'll want to arm them with new TMs to make them fighting machines. Also keep your Normal-types in mind. They won't gain any type advantage, but they are weak against only Fighting-type moves.

RECOMMENDED POKéMON	ATTACK TYPE
RAICHU (#26)	ELECTRIC
ZAPDOS (#145), DODRIO (#85)	FLYING
SLOWBRO (#80), LAPRAS (#131)	WATER
ALAKAZAM (#65)	PSYCHIC
SNORLAX (#143)	NORMAL

ELITE FOUR LORELEI

RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: ELECTRIC, GRASS, ROCK

Lorelei uses dual-type Pokémon, all but one of which share the Ice-type. Slowbro, her Water-and-Psychic-type, also knows the powerful Ice Beam attack. Fire-type attacks won't get a bonus when used against a Water-and-Ice-type, so try attacking Dewgong, Cloyster and Lapras with Electric- or Grass-type attacks. A tough Fighting-type with like moves can come in handy against them, as well. Rock-type moves will do extra damage to Lorelei's entire team, but don't have a Rock-type use the move—it will be destroyed by her Water-type attacks. If you're having trouble, bring out a Pokémon that knows Toxic, and try to outlast your foe.

ELITE FOUR BRUNO

RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: PSYCHIC, WATER, FLYING

Bruno's Pokémon look tough, but they have a couple of glaring weaknesses that you can exploit. Onix is doubly vulnerable to Grass- and Water-type moves—a Water-type Pokémon that knows Surf can usually KO it in one turn. His three Fighting-type Pokémon will fall before Psychic-type attacks, especially if they are delivered by a Psychic-type Pokémon. If you don't have good Psychic-type attacks, try Flying-type moves. Remember that Ghost-type Pokémon are immune to Fighting-type attacks, which will give you an edge. If you have a high-level Slowbro that knows Surf and Psychic, you can probably win the battle using it alone.

ELITE FOUR AGATHA

RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPE: PSYCHIC

Poor Agatha. She's convinced that her Poison-type Pokémon are the best, but one go-around with a strong Psychic-type will set her straight. If you bring a Psychic-type Pokémon that knows Psychic, you should be able to get through the battle without a scratch—even if your Pokémon is a few levels lower than her team. Use a Psychic-type with high Speed; otherwise the Ghost-and-Poison-types could get the drop on you with a supereffective Ghost-type move. If you don't have a good Psychic-type, try sending out a Poison-type of your own. At the very least, it will nullify their constant attempts to inflict the Poison status condition.

LEVEL 54 GENGAR	GHO-PSN
	VULNERABLE TO: PSYCHIC, GHOST, DARK, GROUND

LEVEL 56 ARBOK	PSN

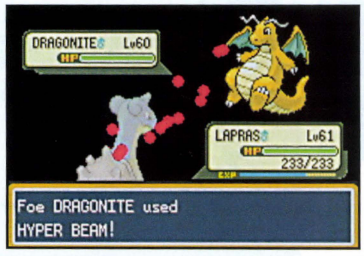
LEVEL 53 HAUNTER	GHO-PSN
	VULNERABLE TO: PSYCHIC, GHOST, DARK, GROUND

ELITE FOUR LANCE

RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: ELECTRIC, ICE, ROCK

Lance will provide your first taste of Dragon-type Pokémon, a rare type that has very few weaknesses. Ice-type attacks are your best bet for taking them down, especially if they're fired by an Ice-type Pokémon. (Dragon-type attacks will also be effective, if you happen to know any.) If Ice-type moves are in short supply, you can try to outlast the Dragon-types by sending in a Pokémon with a great Special Defense rating and using a very powerful attack such as Hyper Beam, Psychic or Double-Edge. Use an Electric-type move to handle Gyarados, and Water- or Electric-type moves on Aerodactyl. Lance uses the Outrage move a lot, so be prepared.



LEVEL 56 GYARADOS	WTR-FLY
	VULNERABLE TO: ELECTRIC, ROCK

LEVEL 54 DRAGONAIR	DRG
	VULNERABLE TO: ICE, DRAGON

CHAMPION RIVAL — RECOMMENDED MOVE TYPES: ELECTRIC, FLYING, WATER

So it's come to this! Your final battle is against your rival, who has stalked you from day one. Use Electric-type attacks to blast Pidgeot from the sky. The Electric-type moves will also work wonders against Gyarados and Blastoise. Water-type attacks will drown Rhydon and Arcanine, and Fire-type attacks can fry Exeggutor and Venusaur. Your rival usually saves Alakazam for last, so make sure that one of your Pokémon has enough HP left to take it on. If you have a Ghost-and-Poison-type, try to put Alakazam to sleep before you bring it out—that way you can get off a shot or two before the Psychic-type responds with a Psychic-type attack. Unless your Pokémon are at extremely high levels, you'll probably need a lot of Revives, Lemonades and Max Potions. A Full Revive or two wouldn't hurt either. If Pokémon fall in battle, don't revive them until you have a good type matchup—that way your in-battle Pokémon won't be destroyed when you spend a turn reviving.

AFTER THE ELITE FOUR

After you become the Pokémon Champion, your game will save and the credits will roll—but that's only the beginning! When you start the game anew, you'll begin at Pallet Town. If you have 60 Pokémon in your Pokédex, Professor Oak will upgrade the Pokédex to the National numbering system. You can then take the ferry back to One Island and speak to Celio. (Check the One Island walk-through on page 69 for information about that and other quests.) The big change is the arrival of either Entei, Suicune or Raikou. Once you beat the Elite Four, one of the powerful Pokémon will begin roaming around Kanto. The Legendary Pokémon will try to run when you see it, so you may want to catch it with your Master Ball if you still have one.

FOUR ISLAND & ICEFALL CAVE

Four Island is a small patch of land that contains two interesting locations—a Pokémon Breeding Center and chilly Icefall Cave. If you've been itching to make some eggs, now's your chance. If you'd rather get on with the quest, however, head for the cave and rescue a lost girl. You can find some the Nevermeltice as well as some great new Pokémon in Icefall Cave.

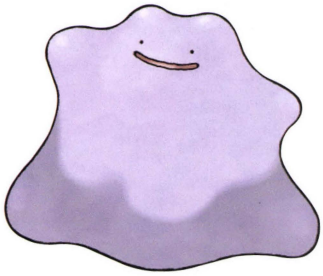
1 The Need to Breed

The Day Care on Four Island will keep two of your Pokémon at once—which means you can experiment with the wonderful world of breeding! Check page 27 for more on eggs, breeding and creating your own super Pokémon.



2 Stickers for a Price

The boy in the house next to the Pokémon Mart collects stickers. He'll put them on your Trainer Card anytime you meet the conditions below. And yes, you really do need to enter the Hall of Fame 200 times to earn one of the stickers. Get crackin'.

REQUIREMENT	NUMBER OF TIMES

HATCH AN EGG	1, 100, 200, 300
WIN A MULTIPLAYER BATTLE	1, 20, 50, 100

3 Everything but the Girl

The house on the east side of town is filled with dolls, but the owner is nowhere to be found. Head into Icefall Cave to locate the lost soul and reunite her with the stuffed animals.

4 Add to the Collection

LATER The owner of the dolls is actually the Elite Four's Lorelei! Once you've pulled her from the cave, you can visit her collection anytime. For each 25 times that you enter the Hall of Fame, she'll add a new doll—up to a grand total of eight.

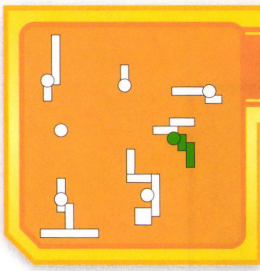
1 Up the Down Way

You can't cross the waterfall until you find Waterfall (HM 07). Teach it to a Pokémon, then use it to ride up the falls to a new part of the cave. When searching for the HM, you'll have to fall down holes created by stepping on thin patches of ice.

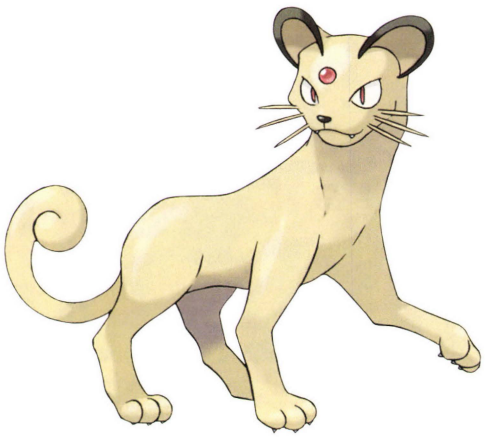
2 Rocket Men

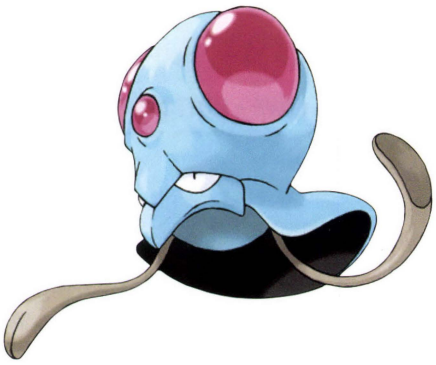
Team Rocket is capturing and selling the Pokémon on Four Island, and your old foe Lorelei is going to put a stop to it! Join her in combat and take out Team Rocket's Poison-and-Flying-type Pokémon, then head for Five Island.



FIVE ISLAND & MEMORIAL PILLAR

Five Island is home to the Rocket Warehouse—a monument to greed and selfishness that needs to be taken down! You won't be able to enter the Warehouse until you visit Six Island, but you can make a brief stop-off at Memorial Pillar—where a new TM awaits.





1 Password Fever

You can go to the Rocket Warehouse entrance as soon as you land on Five Island, but you won't be able to enter the building for a bit. Spend some time in the grass looking for new Pokémon, such as Sentret.

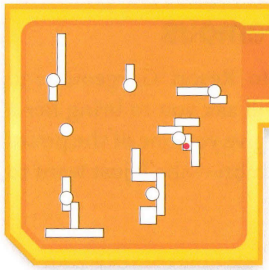
2 Honor the Dead

TM 42 (FACADE)

A young boy has buried his beloved Onix at the Memorial Pillar. Read the pillar to find the boy's offering of choice (a Lemonade), then leave the item there. The boy will reward you with Facade.

3 The Warehouse Follies

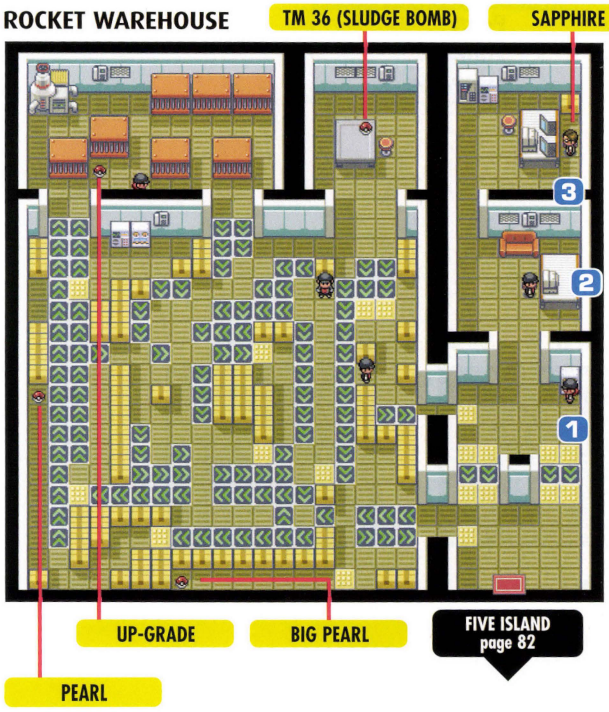
LATER Once you've gotten the second password from Six Island, you can return to Rocket Warehouse and force both the door and the issue. Show Team Rocket that resistance is futile!



ROCKET WAREHOUSE

The Rocket Warehouse is a maze of arrow panels that will send you flying in one direction or another. There are a couple of low-level Rockets that use Dark- and Psychic-type Pokémon, but the real challenge is the two Trainers at the end of the line. Make sure you're healed and ready to go before taking them on.

ROCKET WAREHOUSE



1 Poisonous Thoughts

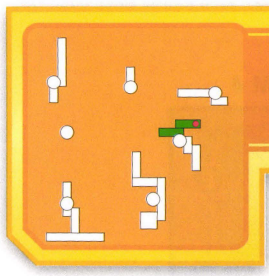
The woman near the entrance uses Poison-type Pokémon that know Dark-type moves. Once you defeat her, she will reverse the direction of the arrows so you can easily fight the boss and get the Sapphire.

2 Almost There

The second-to-last Trainer has Poison- and Dark-type Pokémon, including a Weezing that knows a couple of very nasty moves—Shadow Ball and Thunderbolt. Watch out for them if you deploy Flying- or Psychic-type Pokémon.

3 The Big Kahuna

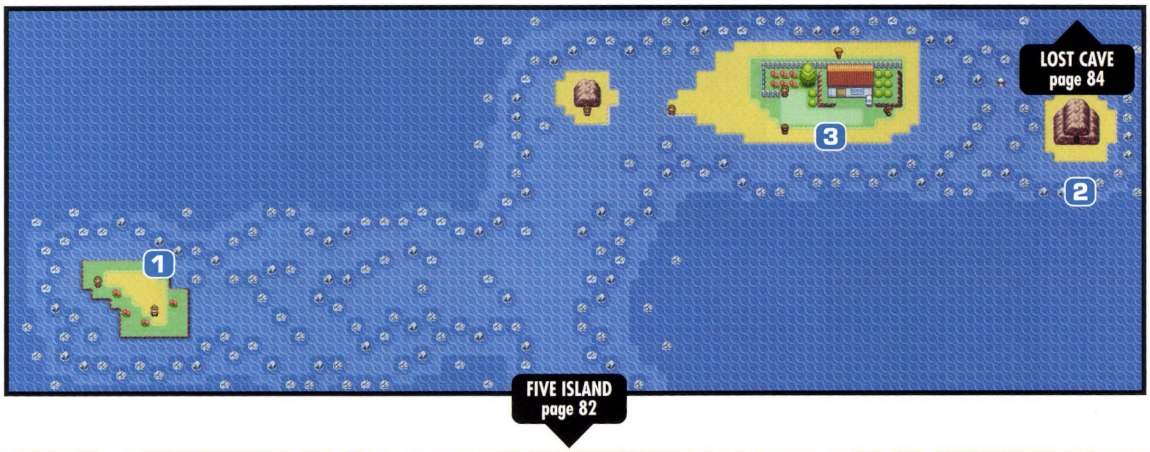
The warehouse boss has a nice collection of Pokémon, including a Normal-type and a Steel-and-Electric-type. Counter with Ground- and Fighting-type moves to send him packing. When you win, he'll surrender the Sapphire; take it to One Island.



WATER LABYRINTH, RESORT GORGEOUS & LOST CAVE

The Water Labyrinth is little more than inconveniently placed rocks, but the Lost Cave is a real head-scratcher of a puzzle. In between, you'll find Resort Gorgeous, which is Kanto's version of the Hamptons. Many of the Trainers are rich beyond the dreams of avarice—use the Vs. Seeker to bleed them dry and earn mad cash on the quick.

WATER LABYRINTH



1 Egg-citing! EGG

The man on the western island in the Water Labyrinth will give you a Pokémon Egg that eventually hatches into Togepi. To earn the egg, you must have five or fewer Pokémon in your party, and the lead Pokémon must have a strong Friendship with you.

2 Into the Lost Cave

To clear the cave, you must count the rocks in each room, then move through the door that sits at the number's position on a clock. (In a room with three rocks, for example, you would take the right-hand door.) To find the four item rooms, move in the opposite direction that you would to continue through the cave. Each time you make a wrong turn or stop to get an item, you'll end up at the beginning of the cave. When you reach room 10, you'll do battle with the lost rich girl and her Normal-type Pokémon.

3 Whims of the Rich and Famous

LATER After you clear the cave, return to Resort Gorgeous and speak to the woman in the cottage, who will ask you to bring her a random Pokémon. If you do, her butler will give you one of the prizes below. (Note that she won't keep your Pokémon—she'll just want to see it.)

SIX ISLAND, RUIN VALLEY & DOTTED HOLE

Six Island is near-deserted, but it's home to the Dotted Hole—an odd geological phenomenon that's rumored to hold a special stone. You can find some great Psychic-type Pokémon on the island, so bring along a few Ultra Balls and a Pokémon that can inflict a status condition. Most of the wild Pokémon are at low levels—don't KO them by accident!

1 Door Cutter

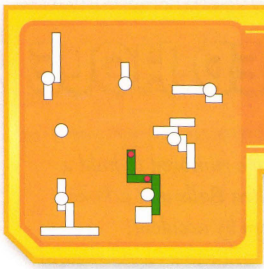
When you reach a sealed door, you must read the Visual Braille and then use Cut to clear the way. If the door is blocked, return to Four Island and complete Icefall Cave, then come back.

2 Dig Your Own Hole

In the Dotted Hole, you'll find rooms with four holes in them. You must read the Visual Braille message in the middle of each room to determine which hole to fall down. If you choose the wrong hole, you'll go back to the beginning.

3 Partake of the Password

The Sapphire is at the bottom of the Dotted Hole, but an unruly researcher will steal it from you and leave the password to the Rocket Warehouse in its place. Head back to Five Island, take down the gang and claim the Sapphire as your own.



WATER PATH, PATTERN BUSH & ALTERING CAVE

There are no big surprises in Water Path, Pattern Bush or Altering Cave, but you can track down some rare Pokémon in the parts. Pattern Bush is filled with Trainers that use Bug-type Pokémon, but Altering Cave is as desolate and lonely as can be . . . or is it?

SWORDS DANCE

The man on the south edge of town can teach Swords Dance to one of your Pokémon. The Normal-type move raises your Attack rating by two levels when used during a battle.

2 Go, Speed Racer, Go

The Trainer Tower is all about speed. You are ranked not on how well you battle or on how stylish your moves are, but on how fast you can make it from the ground floor to the final rooftop battle. Also, you won't earn EP or money for battling inside the tower. You can fight four battles: Single, Double, Knockout and Mixed. Each time you win, you'll get an item and a posted time in the lobby. If you spend a lot of time in the Trainer Tower, you'll naturally find that it becomes harder and harder to shave time off your score—but the tips below will help you become the fastest battler in town.

- Make sure that all your Pokémon are near the same level. Your opponent's Pokémon will always be the same level as your highest-level Pokémon, so bringing in five Level-50 Pokémon and one Level-70 means that you'll fight all Level-70 Pokémon.
- Before you start, go to the Options menu, turn the Battle Scene off and toggle the Text Speed to Fast. You can also save time by turning the Battle Style to Set, but that can hurt you from a strategy perspective.
- Open menus as seldom as possible.
- If you use a healing item, skip the animation by pressing the A Button.
- Run. All the time.

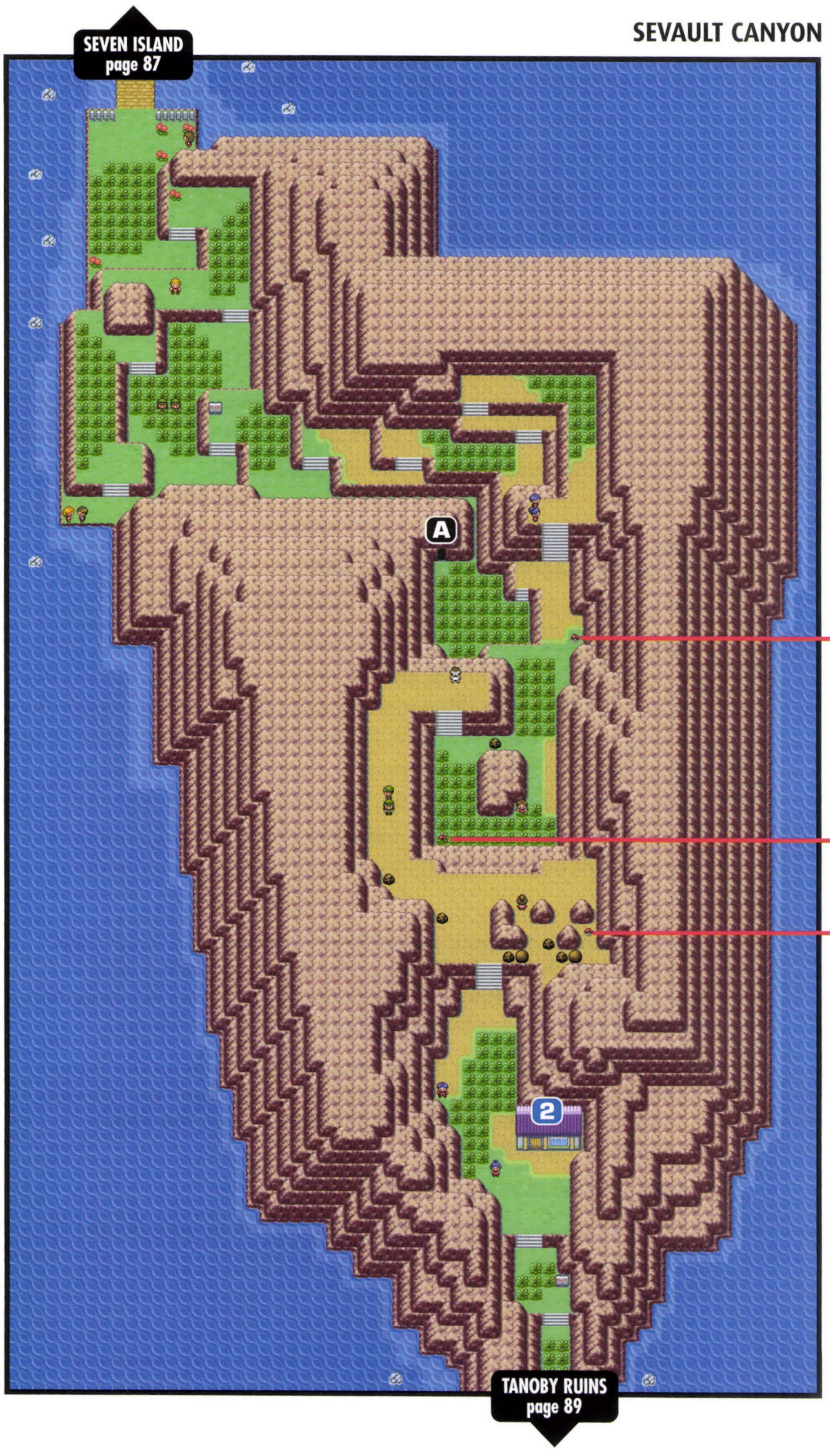
SEVAULT CANYON & TANOBY KEY

Many Trainers call Sevault Canyon home, including more than a few who enjoy the thrill of a Double Battle. You can also shuffle through the grass in search of additional elusive Pokémon. After a bit of battling, why not relax with the latest craze that's sweeping Kanto—the Chansey Dance!

SEVAULT CANYON



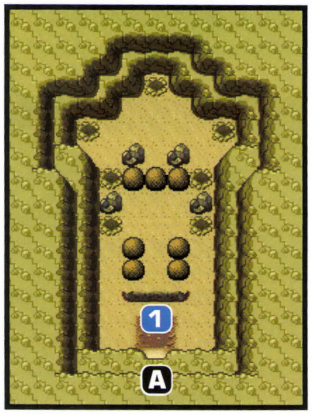
1 Flex Your Mighty Muscles

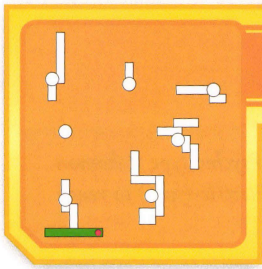
The small cave in the middle of Sevault Canyon contains seven boulders and seven holes. You must use Strength to push the boulders into the holes. When you do, it will cause the Unown to appear in the Tanoby Ruins.

2 Cut Some Rug LUCKY PUNCH

A strange little man at the south end of Sevault Canyon will ask you to dance the Chansey Dance. If you work your magic on the floor, he will reward you by restoring your Pokémon to full health. As a thank-you to the nice man, make sure that you steal the Lucky Punch he left out on the table.

TANOBY KEY





TANOBY RUINS & TANOBY CHAMBERS

The Tanoby Ruins and Tanoby Chambers are the final stop in the Sevii Islands. If you didn't solve the puzzle in the Tanoby Key, you won't find anything of interest here. If you took the time to push the rocks around, however, you'll discover the Unown—a whole alphabet soup of Pokémon to add to your collection!

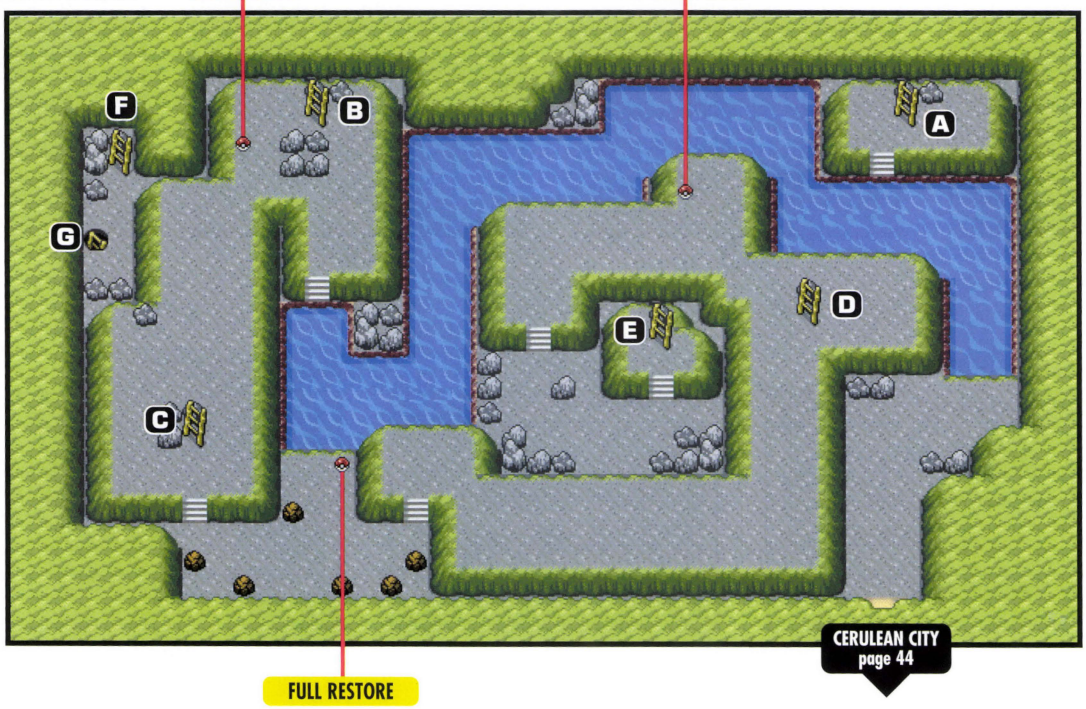
CERULEAN CAVE

Cerulean Cave is a dark, lonely place with only one claim to fame—it's home to the legendary Psychic-type Pokémon Mewtwo! Fight your way through the high-level wild Pokémon (many of which are Fighting- or Electric-types) to reach Mewtwo, then save your game. You get only one shot at the rare and powerful Pokémon.

FIRST FLOOR



SECOND FLOOR

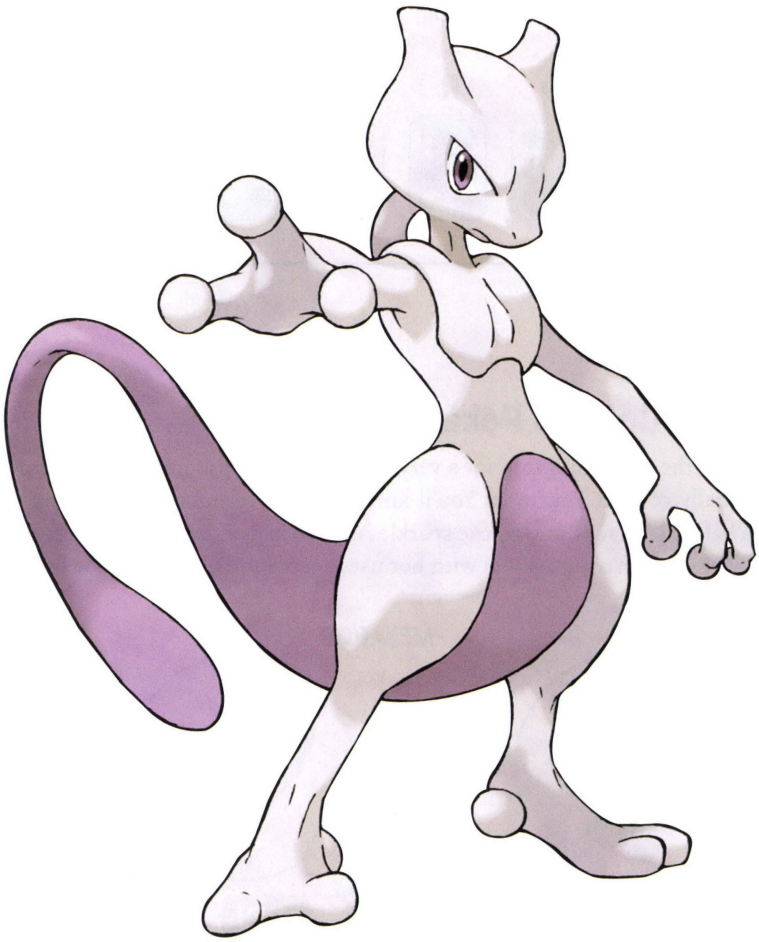
1 It Takes Mewtwo to Tango

Mewtwo is a Level-70 Psychic-type Pokémon with amazingly high stats in nearly every category. If you held on to your Master Ball, now is a good time to use it. It will catch the Pokémon without fail, so you can simply toss it out at the beginning of the battle. If you don't have the Master Ball, you're in for a fight. Bring along as many Ultra Balls as you can afford, plus a couple of Timer Balls. Putting Mewtwo to sleep is a great strategy—it will make the Pokémon easier to catch and also keep you from being injured. Since Mewtwo uses mostly Psychic-type attacks, use a Psychic-type Pokémon to wear it down. If you don't have a strong Psychic-type, use a Pokémon with lots of HP and a high Special Defense stat.

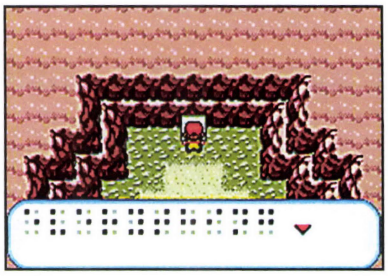


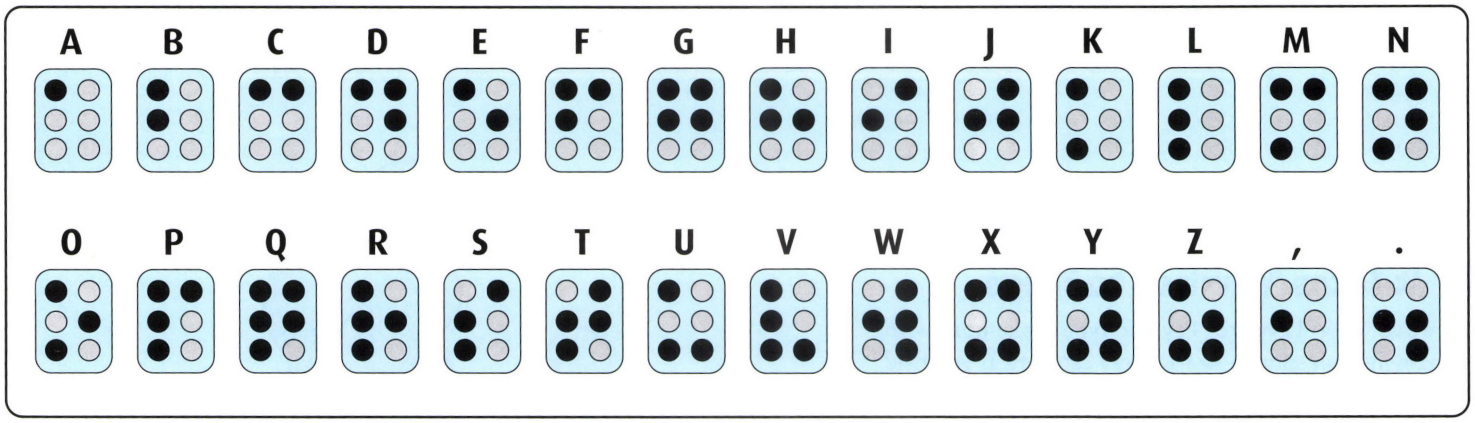
IT'S A SECRET TO EVERYONE

The world of Pokémon has more surprises in store for inspired Trainers. Without the handy key on this page, you'd likely never decode the arcane Visual Braille to solve some of the Sevii Islands' most diabolical mysteries, but some of the information is even more precious. Do you have the tenacity to locate a specially colored Pokémon?

Visual Braille

Visual Braille is a cryptic language that appears in the Sevii Islands. Any time you come across such an encoded message, you can translate it using the chart below. Many Visual Braille messages are quite long, so have a pen and paper handy before you unscramble.





Specially Colored Pokémon

If you travel the world of Kanto for a very, very long time, you might come across a rare, specially colored Pokémon. You'll know such a Pokémon by the shine that appears before it attacks, and by the sparkles next to its gender in the Pokédex. The fancy Pokémon don't bestow you with bonuses—except the envy of your friends.

Reading the Pokédex

The Pokédex is an aspiring Trainer's best friend. Because you'll be checking it often, it's good to know how it works so you can get the required information with minimal effort.

POKéDEX NUMBER AND POKéMON NAME

The Pokémon number is taken from the National Pokédex—which includes Pokémon from Kanto, Orre and Hoenn.

TYPE, ABILITY AND SIZE

A Pokémon's type is key to effective battling. Some Pokémon change types, abilities and sizes as they evolve, so pay careful attention.

EGG TYPE

All Pokémon have one or two of 14 Egg types. To create an Egg, take two Pokémon of opposite genders that have the same Egg type and leave them in the Day Care on Four Island. If the Egg type is listed as None, that Pokémon is unable to produce an Egg.

AVAILABILITY

The availability boxes refer to five different games: Pokémon FireRed, Pokémon LeafGreen, Pokémon Ruby, Pokémon Sapphire and Pokémon Colosseum (in that order). If you can get a Pokémon directly from a game (by catching it in the wild, reviving it from a fossil or trading for it with an in-game character), there will be a colored dot in that game's slot. This example shows that Charmander is available in Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen, but Charmeleon and Charizard have no availability listed because you can get them only by evolving a Charmander or trading with another human player.

LEVEL-UP MOVES

Pokémon learn moves automatically when they reach certain levels. The level at which a Pokémon learns a move is shown below the move's number. Keep an eye on the chart—many Pokémon learn certain moves during only one stage of their evolution.

STATISTICS

Each Pokémon's relative statistics are represented on a scale of one to four, with one being the lowest and four the highest. (HP stands for Hit Points, SA stands for Special Attack and SD stands for Special Defense). In this example, Charizard has great SA, SD and Speed ratings, and only decent ratings in the other categories.

EVOLUTION

The bar below a Pokémon's image shows when or how it evolves. Most Pokémon evolve when they reach a certain level, but some have other requirements. Pokémon that don't evolve at all won't have this bar.

TM, HM, EGG AND LEARNED MOVES

You can teach many TMs and HMs to your Pokémon if you have the corresponding Technical Machine or Hidden Machine. If a Pokémon can learn a TM or HM move, a dot will appear in its column. Egg Moves are special moves that a Pokémon might know if it hatches from an egg. Learned moves are those that a Pokémon learns from an in-game character.

REGIONAL VARIATION

Some Pokémon will learn level-up moves at different levels while in the Hoenn and Orre regions, and some will learn certain moves only in Kanto. For example, Charmander will learn Smokescreen at Level 19 in Kanto. If you take Charmander to Hoenn, it will get the move at Level 13. But if you keep Charmander in Kanto when it evolves to Level 13, it will learn Metal Claw—an attack it will pick up only when in Kanto. Dozens of Pokémon learn level-up moves differently in the three regions—you'll need to experiment to learn how. The Pokédex reveals which fall under the regional influence. Each is designated by the red icon next to its name.

BABY POKéMON ALERT!

You'll need to breed from a Pikachu or a Raichu to get the baby Pokémon, Pichu (see page 140). Pichu can learn level-up moves—Charm and Sweet Kiss—that Pikachu and Raichu can't.

DIVERGENT EVOLUTION!

Though Poliwhirl can evolve into Poliwrath with the Water Stone, it can also evolve into Politoed (see page 144) via a trade while it's holding a King's Rock. Politoed will learn level-up moves—Perish Song and Swagger—that Poliwhirl and Poliwrath can't.

DIVERGENT EVOLUTION!

Though Slowpoke can evolve into Slowbro via standard level-up evolution, it can also evolve into Slowking (see page 149) via a trade while it's holding a King's Rock. Slowking will learn one level-up move, Swagger, that the others can't, plus it has unbelievably high Special Defense.

You'll need to breed from a Hitmonlee, Hitmonchan or Hitmontop to get their preceding form, Tyrogue (see page 163). Though Tyrogue has poor stats and learns only Tackle, it's valuable because it's key for acquiring the three Pokémon noted above—none of them run wild. See page 26 for more details.

BABY POKéMON ALERT!

You'll need to breed from a Magmar to get the baby Pokémon, Magby (see page 165). Magby can hatch with amazing Egg Moves—such as Barrier and Cross Chop—that a wild Magmar can never learn.

THE INSIDE STORY ON DITTO'S TRANSFORM MOVE

Ditto has only one move, Transform, and can learn no HMs or TMs. The Pokémon has huge battle potential, however. Transform will morph Ditto into the kind of Pokémon that it faces in battle, complete with the moves that its foe has—truly amazing.

UNUSUAL EVOLUTIONS

Eevee can also evolve into Espeon (see page 147) and Umbreon (see page 148) by way of a complex evolutionary process that involves Friendship and a required evolutionary stop in Pokémon Ruby or Sapphire. Consult page 24 for full details on their highly unusual evolution method.

HELD-ITEM/TRADE EVOLUTION

Porygon will evolve into Porygon2 (see page 162), with higher hit points, Defense and Speed, if it's traded while holding a Up-Grade. Porygon2 can also learn Defense Curl—Porygon can't.

BABY POKéMON ALERT!

Normally, when you breed from Marill or Azumarill, you'll hatch a Marill. But if you have Marill hold a Sea Incense while it's breeding, it will instead produce the baby Pokémon, Azurill (see page 174), which can learn level-up moves that the others can't.

THE INSIDE STORY ON SKETCH

Smeargle's Sketch will copy any of his foe's attacks permanently—the Trainer gets to choose which one. Smeargle will learn Sketch many times. Like all Pokémon, it can know only four attacks, so it will need to begin forgetting Sketch-copied moves later in its development to get more opportunities to use the super-adaptable move.

POKéMON COLOSSEUM CONNECTION

To acquire the Legendary Ho-Oh, you'll need to accomplish two major objectives in Pokémon Colosseum. In Story mode, you must Snag and fully purify all 48 Shadow Pokémon. In Battle mode, you must use the Story mode team to beat all 100 Trainers on Mt. Battle in either the Single Battle or Double Battle challenge. Be sure to have a vacant spot in your PC's Pokémon Storage in the Orre region before you complete the Battle mode objective, or you'll need to start your Mt. Battle ascent from the very bottom.

LEGENDARY POKéMON ALERT!

Deoxys, a Pokémon that appears to take three forms, is truly the stuff of legend, and its Pokédex data remains to be seen. Though Deoxys is included in this section, with Hoenn Pokémon, how you can meet and catch it is a major mystery. Check pokemon.com and pokemon-games.com for emerging details.

Reading the Pokémon Locator

The Pokémon Locator shows where you can find every Pokémon that exists in Pokémon FireRed, LeafGreen, Ruby, Sapphire or Colosseum. In addition to indicating where you can catch the Pokémon, the Locator provides the Pokémon's Pokédex page number.

WHERE OR HOW TO OBTAIN

The location entry shows where you can find the Pokémon in the wild, and indicates if you need to do something special to obtain the Pokémon (such as hatch it from an Egg). FR stands for FireRed, LG for LeafGreen, RB for Ruby, SA for Sapphire and PC for Colosseum. If a Pokémon appears in multiple areas in the same game, each one will be listed.

TYPE, ABILITY & ITEM

A Pokémon's type and ability are listed directly below its name. In the case of wild Pokémon that hold items, the item will be listed and designated with R (Rare) or VR (Very Rare). Two of the game's Pokémon are always holding an item—the Snorlax in Pokémon FireRed and LeafGreen and the Vulpix in Pokémon Ruby and Sapphire.

HOW-TO-CATCH ICONS

The letters next to the Pokémon's name provide further detail on how to obtain it. Many Pokémon can be obtained in more than one way. If a Pokémon is available only through evolution, it won't have a letter designation.

- C — FIND THE POKéMON IN THE WILD
- R — USE ROCK SMASH TO FIND THE POKéMON IN THE WILD
- S — USE SURF TO FIND THE POKéMON IN THE WILD
- F — USE A FISHING ROD TO FIND THE POKéMON IN THE WILD
- E — HATCH THE POKéMON FROM AN EGG
- T — OBTAIN THE POKéMON BY COMPLETING A TASK

AVAILABILITY

Pokémon are more common in some areas than in others. The number of wild Pokémon that you can find in an area is indicated by four descriptors—Many, Some, Few and Rare. Only Pokémon from FireRed and LeafGreen will have such a designation.

POKéDEX REDIRECT

This number will point you to the Pokémon's in-guide Pokédex page. The Pokédex contains detailed information on the Pokémon, including height, weight, moves and more. (Note that not every Pokémon will have its moves listed.) The Pokédex also provides information about catching special Pokémon, such as those you must breed backward from an Egg.

POKéMON COMBAT CHART

When planning a direct-damage strike, consider your target's Pokémon type then maximize your attack's damage by striking with an attack type to which it's weak (+)—you'll score a double-damage multiplier. Avoid hitting with attack types that the defender can resist (-), or you'll be penalized with a half-damage multiplier. Some Pokémon are dual-types; look up the attack's effect on both attack types, then multiply them together.

DAMAGE MULTIPLIERS

x2	Damage for + attacks
x2	Critical-hit damage for lucky strikes
x1.5	Damage if the attack type matches the attacking Pokémon's type
x0.5	Damage for - attacks
x0	Damage for = attacks

PHYSICAL ATTACKS

When slamming a foe with a physical attack (types noted in black), the aggressor's Attack stat pushes the direct damage higher, while the target's Defense stat drives the damage lower.

SPECIAL ATTACKS

BATTLE MOVES

P=Power

AC=Accuracy

Physical Attacks

Special Attacks

2-on-2 Battle Range:
1=Move is effective against one foe or partner.
2=Move is effective against both foes at once.
3=Move is effective against both foes and partner at once.
S=Move is effective on only the Pokémon that executes the move.
R=Move takes effect on random Pokémon chosen from both foes and partner.

Move	Type	P	AC	PP	2-on-2	DA	Effect

POKéMON EGG TYPES

Once you know the ins and outs of Pokémon breeding—see pages 27 and 28—you'll be well on your way to creating incredibly powerful Pokémon. Two Pokémon with a matching Egg Type have a chance of producing a Pokémon Egg, so use the following list to find breedable pairs from all Pokémon from Kanto, Hoenn and Orre. If a Pokémon has two Egg Types, you can breed it by one or the other type.
